Recovery Shown by Insurance Business

Increase in Life Insurance Policies; Reduction in Loans and Surrenders.

Life insurance, in its relation to financial affairs bears much the same relation as steel to industrial affairs, each serving as a barometer of conditions in its field. The 1936 life insurance record reflects a steady improvement in the financial position of hundreds of thousands of Canadians.

"Not only is there a substantial increase in number of policyholders and in total insurance in force," said Mr. V. R. Smith, President, Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association, and Director and General Manager, Confederation Life Association, when interviewed at Toronto last week, "but there is a distinct decline in policy loans and in surrenders of existing policies. This is perhaps the most gratifying feature of the life insurance record for 1936. But from a national viewpoint, it is equally significant that new business in the past year showed an improvement in every branch. Final returns for December have not yet been compiled, but the total of new, paid-for business will be appreciably ahead of 1935. Eight of the nine provinces show increases, and it is particularly pleasing to note that, even in Alberta, where arbitrary interest and debt legislation have borne heavily upon the hard-earned savings of thrifty citizens, insurance sales have shown remarkable increases during recent months. There could be no more striking tribute to the security and stability of life insurance in the public estimation.

Dealing with the general improvement in Canada and with the larger economic problems facing the Dominion, Mr. Smith emphasized the fact that Canada is primarily an agricultural country. "It is gratifying," he said, "to find that the past year has seen a marked improvement in this phase of our economic life. Prices of farm products have improved substantially. Wheat is now commanding the best price in years, and this year's crop, while of less volume, is estimated to be forty or more millions in value above the 1935 crop.

"Our mineral production has reached an annual volume of staggering proportions but as yet the surface has only been scratched, and we seem assured, for many years to come, of a continued stimulation in this activity.

"Canada's exports continue to improve, and it is particularly reassuring to note that agricultural products comprise an increasing proportion of a continued stimulation in this activity.

"Canada's exports continue to improve, and it is particularly reassuring to note that agricultural products comprise an increasing proportion of these. Our imports have also increased, but the balance of trade is predominantly in our favour, and it appears will be the most favorable since 1926, if not one of the best in our history.

"The continued activity in the lumbering industry, the improvement in the newspaper market, and the most favourable tourist traffic since 1929, all add to the favorable picture of the past year.

"The other side of the picture, however, must not be lost sight of, and there is no doubt that a disturbing situation has been created by provincial legislative interference with contracts. Legislation which benefits the debtor at the expense of the creditor, without regard to the debtor's ability to pay, is manifestly unfair. Financial institutions and private creditors have shown, on the whole, during the distress of the past few years, a commendable ability to appreciate the lot of the debtor who has met with financial misfortune, and has demonstrated a willingness to deviate from the terms of the contract by mutual agreement, where the circumstances of an individual case so warranted. This has been the attitude of the life insurance companies, and I consider that this is the only honest and ethical way of taking care of the situation.

"It has been said that the creditor is regarded to-day as Public Enemy No. 1 and I am afraid it is only too true that this belief does exist in some quarters. So much attention has been devoted to the plight of the debtor that the position of the creditor has been overlooked, and it seems to me that the time is now overdue when thinking people should be advised of the full story.

"It is not generally realized that any action which tends to weaken the sanctity of contracts is not only harmful in itself, to our whole economic structure but adversely affects those people who are least able to bear the loss. A popular misconception exists that the leading classes of this country are a few wealthy individuals and fabulously rich corporations. Such is far from the case. The vast sums which have been employed in building up the Dominion, in exploring our natural resources and in providing the public services and conveniences we now enjoy, have not been supplied by the few but have been supplied by thousands upon thousands of citizens of modest earning power who, through self-sacrifice and the practice of thrift and economy, have entrusted their savings, in many cases their whole savings, to insurance companies, banks, and mortgage and trust companies, for investment. In most cases these savings are quite small and a loss of only a small part of them is quite sufficient to bring distress and anxiety.

"Accordingly, the interests of these small creditors, who are the backbone of the country and who greatly outnumber the minority of the debtor class, must not be overlooked. It is always possible to effect adjustments in deserving cases between creditor and debtor by conciliation and by mutual agreement, and, in the interest not only of preserving our national integrity and credit but in preserving intact the savings of countless small investors, this policy should be followed rather than one that is immoral, unjust and discriminatory between citizens.

"Another rather disturbing development has been the growth, during the past year in some of the provinces, of a policy of economic nationalism. This theory which is in direct conflict with the spirit that embued the Fathers of Confederation, must not be permitted to go unchallenged if we are to continue as a country with common interests and ideals. If we are to build a nation on the northern half of this North American continent, we must stand together as one and not as an aggregation of independent countries.

"Some of our provinces are still facing financial problems of no little magnitude, notwithstanding that they have made earnest efforts to reduce expenditures and to balance their budgets. One of the difficulties is that these provinces have not been successful in obtaining all the advantages of the so-called "easy money" market of to-day. It has been suggested that Royal Commissions be appointed to investigate the financial basis of Confederation, to undertake an exhaustive survey of the allocation of revenues and of social and financial responsibility as between the Dominion and the Provinces, and to examine ways and means whereby every Province, without repudiating any of its obligations, will be able to obtain the maximum advantage to which it is entitled of the existing easy money market—not only for itself but also for its municipalities. If this is done, I think we will have taken a long step in preparing the way for the removal of many of the difficulties we now face.

"Each year executives of life insurance companies refer to the unjust taxes on life insurance—a tax on thrift—but each year finds the situation unremedied. Were the public fully enlightened on the circumstances and made tax-conscious, the 3,500,000 life insurance policyholders in Canada could very effectively make their voices heard.

"We still have the railway problem, and there are other obstacles to a real revival in international trade. Unemployment, while improved, is still a considerable burden, but, despite these and other problems, the forces of recovery are very much in the ascendant, and we Canadians may look forward to the future with renewed confidence and hope."

John Wah Met Death Calmly and Coolly

Chinaman Executed at Hailyoury Jail for Murder in Timmins in November '35.

John Wah, 56-year-old Chinaman, was duly hanged on Friday morning last at Hailyoury jail for the murder of a fellow countryman, Doon Hong, who died from stab wounds at Timmins in November of 1935. Woon Hong was stabbed several times with a butcher knife, but though it was expected from the first that the wounds were fatal he lived for several days. Within a short time of the stabbing Timmins police had John Wah under arrest and held in connection with the stabbing. In his room police found a knife with bloodstains still on it, and it was generally believed that his was the knife with which the fatal wounds were inflicted. Other Chinese also gave evidence to the effect that there had been a quarrel between Woon Hong and John Wah and that after being ejected from the store at Pine street, south, Wah had gone to the place where he was employed as cook, later returning and resuming the quarrel with Woon Hong. A couple of the Chinese said they had seen John Wah deliver the blows with the knife that eventually caused death. The accused had a very disquieted and unsatisfactory account to give of the affair and in certain vital parts of his story was shown by the Timmins police to be wrong. At his trial at Cochrane before Mr. Justice Kellar McKay last year, John Wah agreed with a great part of the evidence against him, but still claimed that he was not guilty. The jury found him guilty and the judge sentenced him to be hanged on Jan. 8th. An unusual feature of the case was that after his arrest John Wah did not appear to have any assistance or support from any of his fellow countrymen. It is said that during the long months he was awaiting execution, no other Chinamen visited him or tried to assist him. It may have been this lack of support from his own race that prompted other efforts in his behalf or it may have been the sympathy that is usually aroused by those who appear to be friendless, but in any event there was strong effort made to secure a reprieve for the man. Petitions started in Cochrane where he was tried were signed by many throughout the district and forwarded to Ottawa asking clemency. Last week, however, word from Ottawa suggested that the Dept. of Justice had refused any reprieve or clemency and that as a consequence the sentence of death would be carried out. The death sentence was carried out sixteen minutes after midnight Thursday night last, and five minutes later a coroner's jury declared John Wah dead. Witnesses at the hanging included the jail physician, Dr. W. C. Arnold; Sheriff J. D. Mackay, of Cochrane; Sheriff W. C. Theurek, Hailyoury; Inspector Creasy, of the Ontario provincial police and eight other provincial police officers; Warden Charles Austin, of the Hailyoury jail; and two R.C.M.P. constables.

John Wah came to Timmins a few years ago from the Pacific Coast where relatives of his are said to be still living. He was reputed to be a Christian, and for a time at least identified himself with the Salvation Army in the West. Reports from Hailyoury state that he was calm and collected all through the days of waiting for execution, and that he spent the greater part of the time reading the Bible. He went quietly to his execution, and in response to the formal question before his death he maintained silence. He was buried in the jail yard, there being no one claiming the body or asking for its disposal otherwise.

Commends Sportsmanship of Joseph A. Bradette, M.P.

(From Sudbury Star)
A well-constructed, attractive public building is something in which any community usually takes distinct pride, and ordinarily is of considerable advantage to the residents. Not only is it a convenience, but it forms, in a sense, a point around which development may take place.

The opening of a new post office and customs house at Cochrane on New Year's Day, therefore, was made the occasion of some congratulatory and celebration. The building is a child of both the Conservative and Liberal governments at Ottawa, the one having started and the other having completed its construction. The citizens are no doubt praising those who were instrumental in having it erected.

Incidentally, the ceremony at Cochrane shows that on occasion the amenities of life, even of public life, are observed. For Mr. Joseph A. Bradette, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Temiskaming North, paid tribute to the Bennett government for having voted the appropriation for the building and actually got construction under way before being defeated. In this connection he mentioned Mr. D. A. Chenier, who was his Conservative opponent, an unsuccessful one, in the 1930 election.

It matters little whether the man elected be Grit or Tory. It matters much that he should truly seek the betterment of the district he represents, observes The Windsor Daily Star. Similarly, whether a government be Grit or Tory matters little in the long run. It is the good it accomplished for the country that will mark its place in history.

Further Diamond Drilling to be Done at MyLamaque

Officials of MyLamaque Gold Mines, Ltd., in a progress report released this week, advise that in view of the favourable results encountered in diamond drilling some 7 1/2 acres out of the 725 acres held by the company, a contract has been awarded for further diamond drilling, which will be undertaken on another section of the property. During the last few weeks a survey was conducted on southwestern section of the claims. A new well-mineralized vein was disclosed and under systematic trenching was opened up for an appreciable length showing a value of $14.70 over the width of the vein.

The report points out that to date several well-mineralized quartz veins have been determined from 5 to 22 feet in width. In the No. 4 drill hole a section 10 feet in width returned a gold value of $21.70 per ton. In reference to current drill operations it is stated that drill holes No. 7 and 8 have been spotted to cut the extension of this high grade occurrence and results are expected by the middle of the current month.

In the centre of the property a large granodiorite dome has been discovered and it is the intention of officials to thoroughly explore this occurrence by diamond drill in the near future. Two drills are in operation.

Porcupine McNabb Reports Some Drilling Assays

Adding to the interest in the eastern Porcupine area, around the top end of Night Hawk Lake and eastward, is a drill hole reported by Porcupine McNabb Gold Mines. No. 2 hole of the present series, 190 feet down, intersected five feet running $12.60. This section is contained in a length of about 30 feet of quartz vein and stringers, the rest of which ran low grade values. Frank J. McFarlane, president, adds that the results were had in a breccia formation in the south bed of sediments. The property lies south of Electric Porcupine, from which encouraging sluice samples were recently reported. McNabb has 1040 acres and is closing a deal for 320 acres more, all the claims being contiguous.

Mr. McFarlane says that it is the intention to put in at least six more drill holes in the vicinity of No. 2, and about 50 feet apart.

In November it was said that 70 feet of core from the first hole would be assayed. The values had been low. While three or four other holes in an early geologizing campaign brought little or nothing in the way of gold values, the company has had a certain amount of encouragement and is beginning to block the sections where they can localize work on their large holdings.

Work on New Property of Goldale Near Timmins

(From Northern Miner)
S. Saxton of Goldale Mines has left for the company's new property about 20 miles southwest of Timmins, where an interesting gold find was made recently. It is planned to open up the occurrence as thoroughly as possible at surface so camps will be erected and a crew taken on. Grab and chip samples of the heavier sulphide mineralization have returned good gold assays in each case while the slightly mineralized samples gave low returns. The mineralization is largely arsenopyrite and pyrrhotite and a rough east-west strike is indicated. There is only one good trench exposure of the vein so little can be said at this time. The persistency of the gold, however, in all the heavy sulphides exposed is considered very encouraging.

Commercial Bowling to Start on Friday

Business Session to be Held Before Games Commence.

The Commercial bowling league will get under way this coming Friday for their second half of the season's schedule.

There will also be a short business meeting to make arrangements for the game to be played in the first half between the T. & N. O. and Power to decide who will take the leadership. Another business matter to be decided is the handicap.

Bowling last season under the handicap system made all the games close and exciting and each team finished up close at the end of the season.

Kirkland Men Given Jail Term at Windsor

Found Guilty of Attempting to Sell Fake "Gold."

Two men, Louis Jdzkowski and Joseph Cahub, were sentenced at Windsor, Ont., on Friday to three months in jail on charges of attempting to sell a bag of imitation gold to Charles Selter, Windsor second-hand dealer, for $600. The two men pleaded guilty so little of the details of the case came out in court at Windsor. The public would be interested in learning something of the origin of the fake "gold" sold, and attempted to be sold, not only in the South but also in the North.

Jdzkowski, who is said to be about thirty years of age, gave Kirkland Lake as his home town. Crown Attorney James Allen told the court that Jdzkowski had been sentenced to four months for false pretences at Kirkland Lake. Despatches from Windsor also suggest that he is wanted at Toronto for a similar charge and that when his trial was up last week at Windsor it was debated whether sentence should be passed on him then or left until he was tried at Toronto. Magistrate Brodie decided that if the Toronto authorities head a case against the man they should have him rearrested after he completes his term at Windsor.

Joseph Cahub, the other man in the case, is sixty years old, and gave the police a Toronto address. It is thought that he also was formerly of Kirkland Lake.

The two men were arrested at Windsor on Dec. 21 at the Selter store. Mr. Selter had called the police after the pair had attempted to sell him a bag of "gold" for $600. The fake "gold" was found in the possession of the men by the police who had the stuff assayed. The returns from the assay suggested that the supposed "gold" was simply a combination of lead and zinc with a very light covering of gilt.

Toronto Police Arrest Driver of Shaky Auto

Saturday afternoon in Toronto a car alleged to have side-swiped two parked automobiles on Dundas street was stopped by the city police. They found the car to be nine years old and in very bad running condition. Police say that while they had an eye on the car the engine dropped out of it and the wheels collapsed. The car was so old, they told newspapermen, that when attempt was made to drive the car away from the scene of the accident, this was not possible, and a truck had to be called to haul the wreck away to the police garage. The driver of the car was placed under arrest on a charge of being drunk while in charge of a motor car. The chief trouble the police may have will possibly be to prove that the machine in question, or the parts of it that may be assembled again, really deserve the name of a motor car or automobile. Also, it is suggested that the driver may be charged with reckless driving for attempting to drive a car of this description.
