Over $1,000 for Refugees Raised by Local Chinese

Took Only Few Days to Gather This Amount. More will be Sent to China. Feeling Among Timmins Chinese Very Strong Over Japanese Invasion. Some Local Views.

More than $1,000 has been raised by Chinese citizens of Timmins and sent to Shanghai to relieve suffering caused the Chinese people by the war with Japan. The intense feeling of the Chinese residents here is indicated by the fact that the money was raised in less than a week. A meeting was held on Sunday and individual contributions of as much as $100 poured in to be sent back to the mother country to alleviate the desolation and misery of the people made homeless by the Japanese invasion.

In view of the fact that there are only about 130 Chinese in Timmins and district and most of them are not at all wealthy—having had their own difficulties during the depression—the contributions given last week show both interest and generosity. During the depression there were no Chinese on relief; they simply helped each other after the Chinese fashion. In common with all others in Canada they suffered from the depression and its effects—unemployment, unemployment, etc. The prompt and generous response to the call from their native land, however, proved that they are still following Chinese principles of thrift as well as helping each other when in need. While most of the Chinese people in Timmins are British subjects by naturalization, they naturally had a keen interest in their native land.

To say that the Chinese of Timmins feel strongly on the subject of the war would be to put it mildly. They have gone over every development, past and present and make prophecies as to what will happen in the future. Every bit of news that can be obtained is avidly read and talked over.

One of the most venerable of the Chinese residents, Cheng Fong, talked to The Advance in the Chinese community club rooms in the basement of Tom's Rooms, Second avenue. On the walls hung Chinese lutes and other musical instruments. Shelves were laden with cans of foreign foods with gaily labels inscribed with Chinese characters. Standing in the corner were bundles of tall stalks of some kind of native Chinese vegetable or herb.

Gathered around during the conversation were about twenty Chinese. The conversation was punctuated by remarks from the "gallery." Mr. Fong received suggestions and further information from his friends in his own language and translated them into English for the benefit of the reporter.

The possible conquest of China by the Japanese nation would have far reaching international consequences, said Mr. Fong. Japan was undoubtedly out to conquer the world and the occupation of China was the first step. Because of the fact that Japan is "greedy for power," the other nations of the world should pitch in and help China repel the invader before Japan became too strong and threatened their own security. The Japs were described as "greedy thieves."

Once China and Japan was one nation, said Cheng Fong. They separated and enmity began between them about forty years ago. Five years ago Japan broke the Kellogg pact and took three provinces from China. A year later the Japs took another. In the last instance the Central government of China wanted to keep the Kellogg pact and the people were told to offer no resistance. However, the violations by Japan became so flagrant that they were forced to repel the invader.

In the case of the war in progress now the Japs were the invaders. However, now that China was united, for the first time, under General Chiang Kai-shek, "a strong man," the Japs would undoubtedly lose. Mr. Fong, who has thoroughly studied the question and talked it over with his friends—in fact it is the only subject of conversation now among the Chinese of the town—thought that the war would last a long time but that the Japs could not withstand the tremendous numbers of Chinese. Chiang Kai-shek could throw into battle against them. The other countries of the world would have to come to China's assistance in time, believed George Young, proprietor of the King Edward Hotel.

"If the Japs got control of China, do you think they won't start looking to India, the Philippines and Russia? Japan wants China for the natural resources, the iron and coal and water power and other wealth and for the people who would be slaves, to help the Japs get world power," said Mr. Young.

Great Britain would have to come in and assist the Chinese to protect India and her possessions around Singapore; the United States would have to come in to protect the Philippines, on which Japan has had her eye for a long time, and Russia would be placed in jeopardy with Japan next to her.

The Chinese offensive of the past week is not the beginning of the end of the war, Mr. Young believed.

Hop Lee, laundryman, firmly believed that China would win in the end but that the end was a long way off.

In Birmingham, England..

the master silversmiths of Ellis and Company contribute to the world, what is reputed to be the finest examples of period silver. Remus' have just received from the "Old Country" an unusual collection of Ellis and Company pieces and those who appreciate fine silver are invited to view them. So limited is the production of this old firm, that a comparatively few pieces find their way to Canada—and never before have they been shown north of Toronto.

Outstanding in this showing are intricately engraved trays ranging up to $80 in price. Smaller trays on simple lines can be had for $12. A particularly appealing engraved four-piece tea and coffee set is $125. A bon-bon dish, fine in quality, is priced at just $6.00. The craftsmanship of the Eighteenth Century guild of silversmiths relives in these Sheffield reproductions. You will note that every mark of merit has been faithfully preserved.

- Horrible Accident North of Temagami
Man's Scalp Torn Off. Two Boys Hurt. Road Condition Blamed
Temagami, Ont., Aug. 21st, 1937.—(Special to The Advance)—Six persons were injured, one seriously, in one of the most serious accidents on the Ferguson Highway this year, when a car driven by E. C. Pope, Yorkville, Ill., took the ditch near James Lake, 12 miles north of Temagami, Thursday afternoon.
Driving south after having visited his father, a 66-year-old navy pensioner, who was a passenger in the car, Mr. Pope, with other relatives, was headed for Belleville to attend a family reunion.
The car was said to have been travelling about 35 miles an hour when the right front wheel struck a soft shoulder, causing the car to turn over in the ditch after brushing a boulder.
E. J. Pope, father of the driver, was most seriously injured. His scalp was practically torn from his head. Others of the party included E. C. Pope, who suffered lacerations and bruises; Mrs. Pope, cuts and bruises; Daniel Pope, neck laceration which just missed the jugular vein and a fractured hip; C. Pope, 10, cuts and bruises; and Herbert Berger, 15, broken right arm and cuts and bruises.
The injured people were taken to Cobalt hospital by E. Bradley, of the Ford Motor Co., W. G. Downs and J. A. Taylor, Toronto, passing motorists. They were treated by Dr. Wallingford and Dr. Case, of Cobalt.
Provincial Officer H. Braney, Temagami, who investigated, said it was the most serious accident of the kind in his territory this year. All occupants of the car are in Cobalt hospital now. The mishap occurred near James Lake Camp.

Dog and Cat Combine in Perpetrating of "Crimes"

From Markstay, near Sudbury, comes the story of a couple of criminals leading "a cat and dog life" but prospering in what in others would be the crime of theft. In other words, Markstay boasts a dog and cat partnership in crime. "Squeak," a two-months-old kitten, and "Chummie," a mongrel deerhound, are inseparable and the feline aids its pal in bolstering meals.

When William Dufour brought his dog to Markstay to board with his brother-in-law, John Kerwin, he also brought a supply of meat sufficient to feed his dog for a week.

Not long after Mr. Dufour's departure, Mr. Kerwin decided to feed the dog. To his dismay the meat disappeared. The clue to the disappearance was found on a neighbour's lawn for there lay "Chummie" and snuggled close beside her, "Squeak" the kitten.

Mr. Dufour returned the following week, with a second instalment of meat, which was put away with great care, and again it disappeared. Again the only clue was the two, ordinarily enemies, sprawled on the lawn.

When a third supply of meat vanished, in spite of the fact that it was stored on a high shelf, Mr. Kerwin began to investigate. He watched the meat supply and witnessed the cause of the animal friendship.

"Squeak" the kitten, entered the summer house where the meat was stored, climbed up to the shelf, and a moment or two later succeeded in dislodging the basket of meat sending it tumbling down to the waiting dog.

Although the meat supply has since been placed beyond reach, the two animals are still inseparable companions.

Somewhere in This Town

Somewhere in this town, we feel sure, there is a little girl or little boy we don't know, who has crossed eyes.

For the sake of this single child, we print this message to the parents: Crossed eyes do not straighten themselves. Your child will not "out-grow" this sad affliction.

For it is a sad affliction. Not only from the standpoint of appearance, but also because of its effect on the child's character and personality. Supposing you saw the faces of loved ones in a blurred, distorted fashion!

If you are the parents of the little boy or little girl with crossed eyes, please come in and see us, and let us talk over what can be done for your child. Do not let the thought of cost keep you away; that can be arranged.

While we have the skill and knowledge to liberate a child from this more pleasant and more successful, we do not want any child within our reach to suffer all his life because his eyes are crossed.
