Honoured on Eve of Leaving to Attend Normal School

Some forty people turned out to surprise her with many small practical gifts, which were all packed into a suit case, which was handed to Miss Aho by Miss Linnea Martin. Amid hearty laughter Miss Aho opened the wide silk ribbon with which the suit case was tied, and opened also all the small parcels containing the surprise articles. Miss Aho thanked the ladies for their friendship and happy fellowship.

Games were enjoyed by all and the party ended with an enthusiastic singsong in Finnish and English languages with "God Save the King" as the final number.

Mrs. A. Helminen presided in the kitchen, assisted in serving by Miss Esther Leeman, Myra Heinonen and Gertrude Heinonen.

Miss Margaret Easton Re-opens Dancing Classes

Miss Margaret Easton and Jack Easton, Jr., returned on Sunday from a holiday visit to Lake Placid, New York City and other Southern centres. The beauty and charm of Lake Placid were greatly enjoyed by Miss Easton and her brother, while the visit to New York was made to reap other advantages. Miss Easton and brother Jack spent most of their New York time in the Broadway district getting new ideas for the dancing classes here. Since opening her dancing classes some years ago, Miss Easton has made a special point of keeping up to the minute in dancing features and new styles in this art. During the stay on Broadway famous dancing salons, cabarets, radio studios; concert halls and dancing academies were visited and the work in each of these places carefully studied. As a result of this, Miss Easton returns with new ideas and plans. It is her purpose to introduce new features into her dancing classes, and particular study has been given to novelties and original ideas in dancing. Miss Easton expects to adapt many of the new plans noted in New York and using these in the annual dance recital and children's dress ball at Timmins present to the people of Timmins and district a unique entertainment that will not only demostrate the talent and training of her pupils, but that will also strike off along new lines that by originality and clever adaptation is sure to provide a form of entertainment that will make special appeal to all.

Boys Cycle Down to Toronto and Return

Slept in Tent on Way Down. Two Cycled Back in Four Days

Ben Baumann, aged 16, and Albert Beaven, 15, arrived back in Timmins some days ago after a bicycle trip to Toronto and return. Harry Rumpel took the trip down with them, but returned from Toronto by train. The other two lads, however, cycled back just as they went down, with the exception that on the way down they used a tent they carried with them as sleeping quarters, while on the return trip they stopped at cabins, on account of the rain. The trip down took six days, but the one back was done in four days.

The boys took the trip as a holiday, using their bicycles for economy's sake, and they got a great thrill out of the adventure. "Sure, I'd take the trip again," Ben Baumann told The Advance this week. "It was great fun."

The boys after cycling all the way to the city, stopped with relatives of Ben Baumann. They were taken all through the Toronto Star office, and had five pictures taken of them by the Star photographer. They visited the museum, the exhibition and other interesting places, including Niagara Falls. On the way down they did their own cooking but on the way back they patronized the restaurants along the way. But all the way through it was a happy trip and a cheap one, and the enterprising and spirited lads who did it have something to remember as a high spot in youth.

Bush Fires Emphasizing Hazards of Prospecting

(From Globe and Mail)

The recent news from Red Lake announcing wiping out of several mining camps and communities in the western part of Red Lake emphasizes the hazards of the prospectors life and offers one more proof of the necessity for treating his calling with liberality and the utter folly of tying him down with the red tape of bureaucracy.

Pestered by insects, always subjected to the horrifying danger of bush fires in the summer, his is not a life of comfort or peace. Frozen stiff for several months of the year, laboriously keeping body and soul together with the aid of dogs or more expensive methods of transportation, he lives between the devil of heat and the deep sea of frigidity.

No man who has not experienced a bush or forest fire can possibly understand the speed with which they travel or the terror they inspire. Our thoughts go back to the great forest fires in the Slocan district of British Columbia in 1894, when we drew down wages as watchman at the Washington Mine, 7500 feet above sea level. We shall never forget that 48-hour nightmare; ever in memory will be those sheets of flame flying through the air for a quarter or half a mile, devouring dry and green timber alike with a roar like thunder.

This prospecting is a man's job; not one for umbrella-waving old ladies, no matter how kindly in nature they may be, or how serene their outlook on mining life from the comfortable environment of a swivel chair in the air-conditioned sanctity of Queen's Park.

Talking of Queen's Park, we have anonymously received a marked copy of the last official report of Mr. A. C. Young, pointing out that his report shows a large increase in claim recordings for the first six months of this year. We do not deny the authenticity of his figures, but we still maintain that prospecting is at a low ebb throughout the province and that the major part of the locations were made and recorded before the Securities Commission promulgated its latest regulations compelling a company to have $10,000 in the till before a start can be made, and that utterly ridiculous provision that no stock can be sold at less than 15 cents a share.

These absurdities and Quebec's No. 5 law were the last nails in the coffin of this year's prospecting enterprise, Queen's Park to the contrary notwithstanding.

Among the boys there is now a movement on foot to put up a headstone in Queen's Park in memory of the prospector before he was wound up in red tape so tight that he could not function, either for his own benefit or that of his country. Or, so it is said.

Little Danger Now of Paralysis Here

Medical Health Officer Says Timmins Has Had no Cases and Will Likely Escape.

Yesterday Dr. J. A. McInnis, Medical Health Officer for Timmins, said there had not been a case of infantile paralysis in Timmins recently and that with the arrival of frosts at night the danger of any cases here was reduced to the minimum. The infantile paralysis germ cannot survive cold weather, so in the opinion of Dr. McInnis there is little chance now for cases to develop here. All precautions are being taken, however, and all the doctors are watching very carefully to preserve Timmins' good record in the matter. Frost kills the virus in the air, the M.O.H. says, and so the only way that Timmins would be likely to have a case of infantile paralysis is from some infected person coming from the South.

While there have been no cases of the dread disease here, there have been some suspected cases. These, however, have turned out to be intestinal infection (intestinal "flu" to most people), many of the symptoms being the same.

St. Matthew's Scene of Pretty Wedding

Miss Maud Jackson and Mr. James Marshall Harris Married Yesterday.

The St. Matthew's Anglican Church was the scene of an exceptionally pretty wedding on Wednesday at 2 p.m. when Rev. Canon Cushing united in marriage, Maud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Jackson, of 29 Cherry street, and Mr. James Marshall Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harris, of 170 Maple street south. The church was attractively decorated with gladioli and fern.

The bride was very lovely in a gown of rust velvet, made on fitted lines and falling into a short train, buttoned to the waist at the back, a rust turban with an open crown and nose-length veil, and matching accessories. She carried a shower bouquet of Joan Hill roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Adeline Jackson, sister of the bride, attended as bridesmaid, wearing a gown of deep green velvet, with a short sleeved bolero style jacket, trimmed with numerous pleats. She wore a tam effect hat and matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. William Harris, of Schumacher, as best man.

After the ceremony a buffet lunch was served at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Jackson received the guests, attired in an afternoon dress of brown sheer crepe with matching accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by Mrs. R. J. Stone, sister of the groom, who wore an afternoon dress of rust crepe with brown accessories and a corsage of cream roses.

The bride and groom received many lovely gifts among which were a tea wagon from the directors of the T. Eaton Co., and a floor lamp from the staff of the T. Eaton Co.

In the late afternoon the bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to North Bay and points south. The bride wore a charming rose silk knitted suit and a beige jigger coat and beige hat, and a corsage of sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris will reside in Timmins.

Drives to Ottawa in Sixteen Hours

Albert Perrier Covers 521 Miles in Sixteen, Three-Quarter Hours. Uses Sixteen Gallons of Gasoline in Car.

Fast time was made by Albert Perrier, of Vimy Road, on a recent trip from Timmins to Ottawa and back. Mr. Perrier left Timmins for Ottawa at 4.15 in the morning and arrived in the Capitol at ten o'clock daylight saving time on the night of the same day, which meant that he covered the 512 miles in sixteen hours and forty-five minutes. In making the trip he used 16 gallons of gasoline. The return trip required seventeen gallons. Mr. Perrier was driving a Nash Lafayette 400.

Good Progress on Work of New Paving

Several Blocks to be Reopened for Traffic at Once.

The last ton of cement was laid this morning on the block on Fourth Avenue between Cedar and Balsam streets and the huge combination cement mixer and spreaded moved, on, under its own power, to Spruce between Fourth and Fifth Avenues. When it completes that block it will move to Pine between Fourth and Fifth avenues.

Streets that have been paved to date are Pine between Second and Kirby avenues, two blocks on Second avenue between Pine and Balsam streets; two blocks on Balsam between Second and Fourth avenues and one block on Fourth between Balsam and Cedar streets.

After a street is paved small walls of earth are built in squares of about six or seven feet. In the enclosed spaces is run water which remains there until the cement is set. This morning workmen were beginning to remove the the earth and dirt from the block on Pine street, and the street, which has been closed between those blocks for so many weeks, will be opened. Other streets will be cleared and opened in the order in which they were paved which means that Second avenue will be cleared next and then Balsam street and up Fourth avenue.

There has been some criticism of the fact that so many streets were blocked at one time but, it is explained it is only practical to do both sides of the road while the equipment is there. If the contractor were to do half of one street and leave the other side open and then go and do half of another before coming back to the first the snow would be here before the job was completed. Also, it must be remembered the cement, after it is laid, takes approximately ten days to set.
