The Charm Of Colonial Days --

is revived in these hand forged metal pieces. Quaintly fashioned of a new aluminium-looking alloy called Everlast Metal, these lovely pieces will not only be prized for their usefulness but for their rustic beauty as well. Considering the hand fashioning they are remarkably low in price.

For instance small ash trays cost as little as 35c. Larger pieces of course range considerably higher. The coffee table with folding legs and removable tray top is priced at $39.50 and is a masterpiece in metal. Bon-bon dishes are just $2.00. A convenient size salad bowl comes at $4.75 while appropriately patterned liquor bottles also cost just $4.75.

To fully appreciate this unusual metal treatment you really should see the whole line. It is fascinatingly different.

SKYLINES EXPRESS RUSHES MATACHEWAN MILL PART

Skyline Express with its new regular service out of Toronto and other points, had an opportunity to help out in a serious milling situation this week when a gear on the crusher at Matatchewan Consolidated broke. The new part was rushed to Toronto from Milwaukee by rail express, hurried to the mine by plane, thus averting what might have been a serious shut-down.

Executives of the airline report excellent business, and are eagerly awaiting delivery of the larger planes ordered some time ago. They run daily services Toronto-Timmins; Montreal-Kirkland Lake; Winnipeg-Little Long Lac, and a twice a week service between Long Lac and Timmins. A Quebec service connects out of Kirkland Lake.

Odd Insect Proves to be "Honey Hawk"

Interesting Details Given of Insect by Alfred Edwards

In The Advance of August 5th, reference was made to an odd insect found in the garden of Mrs. Jos. Harding. The peculiarity of the insect was that it appeared of the moth species but was very much larger than the ordinary type of moth, being almost the size of a humming bird. Mrs. W. I. Curtis told The Advance of seeing a similar specimen in the south this year, but did not know what the insect was called. This week Alfred Edwards, formerly of Toronto, where he conducted a floral business, kindly gave The Advance a full description of the insect and its methods. Mr. Edwards says it is not rare in the South, though he does not think there are many in the North. While of the moth species, it is highly coloured and structured like a humming bird. It has a particularly long feeler, or sucker, attached to its head, and this is curled up so as to be scarcely noticeable when not in use. Its long feeler keeps it so far away from the flower that it has to have the same wing power as a humming bird to hold it steady in the air. Mr. Edwards says that while the insect brought to The Advance office is a large one it is not the largest Honey Hawk he has seen. Mr. Edwards has made a study of insects and has a collection of over a hundred different kinds. He has evidently studied them to much purpose and can give all sorts of interesting and helpful information about them. He very kindly says that he will be glad to give anyone information about unusual insects they may find.

Honey Hawk or Honey Moth. Mr. Edwards says is usually found around mossy places. It deposits its eggs on flowers. It has no stinger. The specimen of the moth caught here was a female, he said.

North Bay Nugget:—Prairie dwellers kept sheets and pillows in the ice box during a heat wave. Would there be room for the sleeper with all that bedding?

A lady who acknowledged being in an intoxicated condition paid the penalty.

Another charge of swearing and fighting on the public street was acknowledged by a man who gave his excuse, "My wife was kinda drunk and I was trying to get her home." He paid $10 and costs.

A reckless driving charge preferred against a man who was driving the car that caused Chief Marshall, of Whitney, to be hurt, was adjourned.

The case attracting most of the attention of the morning concerned the four young men who appeared to answer to a charge of obstructing the police in the performance of their duty.

Chief McInnis gave evidence that he was called to the Gold Range Hotel beverage room to see to these young men who were making trouble. He asked them to go home, but the one who was most under the influence refused to go, so they prepared to arrest him. The others immediately piled onto the police to prevent them from doing their duty. They were therefore put under arrest. Counsel for the defence, R. Langdon, put up a strong plea for the lads—one was working his way through college and two were supporting parents—nice, clean-cut lads who were never in trouble before and had no record against them. He asked for suspended sentence, but after duly considering the case, his Worship fined each $50 and costs.
