Parade Features Coronation Day Here

Guides and Brownies of South Porcupine, a decorative presentation of the work of the Girl Guides and the loyalty taught by the organization.

Buffalo-Ankerite Mine float, one of the most interesting of the day, gaily decorated with bunting and evergreens and carrying the Buffalo-Ankerite Mine Band, a musical group that added to the pleasure of the parade by its good music.

Floats of the Timmins Girl Guides, Brownies and Rangers, these floats looking well and the girls in uniform, with their leaders, making an important feature of the parade. The floats were supported by others on the march.

Floats of the Timmins Boy Scouts and Cubs, and handsome young Scouts and Cubs by the hundreds in the line of march.

Floats from the Dome depicting the purposes of the Boy Scouts, Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies, the smart uniforms adding to the effectiveness.

Probably the most beautiful and artistic float design in the parade was that of the Schumacher High School—a floral design that had ten thousand artificial daffodils in its construction. The float was in the school colours—black and yellow—and a young lady (Alexandra Bugera) in white was seated on the float.

I.O.D.E. float, a handsome one giving pleasing presentation of "Britannia," with Mrs. J. Keane as Britannia, Loyal Order of Moose, a float that carried a large representation of a home, and spoke of Mensehart, the happy home of so many.

The Knights of Columbus had a handsome float and it was preceded by marching lines of the Boy Scouts and Cubs.

Sons of Scotland's float was entitled "Scotland's Gift to the Empire," the Queen (the great gift of Scotland today to the Empire) being portrayed by Mrs. McClure.

Lancashire Club's float was another of the attractive designs in the long line of the parade.

The Jewish People of the Porcupine Camp had a symbolic float with a large group of men, women and children, expressive of loyalty to the Empire.

The Kiwanis Club float was a handsome expression of the fidelity of the members to King and Queen.

The Lions Club was well represented in its decorated float.

The Lions Boys' Band had a float to themselves. The boys looked well indeed in their golden headwear, and their playing was one of the special attractions of the day.

When they marched back from the subway after the parade, playing "John Peel," they won applause all along the line.

The Tisdale band was another musical group represented in the parade and winning approval.

The Porcupine Pipe Band, looking especially handsome in their fine uniforms, were out at full strength and their music stirred all Scottish hearts and pleased all others.

There was a pleasing designed float by the Timmins Catholic Women's League, and an equally attractive one from the Schumacher C.W.L.

One of the most interesting floats in the parade was that of the Canadian Ukrainian Prosvita Association, and its effectiveness was further enhanced by the long line of marching men, while the ladies in their gay and attractive costumes were a specially attractive feature of the parade.

The White Eagle Polish Society also had a handsome float, and this, too, was strengthened in its effectiveness by the marching men and the bright costumes of the ladies.

The Croatian Society of Schumacher had a large and attractive float while the marching men and the costumed horsemen were an added feature to their contribution to the day's parade.

DISAPPEARS FROM COLLEGE HALL

Pretty Ruth Baumgardner, 22-year-old co-ed at Ohio Wesley University, Delaware, is the object of a state-wide police search, having vanished mysteriously from her dormitory several days ago.

Although mention is left thus near to the end for the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion, it must be said that the Ladies' Auxiliary float was well up in the procession in every way. It depicted in graphic way "The Empire upon which the Sun Never Sets." Miss Mamie Borland effectively took the stellar role in this representation.

There were many clever and attractive commercial floats in the parade, though it must be said that none of these floats were for advertising effect, but rather expressions of loyalty to King and Country. The Consumer's Co-operative had several floats and cars in the parade, all of them pleasing and attractive. The float by Brunette's Taxi is worthy a special note on account of its originality. One of the most pleasing of all the floats was that entered by S. Bucovetsky Limited, the pretty little girls driving the swans that seemed to pull this float, charming all.

Outstanding in the parade was the large representation of the Timmins Branch of the Canadian Legion looking particularly soldierly and well in their gay berets and decorations. The Legion contingent marching like the old soldiers they are—were led by the colour party Comrades Farrer and Patton, bearing the Legion standards, supported by Corporal Nelson and Constable R. Warner in their colourful R.C.M.P. dress uniforms. Comrade T. Parsons, vice-president of the branch was in charge of the Legion group.

I.O.D.E. Dance Very Pleasant Occasion

Large Crowd, Good Music, Fine Decorations, Happy Time.

The Riverside pavilion was the scene of one of the most successful dances of the year on Wednesday night. The dance was sponsored by the I.O.D.E. in honour of the Coronation of Their Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, a record crowd of from 250 to 300 couples being present for the merrymaking and fun.

In front of the orchestra stand were the pictures of the King and Queen, draped in the Coronation colours, red, white and blue.

Andy Cangiano and his orchestra again proved that he could always please the crowd, and make the dancers "want to go to town."

His Worship Mayor J. P. Bartleman formally opened the event and spoke on behalf of the assembly, expressing the people's loyalty to the King and Queen, and the hope for a happy reign. He, accompanied by Mrs. Traver, regent of the chapter, led the dancers in a march around the floor, with everyone singing those old songs that forever will be popular. After the march was over Mr. Bartleman suggested that the gathering cheer their Majesties, and loud "Hurrahs" rang through the pavilion.

The gowns of the ladies added colour and a romantic touch to the evening, there being many of the new prints that are so popular as well as other beautiful styles.

Late in the evening a delicious lunch was served. There was coffee and cake, and sandwiches wrapped up in napkins suitable for the occasion, and ice-cream, the lunch being served both upstairs and down, so that the large crowd could more easily be waited upon.

In the "wee hours of the morning," the happy people all remarking to one another "I had a grand time, didn't you?" invariably to be answered, "Oh yes, just marvellous," or something to that effect, departed for their homes, all feeling that the I.O.D.E. had again provided such fun and gaiety as they will find nowhere else.

Addresses and Songs Open Program Here

Massed Voices of Children Make Fine Appeal. Addresses of Much Interest Heard by Thousands.

Yesterday morning thousands of school children gathered at the ball park to join their massed voices in singing patriotic and Coronation songs. They were accompanied by the Lions' Club Boys' Band under the direction of Bandmaster F. J. Wolno. The members of the large choir took seats in the stands while the innumerable school children marched into the grounds under the guidance of their teachers. Miss Teskey conducted the children's choir.

Mr. William Wren acted as master of ceremonies, and opened the programme by calling on the choir to sing "O Canada."

Following the opening song, Mayor Bartleman was called upon to address the gathering. His address was centred around "Loyalty to the Crown."

The choir then rendered the doxology, "All People Who on Earth Do Dwell," and this was followed by an address by Rev. Father J. R. O'Gorman. Under the guidance of the choir all joined in singing "The Land of Hope and Glory," after which Rev. Bruce Millar gave a very interesting address.

Previous to the next address, which was given by Mr. F. H. V. Ball, the choir sang "The Maple Leaf Forever," and immediately following the talk, they rendered "The Coronation Song."

An address by Dr. J. B. McClinton was followed by a word of thanks by Mr. Austin Neame to the Timmins broadcasting station, to Mr. F. J. Wolno, and to the numerous teachers for the time they had taken to teach the children the various songs. Mr. Neame outlined the afternoon and evening activities, and ended by proposing three cheers for the King, which was heartily responded to by all present.

Mr. R. Turcotte had an amplifier placed on the grounds and supplied music for the gathering before the programme got under way.

The pupils of the French Separate School rendered a patriotic song in French, and the programme finished with the singing of "God Save the King."

Fireworks End Day at South Porcupine

Remarkable Display of Fireworks Follows Community Sing Song and Other Features.

South Porcupine, Ont., May 13, 1937. (Special to The Advance)—Many thanks to the Porcupine Pipe Band from Timmins who came in and gave our townspeople the benefit of their colourful personality and music this evening.

We appreciated the courtesy. We also liked the parade from Timmins this afternoon. The rain held off while the parade came round our streets. A fine parade! The best the North has yet seen, we heard someone say, and we agreed. It is really marvellous how everybody has joined in this expression of loyalty and affection to our King and Queen on this day. And another thing that must be noted in our community is the influence that the Scout and Guide movement is having on our children. Didn't they look smart in the parade to-day? Fine training they are getting in these excellent associations. The fine traditions of Britain are being ingrained into them, and the usefulness and kindness coincident with those traditions. Hats off to those unselfish members of the community who are giving of their time and work for our children in this cause!

Loyalty has been exhibited by every class and nationality here. The newcomer to our country has been shown to-day that the Canadian loves his King, and gives voluntarily to the British Throne that loyalty that comes from pride in ancient lineage and fine tradition. And the devotion is genuine—not forced or directed.

To-night, owing to the coldness of the air and the fact that it was likely to rain, the Community Sing Song was held in the High School instead of at the ball grounds. Miss Burns led the Guides and Scouts who led the singing—and everybody joined in and thoroughly enjoyed it. The Town Guides sang their special Marching Song and the Dome Guides gave a folk dance and song; two little girls of Ukrainian parentage dressed in picturesque native costume, danced, and little Johnny Mozdor danced a Russian peasant dance. Then after singing "The King" and giving him three cheers, the whole crowd went down to the ball grounds where every man, woman and child in South Porcupine seemed to be assembled for the firework display.

Tisdale did a good job on those fireworks! The very best display that has ever come so far North. They were equal to those we have seen at the Exhibition and were in charge of the firemen.

When the bonfire lighted by the Scouts was going at its height, the firemen set off these fireworks, and everybody exclaimed at their beauty. Cannon shells, rockets, Bengal lights, cyclonic wheels, yellow sunset flares, crystal bouquets, "The Silver Glory," golden tempest fountain, jewelled fan, Niagara Falls, magnesium flares, volcanic mines," "The Golden Paragon," rainbow wheels, finally finishing with a set piece, "Portrait of the King." All were lighted in quick succession, making a really wonderful display.

Everybody is tired to-night, but we surely had a wonderful day!
