Girls of C. G. I. T. Hold Happy Evening

Timmins C.G.I.T. Entertains "Missionary Mothers" and Guests from Schumacher and South Porcupine.

The Canadian Girls in Training of the Timmins United Church were "at home" to their "missionary mothers" on Tuesday evening. Schumacher and South Porcupine C.G.I.T. were also guests. There were probably between 80 and 100 present in all—a very gay and most unusual St. Patrick's party.

The church basement glowed in the light from many green candles. One end of the room was partially curtained off for the dramatized review of the story of Ling Yang. The other was given a colourful setting as a background for the shorter programme numbers. Each of the C.G.I.T. groups had a candle-light tea table of its own and the middy-clad members and their guests were thus seated in six social groups around the tables. At the conclusion of the programme one of the girls as hostess poured tea while others assisted in serving sandwiches and shamrock cookies.

Shortly after arrival while acquaintances were being made, camp songs were sung. Jean Andrews and Hazel Gilbert each led in a special number. Then Miss Susie Smyth as chairman welcomed the visitors. Miss Smith explained that the six Timmins groups are all affiliated with the Women's Missionary Society, which as senior missionary organization, is looked upon as the mother organization of all the younger missionary groups in the church.

For the past couple of months the missionary study of the C.G.I.T., "People of Other Lands" has been centred particularly on the story of Ling Yang, a young Chinese schoolboy and his sister, Ling May. This was interestingly portrayed in a group of scenes depicting the new China, and the following girls took part:—

Ling Yang—Jean Warren.
Ling May—May Wong.
Pastor Wang—Peggy Shaw.
Magistrate—Katherine McWell.
English doctor—Ethel Bateman.
Chinese woman—Mabel Wong.

The girl who so excellently told the story throughout and linked the scenes was Frances Franklin of Driftwood, near Cochrane, the I.O.D.E. scholarship winner.

Others who contributed delightful numbers to the thoroughly enjoyable programme were:

A Schumacher girl did a military tap dance; Peggy Williams, piano solo; Francis Franklin, a reading entitled "Mr. Dooley"; Dolores Guitard, Schumacher, violin solo; Sheila Harper, an oration on the Life of St. Patrick; Ethel Bateman, a reading, "The Irish Philosopher"; Dorothy Eddleston, Irish tap dance.

There was a poster contest also in connection with the missionary project. These made an interesting exhibit along the west wall. The award was given to the Mariners group with an artistic design, the work of Phyllis Clark and Adele Hodgins.

Mrs. Monck as president of the W.M.S. in a happy little speech expressed the thanks of the guests and congratulated the girls and their leaders, Miss Smyth, Mrs. Anglin, Mrs. Greig, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Runnalls and Mrs. Orr.

Iroquois Falls, Ont., March 18, 1937.—(Special to The Advance)—Clark Davis, for years Abitibi Woods Manager here, who, with Mrs. Davis and son Bennie left Sunday for Toronto where Mr. Davis will be employed at the Abitibi head office, was given a send-off at a party held in his honour at the Curling Club Saturday evening. ### Iroquois Falls has Tie in School Hockey

Second Game Played Tuesday Night Ends One All.

Iroquois Falls, Ont., March 18, 1937.—(Special to The Advance)—The second game of the playoffs between the public and separate school teams for the local school hockey championship, played Tuesday evening, resulted in a 1-1 draw, the championship going to the public school by virtue of their 6-2 win in the first game.

The teams fought as only kids' teams can fight. The two goals were scored in the first seconds of play and from then on stellar goal tending marked the game. On many occasions players broke through the defence for hard shots on the goal tender, but both goalies were unbeatable. Clark, in particular, played an exceptional game in the nets. The public school team appeared to have the edge in weight, but this was more than counteracted by the skillful stickhandling of Laverdure and Gauthier of the separate school team. Both these players need only a little more brawn to qualify for juvenile or junior ranks. On the other hand the separate school had a "peewee line" consisting of J. Charron, J. Sandrin and R. Paquette, the combined weight of which would hardly exceed 200 pounds.

Jack Olavson, public school defenceman, went through alone early in the first period for the first score of the game, pushing the puck past Gignac. Laverdure, star winger of the separate school boys, soon tied the score on a clever play, stickhandling his way through the defence and beating Clark on a hard shot. Roy Smith drew the first penalty for hooking but the opposition was unable to capitalize. This proved to be the case on all occasions when penalties were handed out. The lads had apparently not been coached in how to take advantage of such breaks. Charron, pint-sized winger of the separate school team, was through for a sure goal in this frame but failed to lift the puck and Clark cleared. Columbus drew a trip, putting the public school a man up, but no goal resulted. Jack Olavson drew a similar trip and Columbus again went off for the same offence. Both teams finished the first period a man shy. The separate school opened hard in the second, apparently trying hard to overcome the 4-goal lead on the round, and Gauthier and Laverdure were distinct threats. Clark broke their hearts on several occasions when they had only him to beat. Laverdure persisted in offside in this frame and many dangerous separate school attacks had to be called back by Referee Bob Shaw. Laroque and Laverdure combined on a very clever play. Laverdure drew a penalty for boarding Smith, and McLeod, one of the best stickhandlers of the public school team, broke through but Gignac came out to make a sensational save. Roy Smith, husky public school defenceman, who packs a shot that would be a credit to any junior, drove several from the wing during this period, although almost lifted off his feet Gignac wasn't letting them past. Gauthier broke clean through in the third, to be robbed again by Clark. Laroque went through and passed out to Laverdure, parked in front of Clark, but the latter was too good again. Gauthier drew a penalty late in the third for elbowing Brown and McDonald drew another a few seconds later for boarding Smith. The two penalties shot the separate school's chances, but Laverdure kept on trying and a few seconds before the bell hurt himself in a collision with Jack Olavson.

Separate School—Goal, R. Gignac; defence, C. Columbus and E. McDonald; centre, Laroque; wings, Gauthier and Laverdure; alternates, J. Charron, J. Sandrin, R. Paquette, A. Cyooski, M. Smith.

Public School—Goal, Jim Clark; defence, Roy Smith, Jack Olavson; centre, Don McLeod; wings, Henry Whitehead and Alvin Brown; alternates, Bob Olavson, Ed. Goodman, Ed. Charron, Jim White, Keith McLaren.

Referee: Bob Shaw.

Sir Austen Chamberlain Dead at the Age of 73 Years

Sir Austen Chamberlain, K.G., one of Britain's greatest Imperialists who twice failed to attain the goal of his political life—the Premiership—when it was almost within his grasp, died Tuesday night in his London home.

Death, which came at 6 p.m. (1 p.m. E.S.T.), was due to a heart attack.

The tall, sharp-faced statesman, who had been confined to his Egerton Terrace residence for several days, arose from his bed and started to descend the stairs to his library when he collapsed. He died a few minutes later without regaining consciousness.

Sir Austen, a half-brother of Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, had been ill only a few days. He was 73 years old.

Sir Austen was made a Knight of the Garter in 1925 for his work in framing the Locarno Treaty. He was then Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. He said not long before his death that he wanted to be remembered, not as a successful champion of tariff reform in fulfilment of his father's dreams, but as the author of Locarno.

Sir Austen left his last government office when he resigned from the post of First Lord of the Admiralty in October, 1931, and became a powerful "perfect" of the Government backbenchers in the House of Commons. For 40 years before there was hardly an office in the Government that he had not held—except the Premiership. No other individual except Lloyd George had been in the House of Commons longer than Chamberlain, who was first elected in 1891 when he was 28 years old.

Lloyd George, informed of his colleague's death, said: "The news is shocking."

"He was one of the most upright, and most straightforward men I ever met in my whole life."

Death This Morning of Mrs. Corkill, Schumacher

The death occurred in St. Mary's hospital of Mrs. Frederick Corkill, of Schumacher. She had been ill for the past two months and had been a patient in the hospital for some time.

Surviving her are her husband, Reginald Corkill, two sisters, Mrs. J. R. Hawley, of Gold Centre, and Mrs. Martin Rutherford, who lives in Ireland. George Hawley of Gold Centre is a nephew.
