Says Pipe-Smokers Not Now in Favour

Fourth Columnist Writes on Tobacco, Pipes, Cigars and Cigarettes

J. V. McAree, columnist in The Globe and Mail, has been having some very readable columns lately. One feature about them is that they are different. This does not necessarily mean that they are new or true—but just different—and that's something these days.

Last night's Fourth Column dealt with tobacco, pipes, cigars, cigarettes, ladies and gentlemen, and so on. Here is the column in full as it appeared.

Discriminate Against Smokers of the Pipe

(By J. V. McAree)
Ellnor Ames, who instructs the female readers of the New York Daily News in the niceties of behavior, wrote not long ago, "Nowadays we are all accustomed to the almost constant smell of cigarettes and cigars. The man who delights in a mellow old pipe should refrain from smoking it in the presence of women unless he knows that the aroma of a pipe is not objectionable to them. Needless to say he would not think of lighting his pipe in another's home." The last phrase is italicized by John McCarthy who has an article on pipe smokers in the current Esquire. Mr. McCarthy writes as a pipe smoker, and he admits that no woman likes a pipe smoker however virile he may think himself. We remember not long ago reading a series of advertisements on the subject of pipe tobacco and they were featured by some lovely society women protesting that there was nothing they so much liked a man to do, almost, as to smoke a pipe. It seemed to us at the time that there was something artificial about their alleged preferences.

Are Women Envious?

Mr. McCarthy pretends to believe that the reason women object so strenuously and unreasonably to men smoking pipes is that it is the sole remaining masculine habit which the modern maid has been unable to acquire. He notes that again and again he has been ejected from various refined hotels, night clubs and similar tony joints because he persisted in his pipe smoking. He believes that it was the influence of women which resulted in these humiliations. We do not think he is right. Often we have reflected upon the fact that in many places pipe smoking is not tolerated but the smoking of cigarettes and cigars is encouraged; and it seems to us that the reason is that in these places cigars and cigarettes are sold. The pipe smoker is not a possible customer, for when he goes anywhere he makes sure that he has his pipe and tobacco along. He is no more likely to buy a pipe in the course of an evening's round of pleasure than he is to buy a necktie or a handkerchief. We do not think smoke from a pipe is any more objectionable to the average woman than cigarette smoke unless it comes from a pipe that has begun to bubble.

Where Men Have Their Rights

It is true that in the British Isles and on the continent there is no such objection to pipe-smoking as there is in the United States. That is not necessarily because Europeans and Britons are fonder of the pipe than of tobacco consumed in other forms, but because there men are dominant. Generally speaking, England is run the way men want it. The most important person in most English homes is not the mistress, but the master. He gets first whack at the bathroom and the choicest cuts at the table. If he feels like lighting a pipe, you can be sure that he will light it, and it does not matter much where he happens to be. Pipes are to be seen, and sometimes alarmingly smelt, in drawing-rooms, swank restaurant or night club. Our own studies in English fiction lead us to believe that, no matter what a man may be smoking through the day, the last smoke at night is a pipe. How many hundreds of times have we read the following dialogue: "Have a cigar," his host pushing a chased silver box of Coronas toward him.

"Thanks," replied the famous detective, "but if you don't mind I'll smoke my pipe." And we have yet to read of any one's objection.

Noted Pipe-Smokers

Pipe-smoking has some value both in the United States and England from the point of publicity. Lord Baldwin could have smoked himself purple with cigars and cigarettes, but never would have he so endeared himself to the public as he did with his eternal pipe. It seemed to suggest that he was a good, sane man, exuding wholesome virtues. General Dawes, who was for a time Vice-President of the United States, and distinguished himself for having fallen asleep in the Senate at a critical moment, is also a pipe-smoker of parts. Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President of the United States in the last election, smoked a pipe, but this probably was in an attempt to conceal his affiliations with Moscow. J. P. Morgan is another pipe-smoker, but on the other hand so is Joseph Stalin. Mark Twain is also listed as a pipe-smoker, and we seem to have seen photographs of him with a calabash, but our recollection is that he was also a cigar-smoker, and sought to make a virtue out of the fact that he never smoked more than one cigar at a time.

Faint Advertisement

Among writers who smoke pipes in preference to cigars or cigarettes Mr. McCarthy lists J. P. Priestly, Christopher Morley, Stanley Walker, F. Britten Austin, John B. Kennedy, Harford Powell, Matt Taylor, James Remington McCarthy, Marco Morrow, Corey Ford, J. P. Marquand, Fred Kendall and Richard Connell.

Many of these names are strange to us, though the fact that they smoke pipes is not. Several actors also smoke pipes: Leslie Howard, Ken Murray, Edward G. Robinson and Bob Burns, although we are sure there must be better actors than these. Alexander Korda, born a Hungarian, rushed out and bought a dozen pipes when he was told that it was very British to be a pipe

Mayor Rowe, North Bay, Conservative Candidate

Mayor Robert Rowe, of North Bay, was chosen on Tuesday at the convention in North Bay as the Conservative party candidate for Nipissing for the coming provincial election.

Mayor Rowe received 285 votes, while his only opponent, Dr. A. Seguin, Warren, received 128. Ten others whose names were submitted withdrew. They were: Mayor Arthur Valois, Mattawa, and Alderman C. R. Harrison, former M.L.A. and M.P. for Nipissing; Alderman J. A. Allen, George Wallace, Alderman D. L. Regimball, Dr. F. W. McKee, Homer Stockdale, Alderman D. G. Stevens, J. B. Croghan and H. J. Reynolds, K.C., all of North Bay.

Dr. D. A. Campbell, North Bay, was elected President of the Nipissing Liberal-Conservative Association. Other officers are: Homer Stockdale, North Bay, first vice-president; Oscar Rochefer, Astorville, second vice-president; Mayor Arthur Valois, Mattawa, third vice-president; and H. J. Reynolds, K.C., secretary-treasurer.

The chief speaker of the convention was Hon. Dr. R. D. Morand, who contended Premier Mitchell Heppburn was not calling an election because of issues at stake, but because "he is temperamentally unfit to govern" and knows if he waited another year for an election his chances for re-election would be lessened.

Further Remands Made in Sudbury Taxi Theft Case

(From Sudbury Star)
William McNabb and Jerry McNulty, Toronto and Timmins youths, alleged to have been implicated in the theft of a taxi cab and the robbing of the driver on May 14, were remanded for another week when they appeared before Magistrate J. S. McKessock in district police court Tuesday afternoon. McNulty pleaded guilty to both counts on July 16 after being captured in Timmins a few days preceding that date. He is waiting for sentence.

McNabb, a Toronto youth, is a prisoner at the Burwash Industrial Farm, having been sentenced at Hamilton for automobile theft. Serving an 18-month sentence on the Ambitious City count, he was released from the prison farm on a judges order to stand trial for his participation in the Sudbury taxi driver's abduction. Appearing before Magistrate McKessock for the first time on August 7 he elected trial by judge. His appearance on Tuesday was the third time he has been brought before the court.

The other member of the trio participating in the abduction and theft, Eugene "Cannon-Ball" Donatt, Windsor, the first captured, is now serving a two-year term in Kingston Penitentiary. He was sentenced on June 15.

Pineland Timber Co. Strike Now Settled

Hon. Peter Heenan Successful in Role of Arbitrator.

Foleyet, Aug. 18.—The four-week old sit-down strike of the Pineland Timber Co. employees was settled in less than two hours to-day. With the arrival here of Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, and Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer of the Labour and Industry Board, meetings were held between the two committees, the striking employees led by W. Delaney, strike leader, and a committee of faithful company employees. A satisfactory agreement was reached without mention of union recognition and all employees will return to work. The mill will open Friday for part of the employees, and notices will be posted notifying the others when to return to company employment.

The mill workers will return to work at the same rate of wages and under the same conditions as when it closed down on July 22 last, plus a bonus of $35.00 payable at the end of the operation year, or proportioned if any employee is discharged or leaves the company's employ.

The bonus was granted by the company on exactly the same terms as was granted at the Tionaga and Mileage 26 mills, namely, any employee who is on the Foleyet payroll at the resumption of operations and who remains on the payroll until the completion of the current season's cut will receive a bonus of $35.00. Any employee who is discharged before the end of the season will receive his proportion of the bonus on a pro-rata basis.

Likewise if any employee leaves of his own accord for good and sufficient reasons, he will also receive his proportion of the bonus on a pro-rata basis. Any workman who is engaged after resumption of operations will receive the bonus of a pro-rata basis.

Plane Forced Down

Leaving Toronto Tuesday afternoon, the minister of lands and forests along with the conciliation officer, were travelling to this community by Ontario forestry plane piloted by Pilot Bill Emery and were last reported leaving Sud-bury. Motor trouble forced the government men down on Lake Friday, near Laforest, early last night. Wireless for help brought two district planes to their rescue but the night was too dark to attempt leaving the small island on which they landed. They were forced to spend the night there and were taken to Biscotasing forestry base about 11 o'clock, daylight saving time.

They immediately went into action, holding conferences with the two factions, who accepted the terms offered them by the management. After these two committees reported to their followers a mass meeting of the mill employees ensued. The conciliation officer presided over the meeting and Mr. Heenan addressed the gathering. When the terms of agreement were read to them they shouted words of acceptance. A vote showed all employees were in favour of the settlement.

No Board Increase
Under the terms of settlement the board in the company bunkhouse will remain the same, 85 cents a day. The strike committee feared an increased rate of board, if the pay was increased. In the agreement the management will hold no discrimination against the men for their activities during the strike. All men will return to work some time this week or early next.

Announcing the terms of settlement, Mr. Heenan stated "after this settlement you can belong to any church or any union of your choice."
"I think you have decided wisely," he added.

The minister made reference to the minimum wage for men passed during the last session of the Ontario Legislature, adding that when the law is put in force it was his hope to see the saw mill employees getting a better wage than the present one.
"There is some of these organizations you men have joined or intend to join that have taken upwards of half a century to bring them to the point where they are respected by the Canadian people," declared the minister. "But you can easily lose this respect through your actions. So be careful."

"When you have the respect of the people you can go to the government and demand what you want and get it," he said.

Warns Against "Quacks"
He warned the mill employees not to listen to every "quack" organizer or join their organizations. "It is these kind of unions that brew trouble," he stated.

"If your organizations aim in the right direction you have the government with you," he said. "Negotiate with the management first and strike afterwards. Never strike first and then try negotiations. It won't work satisfactorily."

"The only weapon labor has is to strike," he declared, "but remember to negotiate first."

When queried how long it would take before the mill could be re-opened by the conciliation officer, a company official thought it would take "two or three days."

"Any possibility of advising men when to return to work?" the conciliation officer asked.
"Not right now," said the company

Principal activity of the Ontario government employment bureau at the present time is placing men at farm work and in the bush. There are about 938 men seeking jobs which is more than at this time last year.

A number of men have been placed on farms, haying and doing other work of that nature. The men sent to the bush have obtained jobs as pulpwood cutters.

"Several key men have left and I don't know how soon we can get others to take their places," he concluded.

The settlement was effected in record time by the government officials ordered to Foleyet by Premier Mitchell Heppburn yesterday following conference with the company management at Queen's Park. It took exactly one-and-half hours to bring the two sides into line.

Might Lose Contract

Toronto, Aug. 18.—Premier Heppburn said last night that the International Nickel Company, of Copper Cliff, largest customer of the strike-held Pineland Timber Company at Foleyet, had served notice that unless work is immediately started and slated deliveries made, it will have to contract for future supplies outside of Ontario, in British Columbia.
