New York Sun.—At Nice, France a mouse was responsible for an amazing chain of accidents. A woman frightened by a mouse jumping out of a cupboard fell and hit her head on the kitchen table. Her husband went in his car to fetch his wife's sick after her. On the way his car skidded, struck another, and both crashed through a railing and fell into a river. The husband and the two people in the other car were pulled out of the water and a motor-coach started to take them to a hospital. In his hurry the motor-coach driver ran into a man pushing a wheel-chair in which was an invalid. The man was killed, the invalid badly hurt.

Term of Three Months for Agent for Brewery

Conviction Made on Charge of Keeping Liquor for Sale. Does Not Deal with Blind Pigs, he Testified. Magistrate Makes Some Ironic Remarks. Other Cases on Tuesday.

Convicted of keeping liquor for sale, Armand Poulin, 4 Elm street south, was sentenced to serve three months in jail by Magistrate Atkinson in police court on Tuesday afternoon. Poulin's residence was made a public place for the period of a year. Police said that Poulin was surprised to be arrested as he was a brewery agent and was handling beer.

Police Sergeant Olson said that he and Constable Devine were sitting in a parked car watching another place when they saw a truck drive up to Poulin's home and two men try to get in the front door. Failing to do so, they went to the rear of the house and were admitted. They came out in a couple of minutes carrying a case of beer. They put it in the truck and drove off.

The officers followed the truck and when one of the men threw the beer off they stopped it and arrested the man. Obtaining a search warrant they returned and searched Poulin's home finding seven pints of beer and a bottle of Scotch whiskey. Poulin could not understand why he was being arrested as he was an agent for a brewery and believed himself entitled to handle beer.

Cross-examined, Sergeant Olson said that he understood Poulin was a brewery agent. By "handling beer", he did not mean to imply that Poulin sold it illegally. He had had no complaints about Poulin's residence and knew of no traffic in and out of the place. The men he arrested in the truck were Vito Yuola and Lawrence McGregor.

Constable Devine gave evidence to corroborate that given by Sergeant Olson and Yuola, who last week paid a fine for the illegal possession of beer, took the stand with an interpreter.

Yuola said that he and his friend stopped somewhere on Third avenue and got a case of beer. He did not recognize the man from whom he bought it and could not identify him in court. Around $5 was paid for the case.

Taking the stand in his own defence, Poulin said that he was an agent for Copeland's Brewery. It was his duty to call on standard hotels and warehouses to see that they had his brand of beer on hand. Also, he was to "boost" the sale of Copeland's beer. Earlier in the case the Crown Attorney pointed out that for an agent or brewery representative to "treat" for the sake of pushing the sale of the brand of beer he represented was illegal under the Liquor Control Act.

"Do you deal only with hotels and warehouses?" asked the magistrate. Witness: "Yes."

Magistrate: "You ought to be put in a glass case. You are the only one of your kind that does not supply blind-pigs and not deal extensively with blind-pigs."

Wife of the convicted man, Mrs. Poulin said, as did her husband, that she never saw Yuola and that he did not call at their house to buy beer.

The question of guilt evolved around whether or not Yuola brought liquor out of the particular house in which Poulin lived, said Magistrate Atkinson. It was apparent that he did. The officers had no reason to commit perjury.

"Of course," said his worship, "we shouldn't hold the fact that all these agents supply blind-pigs against this man because he is the only one who does not. He is the one we have been searching for for years. Situations like these are the only reason for most of these mens existence. Three months and his place is a public place for a year."

Will Prove Epilepsy
Ernest Albert denied that he was drunk. His condition was due to the fact that he was subject to epileptic seizures. The magistrate gave him a chance to bring a physician to prove his assertion. Case was remanded for a week.

"A rough and tumble," ruled his worship dismissing a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm, against Emile Marengere. Complainant was A. Dagenais.

Dr. Kelly testified that Dagenais had a large swelling, about the size of an inverted teacup on his groin. The internal bleeding had extended from that area to his whole thigh. It could have resulted from a very severe kick as Dagenais alleged.

Dagenais said that he went to Marengere's room in the boarding house where they both lived to talk to him about throwing his brother out of the room. As he was in the entrance to the room the bigger man kicked him. Marengere weighed about 260. He weighed 122 pounds. Mrs. Dagenais, sister-in-law of the accused, took the stand. Although she alleged she did not talk very well she went on at such a rate that neither the stenographer, magistrate, or spectators could keep up. Magistrate Atkinson dryly remarked, "You talk all right." She corroborated Dagenais' evidence.

The story took a different turn when Marengere took the stand and brought a witness to support his testimony. He

Former Timmins Girl Dies at Carthage, Ont

Enid Alice Blough Passes Away After Lingering Illness.

The Milverton Sun last week had a report of the death and funeral of Enid Alice Blough, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Blough, formerly of Timmins, and sister of Mrs. J. McPhair, of town. The family moved to Timmins when Enid was only a few months old, her father conducting a blacksmith shop here for some years. The article from The Milverton Sun is as follows:—

Enid Alice Blough
A death which calls forth much sympathy for the bereaved parents and family occurred on Monday evening when Enid Alice Blough, fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Blough, of near Carthage, passed away following a lingering illness. She was born at Hanna, Alberta, on March 19th, 1923, and at the age of five months moved with her parents to Timmins, Ont., where she attended school. While playing at school she received a kick which later developed into abscesses. She was at first taken to the Timmins hospital and when her parents moved to Carthage where Mr. Blough is a blacksmith, she was transferred to Toronto Sick Children's hospital where she had been a patient for two years and nine months. On the 19th of April this year she returned to her home in Carthage much improved. About three days previous to her death another abscess formed and broke inwardly. The poison thus loosed went through her entire system. Besides her sorrowing parents she leaves to mourn their loss two sisters, (Ruth) Mrs. John McPhair, of Timmins, and Dorothy, at home, and one brother, Harold, at home. The funeral was held this (Wednesday) afternoon with service at her late home followed by interment in Fairview cemetery, Listowel. Rev. S. E. Stevenson, pastor of Carthage United church, conducted the service. The following were the pallbearers: Clifford Moore, Osmond Lines, Roy Askin, Geo. Riddell, Clifford Dowd and Sheldon Hammond.

Famous Froth Blowers Have Branch in Timmins

Ex-Servicemen Announce "Get-Together" Event of Froth Blowers at Legion Hall, Saturday Night. Theme Song: "The More we are Together, the Happier We'll Be." Only Room for Thirty so Get Application in Pronto.

Some years ago The Advance carried some very humorous articles dealing with the Froth Blowers Association in London, Eng. At that time Ontario was very dry and the only froth that could be found was from the mouths of the thirsty. Effort was made to secure a charter for a local group, but as there were no licensed beer parlours, the "Grand High Schooner" (or such like officer) stated this could not be done. Now, however, with the advent of licensed premises, the "Froth Blowers" have come into their own and are alleged to be meeting in town. In any event the "Ex-servicemen's Froth Blowers Association" of Timmins have announced that they are holding a "Get Together" on Saturday evening in the Legion hall at 7.30. Only those who are expert at blowing the froth are invited, and only a limited number will be allowed. The Advance correspondent is told—"just about thirty." This is on account of the Blowers desiring ample room for their activities. A "Potato Pot Pie" supper is to be served and then the fun will start. The event is to celebrate the return to married duties of one of the members, whose good lady has just returned from a trip to "Froth Blower Isle." Any member of the Legion, wishing to attend the convocation on Saturday, must give the Stewart James Gordon, his fees tonight (Thursday).

The invitation is very humorously worked but as only one has been typed, it is not available for publication, until after closing date of entries. The Advance will seek to reproduce it on Monday. In the meantime the Chief Froth Blower would like to have the thirty names, and then all is set for a real hurricane session.

Hon. R. B. Bennett to Stay as Party Leader

Nation-wide Plans for Organization of Conservative Party Under Way.

With Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett remaining at the helm, the Conservative party prepared this week to launch a nation-wide organization programme in preparation for the next general election. That Mr. Bennett, improved in health, was willing to continue to devote his efforts to public service and retain active leadership of the party for the time being, was indicated following a meeting of Conservative members of the House of Commons.

The meeting was called Saturday at Ottawa to deal with the question of Mr. Bennett's leadership and other matters concerning the party. Ever since he suffered a serious illness in 1935 the possibility of his retirement has been more or less prominent in the minds of party members.

Official Statement
Text of a resolution adopted unanimously which made no direct mention of leadership or of party organization was the only official statement given out after the meeting, attended by 37 of the 39 members of the House. "The meeting," the resolution read, "of Conservative members of the House

Tragic Coincidence in Death of Northern Women

Kirkland Lake, Aug. 12. (Special to The Advance)—Relating to the deaths of two women well-known in Cobalt, and who passed away within a short time of one another, the story of a tragic coincidence was told the correspondent here at the week-end. Mrs. F. J. Murray, wife of the Nipissing Central station agent in Kirkland Lake, and herself a former Cobalter, having learned of the death in Cobalt of Mrs. Alex Fraser, went to the telephone to convey the news to another old resident of the silver camp, Mrs. S. J. Tourangeau, of Rouyn. She got in touch with a neighbor in Rouyn to have Mrs. Tourangeau brought to the telephone, and learned that Mrs. Tourangeau had died in hospital a few hours before.

Mother of Timmins Lady Passes Away at Sudbury

(From Sudbury Star)
In her 61st year, Mrs. Josephine Cheverette, wife of Maglore Cheverette, of Spragge, died this morning in St. Joseph's hospital, Sudbury. She had been in ill health for the past week and had been in the hospital for only four days. Mrs. Cheverette was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andre Carrier, and was born at Buckingham, Que., on July 20, 1877. She had been a resident of Spragge for the past several years. Besides her husband, Mrs. Cheverette is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Paul Blais, of Timmins, Mrs. Aldage Rienquette, of Nestorville, and Mrs. Leo Laroque, of Burwash; two sons, Mike, of Dalton, and Wilfred, of Spragge; and two brothers, Eugene Carrier, of Blind River, and Andre Carrier, of Rouyn. Now resting at Ducharme's Funeral Home, the remains will be shipped to Spragge tonight for burial on Wednesday morning. The funeral will be held from her late residence to the Spragge Roman Catholic church, with interment in the Spragge Roman Catholic cemetery.

Ex-Mayor Lendrum on the Cobalt High School Board

Cobalt, Aug. 12. (Special to The Advance).— Ex-mayor Frank Lendrum, who told his new colleagues that he expected the latest appointment would round out a municipal career which had included membership of the town council, board of health, public school board and the former public utilities commission, on Tuesday night took his seat as high school trustee here, a post to which had been chosen by the town council less than 24 hours before. The newcomer succeeds Fred Phelps, a former colleague on the public school board, who is away from town. Appointment of Trustee Lendrum fills the second vacancy on the high school board within a few weeks, Dr. F. M. Wallingford having been selected recently to fill the place of the late Harry Tomney. Trustee Lendrum began his municipal career in 1924 and had been on one body or another since except for brief intervals aggregating just over two and a half years.

Nearly 500 Men at Road Work in Cobalt District

Cobalt, Aug. 12. (Special to The Advance).—Nearly 500 men, all bonafide residents of the district, are engaged at present on the various road projects being carried out in Temiskaming. A. N. Davis, government officer, told Cobalt town council on Monday night. He told the members there was no discrimination against local men, as apparently had been alleged, and he said his business was to keep transients from obtaining this work and to see that any Temiskaming man seeking a job there was given a card for use as and when vacancies occur. Mr. Davis said McNamara had 258 men, Martin approximately 125 and Hennessy about 100 men at work. He added further that Latchford lumbermen would need 300 men by September 1, approximately one-third of their labor requirements for the winter work in the bush.
