Social Evening by the Ladies' Auxiliary

Event on Monday Evening Sets a High Standard for Similar Events. Fine Programme Much Enjoyed.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion seems to have hit upon the right idea of maintaining the interests of its members and also of increasing the same. This was shown in no small way by the happy gathering on Monday evening last in the Legion hall.

Previous to the social event a short initiation meeting was held in which five ladies took the obligation of membership. Plans were also made at this meeting for a "500" to be held in the Legion hall on Monday, January 25th. In all probability a Valentine's Day dance will be held in the Croatian hall, Schumacher, if arrangements can be completed in time. With the singing of the National Anthem the meeting closed and the social got under way.

There was some exceptionally good talent on hand to entertain the happy and cheerful gathering. After a couple of dances, the newly formed "Porcupine Quartette" rendered two very beautiful ballads. The blending of the voices was perfect, and the harmony was a source of great pleasure to those privileged to hear the quartette's first public appearance. The quartette consists of Messrs Percy Harris, bass; Keith Henderson, baritone; Wilson Thompson, 2nd tenor; Ray Wales, 1st tenor. Each member has a well-trained and cultivated voice and the whole made their selections a high spot of the evening.

Mrs. Gay, another of the local artists of ability was heard to good advantage in "Tatters." As an encore the singer rendered a popular old favourite: "Shine on Harvest Moon."

The banjo selections of Mr. Bert Rowe, showed the mastery this musician has over his instrument. His first selection was Brahms' "Hungarian Dance, No. 5." The insistent applause was responded to by the "Drum Major" march. Both selections were much enjoyed by the audience.

Miss Ruth Koski, another of the town's younger artists and who possesses a strong, well-cultured voice was heard in popular hits of the day. These were received with much appreciation, the gathering wishing for more of the same kind. Mr. Harry Hopkins accompanied Miss Koski on the piano.

Dancing filled out the programme, with W.A. Devine and Bert Rowe providing the music. Refreshments were of a high standard also, and all-in-all the night was another big success from all angles.

Rome Police Break up Religious Denomination

Huntingdon Gleaner:—A sect of people calling themselves "Tremolani" or "Shakers" has been broken up by the Rome police. The "Shakers," who seemed to have revived a former American religious cult, carried on their queer form of worship in a villa on the outskirts of Rome. There they worked themselves into a semi-hysterical state by shaking and trembling. Various ranks were observed in this strange society. There was, for example, a "Shaker-in-Chief" and an "Assistant to the Shaker-in-Chief." Police arrested all the worshippers during a raid on the villa.

Feeling Very Strong in Kirkland Circles

Objection Decided in Matter of Filching of Income Tax

Elsewhere in this issue will be found one article from The Northern News of Kirkland Lake in regard to the Heppburn government action in taking away the income tax monies from municipalities. Here is another from the same newspaper:—

Losing $12,000
Kirkland Lake stands to lose $12,648.49, the estimate based on last year's collections here, if the Heppburn Government persists in its intention to take from the municipalities the right to collect income tax in return for the province taking over the share of the Old Age Pension and Mother's Allowance payment made by such municipalities. The Northern News was told.

"It will mean better than two mills on the tax rate," a reporter was told. In Timmins and Tisdale Township, where protests are being considered, the loss will be almost as great. Figured on a per capita basis, better than $12,000 collected from 18,000 people, the income tax revenue is a bigger item here than in any other place in the province, local officials feel.

They take as their example of the average in Old Ontario, the case of Toronto, where it was figured $400,000 could be collected in the income tax levy from a population in excess of 800,000 people.

"Not only is it a more serious blow here in the way of present revenue than in any other place, it is something which means a great deal more for the future than in other places with Kirkland Lake growing faster than any other city in the province," said a local official.

Completes $20,000 Loss

When formal protest is made to the Ontario Government it is likely that it will be pointed out that the income tax move will make $20,000 lost here in revenue by Queen's Park enactments in the last year or so. The items making up the $20,000 figure as listed in the clerk-treasurer's office here are: Loss on the township's share of police court fines when the province decided to take 40 per cent., $4500; loss of grant to public health nurses, $500; the grant for excess on the hospitalization of indigents, $2,000; and now, loss of income tax revenue, $12,648.49.

Unfairness of the Croll legislation on income tax as councillors here see it is that many municipalities in Old Ontario which made only a pretence of collecting the income levy before, did not count on it in listing possible receipts, get the advantage for old age pensions and Mother's Allowance cases for surrendering a privilege they never used.

No payments are made here for Mother's Allowance or Old Age Pension funds, it was learned at the clerk-treasurer's office, but the municipality has only been incorporated since 1919 and there are no cases in the pension class for which Kirkland Lake is directly responsible, although there are pensioners here who have been in the mining district all their lives, and come here to live and collect their pension by reason of it being the most convenient centre.

Must Speed Protest
Official notification of the impending change was only received in yesterday's mail and since the session of the Ontario Legislature, at which it is proposed to put through the necessary legislation, takes place this coming Friday, January 15, any protest will have to be made the first part of this week.

"It just means if we lose this that real estate will have to take up the slack," is one local opinion from an early survey with that course suggesting a move affecting everybody in a city where there are many small property owners.

Ontario's government could get as much money as is needed without taking away Kirkland Lake's income tax privilege, it is claimed, for it is under-

Passenger Elevator Now in Use at Empire Hotel

First Timmins Building in Business Area to Instal This Convenience. Twenty-four New Rooms Added to Big Hotel. Extension to Empire Hotel Now Completed. New Features.

Although the date for the opening dance in the new Empire hotel ball room has not yet been set, the parts of the hotel recently added are now in use.

The Empire is the first public building in the business section of Timmins to instal a regular passenger elevator and this is now in use. It finds a ready patronage and is proving a great convenience to guests.

Twenty-four more rooms were made available with the completion of the addition. These are of a pleasantly roomy design and have many features that make them among the most comfortable to be found in the North.

Lavish Decoration

The ball room which is the women's beverage room ordinarily is the most striking part of the addition. In decoration it is lavish, from the intricate pattern of the ceiling, done in pastel shades, to the smooth, narrow-board hardwood dance floor. Sound-absorbent wall board, such as was used in the new Palace theatre, is laid in a pleasant geometrical pattern on the walls. The delicately moulded cornice is also reminiscent of the Palace decoration and flashes with touches of bright colour.

The lighting is perhaps the most unusual part of the ball room. Large inverted-bell-shaped fixtures of dull finished metal hang from the ceiling and give an indirect light. Through a special control these may be dimmed, so that coloured light shine up the outside of the bell to give a rather exotic illumination. Lights along the walls are of the same type but are half-bell in shape. Leo Mascioli had a long search through Toronto and Montreal before he found the fixtures he finally chose. They are said to be the finest made.

Buffet-Supper Room
A large orchestra shell is provided at the south end of the great hall, and to the west there is a large terrace-floored room in which buffet-suppers will be served when the ball room is engaged for an evening.

Much of the space in the basement is taken up with men's and women's rest rooms, check rooms, and lounge rooms.

Heating and ventilation of the place is accomplished by a series of outlets flush with the wall. The dance floor will accommodate 200 couples, Edward Charron, who is in charge of both beverage rooms at the Empire, told The Advance yesterday. Mr. Charron came to Timmins from Montreal to manage that part of the hotel. Total accommodation in Empire beverage rooms is now 112 in the men's and 156 in the women's.

Kirkland Council Agree With Timmins

Will Join Tisdale and Timmins in Measures of Protest

(From Northern News)
Meeting yesterday afternoon, Township council decided on immediate protest against the government's action in taking away its right to collect income tax, and a resolution was drafted to be forwarded to Queen's Park and to other northern municipalities affected. Reeve Carter and his colleagues went further in deciding to take part in a conference which, it is understood, is being called by the town of Timmins and the municipality of Tisdale, affected to about the same cash extent as Kirkland Lake.

Text of the resolution, passed unanimously, read: "That this council go on record as being strongly opposed to the action of the provincial government in taking away from this municipality the revenue which was formerly derived from income taxes, which policy, if carried out, will mean a difference in the tax rate of this municipality of approximately 2½ mills on the dollar.

"And that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the provincial government and to the other Northern Ontario municipalities.
"And that the clerk be authorized to accompany the copy of the resolution with a letter setting out the encroachments on the revenue of this municipality that have been made by the government."
The Main Sting
In the last paragraph lies the main sting, for there are the cut on the hospitalization of indigents, and the percentage now levied on police court fines, amongst other things to be mentioned.

As Councillor Charlie Tressider remarked, the government planned, in the legislation proposed, to "relieve us of something we never paid, and take away $12,000."
He referred to the fact that the proposal was in return for the money taken away to pay mothers' allowances and old age pensions in full, a call which this municipality is too young to have the obligation for. Reeve Carter remarked that as a matter of fact mothers' allowances did cost the township something, because the allowance was so small that the township had to make up the difference on relief, owing to the cost of living.

Township Treasurer McBain reported that according to word from Timmins there was already talk of secession, and Mr. Tressider remarked that the government policy looked like an attempt to break the little fellow.

Mr. McBain said that some municipalities had never bothered to collect income tax. He wondered what incentive there was to stay solvent. He pointed out that bonds were sold to the public on the basis of so much revenue, and that this basis was being changed overnight.

It was Councillor M. T. Maguire who pressed for the sending of a letter amplifying the details of Teck Township's protest. He added that it was impossible to estimate coming revenue, this proposal of the demand of the municipal board in connection with the vocational school, dealt with in another news article on this page.

He thought, in connection with the income tax proposal, that it was up to council to go after the cabinet directly.
Compensation, Silicosis
There was also some discussion on the government's attitude on compensation. Councillor Leslie Hornick pointed out that miners contracted silicosis, for which they should receive compensation, and that then the mines turned them down for tuberculosis.

He added that it took a real expert to tell the difference.
Mr. Maguire thought there should be a northern compensation board for miners.

Councillor W. J. Baragar suggested that this compensation should be charged against mines income tax.
He made reference to the practice of giving men suffering from silicosis surface work for a year, and then easing them out.
Globe and Mail:—Of course, it had to come. Scottish professor says the new King and Queen also should be crowned at Edinburgh, and that a Royal court should be established in that city.
