Prizes for Boys and Girls by Horticultural Society

New Plan Adopted, Seeds Being Given to Schools and Pupils to Cultivate Plots in School Grounds. List of Prizes in the Flower Classes at the Timmins Horticultural Society Show This Year.

Timmins Horticultural Society this year will hold its annual exhibition of flowers and vegetables on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 30th and 31st. The show will likely be held in the curling rink.

Already the society is busy with plans and arrangements to assure the success of the event. Below will be found some particulars of this year's show, together with a complete list of the classes in flowers. The prizes for vegetables will be much the same as last year.

Juvenile Classes

This year a new plan is being tried out in regard to the idea of interesting the youngsters in horticulture. Seeds are to be given out to all the schools, and the children will cultivate plots on the school grounds. Some of the schools are enthusiastic about the plan and are taking it up with interest and energy. Prizes will be given about the time of the show for the best plots at the schools, and also for the best flowers at the show from these plots.

Garden Competition

The garden competition will follow the same lines as in previous years, with the usual good prizes, and with classes for different sizes and locations of gardens.

SUBURBY MAN REPORTED IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Little change was reported to-night in the condition of Vidal Beaudin, 59, Noelville farmer, who was badly injured when hit by an automobile as he was leaving church Sunday. He was rushed to hospital at Sudbury in the caboose of a freight train, and is now in serious condition. Provincial Constable R. E. Penner has paid a visit to Noelville to investigate the accident.

Special Observance of Vimy Day by the Legion

Timmins branch of the Canadian Legion has preparations well under way for an interesting observance of Vimy Day, Friday, April 9th. It is planned to have the event similar to last year—a buffet supper and programme of music and literary numbers. A few brief addresses may also be on the programme.

World Events:—The director of the publishing house, Albright-Segati, has been condemned to five years' exile because he declared in a private conversation that he loved his dog better than Mussolini.

Says Reeve Should be Present at Meetings

Tisdale Ratepayer Writes About Last Meeting of Township Council.

Timmins, Ont., March 30, 1937

To the Editor of The Advance, Timmins.

Dear Sir:—Being a Tisdale reader of The Advance I will appreciate space, within the medium of its columns, for the following.

As year after year has rolled along my interest and study of the duties and work that are attendant with the office of a presiding reeve and council of Tisdale township, has gradually ascended. Like most taxpayers—who vote at election time—I have dwelled (between election periods) upon the crest of that visionary, although apparently bright hope for the future. Now, however, since I attended the regular meeting for Tisdale reeve and council (Reeve Kerr having been conspicuous by his absence) on March 22nd my ray of hope is almost as dark as the dark ages. Thus has it become so, solely because of Reeve Kerr's pleasure-seeking conduct, having caused him to prefer going all the way to Sudbury to attend a hockey game rather than remain for the meeting and occupy the chair to which he was elected last December, for the purpose of discussing the important business of Tisdale taxpayers.

Apart from sickness or anything worse, Reeve Kerr by absenting himself from what should have proved a meeting for discussing business of very interesting import to the taxpayers—and flying to the hockey game in preference to "flying and landing" into the council meeting, displayed a poor form of municipal ethics.

This conduct might be taken to mean that his presence at the hockey game was more important than his being present at the meeting to discuss the always important business of the people. The business to which I refer concerns the almost daily references one hears regarding the conducting of the police department.

This has also been recently referred to by Councillor Dr. Harper.

May I express myself as being satisfied that Deputy Reeve Dr. Harper exercised excellent wisdom in allowing matters to rest until Reeve Kerr may spare himself to be present?

By virtue of the office Reeve Kerr holds I hesitate to believe that he had not previously been acquainted with the knowledge that certain departmental investigations might be introduced at the meeting for discussion.

RADIO ANNOUNCER (absently): "And now, on behalf of Jones' Little Liver Pills, I bid you good-night!"—Smith's Weekly, Sydney, Australia.

Woman Given Term in Case Involving $11,000

J. Brown Told Court that he Had Trusted Mrs. Laura Brown Horlocks with Key to Deposit Box and She Had Taken and Sold Stock Valued at $11,000. "A Mean Form of Theft," says Magistrate.

The theft of what turns out now to be more than $11,000 worth of gold mining stocks was revealed in police court on Tuesday in one of the most unusual cases ever heard here.

Mrs. Laura Brown Horlocks, middle-aged, mild-mannered Timmins woman, mother of three children, admitted taking the stocks from James Brown's safety deposit box at the Imperial Bank branch office here and selling them nearly two years ago for what she thinks was about $2,000.

There still is something of a mysterious atmosphere about the case, even though Mrs. Horlocks is on her way to serve a term "not exceeding two years less one day" at the Mercer reformatory. The chain of circumstances brought out during the court session seemed ridiculous at first and yet the stories told by both sides agreed in all but minor details.

Almost Penniless Now

The net result is that James Brown, who had a neat little nest egg of mining stocks tucked away in a safety deposit box, is now almost penniless and without even a job. He had been a good investor but his thrift was all in vain.

Brown claimed he had put the stock in the safety deposit box in his own name, but it was later proven by Wilfred Clark, bank accountant, that the contract for the box had been a "tenants in common" agreement through which either Mrs. Horlocks (who had signed the contract as "Laura Brown") or James Brown could have access to the contents at any time.

Efere leaving Timmins in May, 1934, Brown told Mrs. Horlocks that if he as any time wanted anything from the box, he would write, she could get the stocks and send them to him. "This woman," he said, pointing to Mrs. Horlocks, "had the key."

He returned to Timmins in October, 1935, to find most of his securities gone. "She told me that if I hadn't come back so soon she would have taken the rest and scrambled," said Brown.

The Stolen Stocks

Here is the list of stocks Mrs. Horlocks sold within that year and a half for $2,000: 1,000 Central Patricia, 100 Ventures, 100 Sudbury Basin, 500 Ac-Ville Graham, 100 Towagmac, 350 El Bonanza, 10,000 Goodfish, 5,000 Area, 1,000 Central Manitoba, 1,000 Mandy, 1,000 Moneta, 500 Stadacona, 1,000 Me-Leed River, 1,000 Vikers, 1,000 Malroic, 5,000 Porcupine Crown, 1,000 Ribco. At today's market prices, these stocks are worth more than $11,000.

"How does it happen that it took you all this time to lay a charge?" asked Magistrate Atkinson.

"He came to me," explained Crown Attorney S. A. Caldwell, "and a civil action was begun. She is on relief, we find, but at no time disputed the claim."

No Relationship

No relationship existed between the man and woman, it was clearly indicated. "I befriended this woman and her husband for a year when they were hard up," Brown told the court. "The Horlocks, man, wife and children, had moved in with Brown."

Mrs. Horlocks interrupted Brown's testimony only once to say, somewhat plaintively: "Jimmy, you gave me both sets of keys."

The bank accountant understood when Mrs. Horlocks and Brown had been in the bank together that they were man and wife. The "tenants in common" arrangement had apparently been satisfactory to both, he said.

"The Stock Is Yours"

"The stock is yours. Do what you like with it," were the words attributed to Brown by Mrs. Horlocks just before he left in 1934.

"Is there any reason why he would give you his whole life's savings?" asked the magistrate.

"We've known Mr. Brown for a large number of years."

The court repeated the question.

"I don't know," was her second answer.

"I find it hard to understand why you would withdraw all this man's stock like that," the magistrate continued.

"I didn't withdraw it all. Half of it was still there."

Under questioning by Mr. Caldwell, Mrs. Horlocks said she had been married in September, 1925, and had not known Brown at the time. She still lives with her husband.

Brown, recalled, was asked by the magistrate: "Can you give me any reason why you would leave her with thousands of dollars worth of stock?"

"I didn't think anyone would do a thing like that—steal."

Would Have Been Well Off

"He would have been worth a lot of money if she'd let him alone," Mr. Caldwell pointed out. "Now he's got nothing. Not even a job. I think myself it's a pretty mean sort of offence."

"I'm going to find you guilty," the magistrate said, turning to Mrs. Horlocks. "I can't believe your story. It is clear that you have cheated this man out of his whole life's savings. A man who's helped both you and your husband! You've absolutely cleared this man out, the most heartless thing you could have done."

In sentencing her to reformatory, the court continued: "It's a cruel, rotten theft. I hate to send you away but the public must be protected."
