Worried by Pimples and Eczema

Complexion Unblemished after Six Weeks of Kruschen

"For the past two years," writes a woman, "my face was covered with hard pimples and red blotches, and I also had eczema on my neck and fore-arms. I tried lotions, creams and ointments, without the slightest effect. I was so worried. Fortunately I decided to give Kruschen a trial, and without any exaggeration within six weeks my face was without a blemish, and I have not had a sign of eczema since. I take Kruschen regularly every morning, and would not be without it."—(Mrs.) J. A.

Pimples and eczema are frequently due to impurities in the blood—irritant poisons which sluggish body organs are failing to expel from the system. Kruschen Salts help to keep the body organs functioning normally and healthily thus preventing the accumulation of impurities in the blood.

H. Fancy Succumbs to Injuries to Self

Well-Known Cobalt Mining Engineer Dies on Tuesday

Cobalt, July 15—(Special to The Advance)—While doctors worked over him in a futile effort to save his life, Harold Fancy, mining engineer well-known in the camps of the northern fields, died on the operating table at the Municipal hospital here shortly before three o'clock Tuesday afternoon from knife wounds which, the authorities said later, had been self-inflicted, apparently in a fit of despondency. He was taken to hospital about one o'clock, when George Herbert discovered his plight and called for medical help, but the series of stabs in the throat, chest and left wrist proved fatal within two hours.

Subsequently, town and provincial police examined the room in which Mr. Fancy had been staying, located in a business block downtown, and later both Coroner Dr. W. C. Arnold and Crown Attorney J. B. Robinson made enquiries here. The coroner was one of four doctors present at the hospital when the injured man was undergoing an emergency operation there—Drs. J. A. Kane, F. M. Wallingford and J. A. H. Joyal were the others—and at night Dr. Arnold told The Advance there would be no inquest, as he was satisfied no further information would be added by this course to knowledge of the case he already had obtained.

Harold Fancy, who was 38 years of age, and a native of Isaac's Harbor, N.S., had lived in the North Country most of his life. His father, W. Fancy, was one of the mining men who came here in the camp's early days, and for years he was captain at the Mining Corporation of Canada. His son also was associated with that company, for a time in Cobalt, later as manager at the Frontier Mine, in Silver Centre, and later still at the Queмонт property in Quebec. In recent years, he had been connected with various leasing propositions, notably at the Silver Cliff here and in the last few weeks at a property in the Cane district.

Mr. Fancy is survived by his young widow and two sons, by his parents, a brother, Jack, and a sister, Mrs. A. A. Amos. His wife is a daughter of Magistrate and Mrs. Atkinson, in Haileybury, and the magistrate was called home from court sittings in Porcupine by news of the tragedy. Mr. Fancy's father is in Nova Scotia and his mother in Toronto, it was stated here, and his relatives were notified.

Account Held up by Town Council

The mayor: "Don't you approve of the town having a Coronation ad?"

Councillor Laporte: "I did not approve of a full page ad, costing $75. I would have approved of a quarter page ad. After all we are supposed to be the trustees of the peoples' money."

"All this is new to me," said the mayor.

Councillor DesRoches: "Me too."

Councillor Laporte: "We always met before, before making an expenditure of this kind. Why not this time?"

"Did you meet last year when you assigned the voters' list," asked the mayor.

The reply: "There is a difference between an absolute necessity and a luxury. An advertisement of this kind is more or less of a luxury. I would not have objected to a smaller ad, but $75 seemed a little too much."

The mayor agreed and then wanted to know about a $500 grant, which, he alleged, the 1936 council gave Moneta. That was a fair exchange, argued Councillor Laporte, adding that that had been threshed out at the last election. The mayor had had his say on the platform and he had advanced his own argument.

Councillor Wren suggested that a full meeting of council be held to get the whole story. He thought that all of the members of council had been made aware of the advertisement.

"They may all have been made aware of it," said Councillor Laporte, "but all did not necessarily have to approve." For his part he was against it. The advertisement could not have been authorized. It did not come before council. In fact the only two members of council who could have called a meeting for that purpose were the mayor and himself.

Finally the whole Timmins Press account was held over.

Mr. P. J. Doyle was the spokesman for a deputation of ratepayers from Floral Park and Lincoln, Crescent and Carling avenues asking that that area be annexed to the town. There was to have been a petition, he said, but it apparently had not reached the council. The people who lived there had bought lots and homes in order to be near schools which had been built in that locality. Now they had no water.

The council was not able to make any promises, said Mayor Bartleman. It would first have to get permission from the Municipal Board to annex the section and then further permission to borrow money to install water piping. In the event that the town did not annex, Mr. Doyle said, the ratepayers in the district would be willing to pay the cost of installation, providing that they would be rebated at some future date when the section was annexed, as it inevitably would. The mayor and councillors thought that something might be done along that line but advised Mr. Doyle to first petition as nothing could be done unless one was received.

Another ratepayer wanted water piping installed near First avenue and Tisdale street. The mayor assured him that that question was being considered igate the advisability of buying a book-keeping machine for the new town hall.

Explaining his position on the much discussed question of a bookkeeping machine, after the meeting, Councillor Laporte said that he was opposed to the expenditure when it was going into the old building and going to be paid for out of current revenue. He favoured it when it was going into the new hall and paid for out of debentures raised to finance the construction of the new building.

The minutes of a private meeting prior to yesterday's regular gathering included the passing of a by-law to bring Mr. Lister from Toronto to appraise certain buildings in Timmins for assessment purposes. Mr. Lister's fee will be $50 a day while here and all expenses. Councillor Laporte alone opposed the by-law.

The Medical Officer of Health, Dr. H. H. Moore, tendered his resignation as he is leaving Timmins for a protracted stay. He enjoyed his association with officials and the various mayors and councils in the twenty-five years he had occupied the office, his communication said. The clerk was instructed to prepare a letter of regret and thanks.

Other council news will be found elsewhere in this issue.
