

SOUTH PORCUPINE TO BE ON THE HIGHWAY

Would Have the Market Stands Facing on Pine

Farmers Think Market Would Attract More if Stands were Turned Around to Face Pine Street Instead of Inside Ball Park. Feel Market Not Yet Sufficiently Well Known.

Many of the farmers, truck farmers and vegetable growers who bring their produce to the Timmins market, would like to be able to turn the line of stalls they occupy completely around so that they would open on Pine street instead of in the ball park, as they now do. If they had their wish the counters would face east on Pine and, they argue, more people would be attracted.

More people are attending the market but the farmers and growers feel that there are still a large number who do not know or realize that it exists. One of the things they would like to see cultivated in the housewives of Timmins is the marketing habit.

The fact that Pine street has been closed for paving has been responsible for keeping many people away. Paving operations have prevented them from parking their cars on either Pine street or Second avenue and they do not wish to go to market and buy a lot of produce and then have to cart it home.

Where a week or so ago there was hardly any meat on the market it now occupies a large part of the available space. Pork sells for 15 to 26 cents; lamb for 18 to 28; baby beef for 10 to 27 and blood sausage for 20 cents a pound. Prices naturally vary according to the cut.

Sandy Falls seems to have something of a monopoly on the production of meat which is sold on the market. There is apparently something in the atmosphere there which promotes the growing of good animals for butchering.

Vegetable growers, nearly all come from just over the Mattagami river. There have been large quantities of choice vegetables displayed in the past few weeks. Prices remain constant, although some dealers say they are having to put more in bunches. Beets, carrots, onions all sell for five cents the bunch. Celery is still making its appearance. It is home grown celery, not as large as that imported from the Bradford flats, but none the less choice and tender.

Pullet eggs have been selling for 35 cents a dozen, larger grade A eggs for 50 cents.

To do that we need to see for ourselves, to speak of the North with the knowledge that comes from acquaintance. The more we know of the North, its progress and its problems, the better we can advise and inform others, so that the North and the rest of the province may cooperate to the advantage of all."

Alleged Thief W. Lavoie Breaks Jail Last Night

Twists Way Through Two Locks With a Stove Poker and Gains Freedom Through Lower Door. Was to Face a Charge of Auto Theft Here To-morrow. Is Second Escape. Police Spread Net.

A twisted lock and a cell with the door open were the only evidence of the departure of Wilfred Lavoie, who broke jail here last night and made his escape.

Lavoie was to have faced a charge of automobile theft tomorrow before Magistrate Atkinson. His case came up last week but he asked for a week to get counsel which was granted by the magistrate.

The escape was made, police believe, sometime close to or shortly after midnight. It was discovered this morning at about 6:15 o'clock when Sergeant Olson and a constable went down to the basement, where the temporary cell block has been located pending the destruction of the old town hall and the construction of a new one.

Lavoie is believed to have gotten hold of a poker that was used for a stove in the basement, and with it, prised the lock on the cell open and then the Yale lock that further secured the door. A piece of wire was found wrapped around the Yale lock this morning by police and also a broken piece of wood and table knife.

The cells are only temporary and of loose construction. The passageway between them and the walls is quite narrow so it would have been possible for Lavoie to have stretched his arm out of the cell and gained possession of the poker.

Chief Gagnon explained today that there often is considerable of a hubbub in the police office above the cells. If Lavoie had worked fast during the noise that often occurs when police bring in a drunk, the sounds would not have been heard.

When Lavoie got out of the cell all he had to do was open the lower door that was locked only with a skeleton key and he was free.

Breaking jail is said to be nothing

Alleged Forger Arrested

Andrew Robert Moffatt, Wanted Here for Forgery, Arrested by U.S. Immigration Authorities in Los Angeles.

Andrew Robert Lloyd Moffatt, for whom Timmins police have been searching to face charges of forgery, has been arrested in Los Angeles, California, by officials of the United States Department of Immigration. Arrangements are being made to have him returned to Timmins to face trial.

When Moffatt left several months ago after allegedly forging several cheques, the Timmins police department had circulars printed giving a complete description of the man with his picture.

The department was in communication with Chief of Police George Smith, of Winnipeg, who assisted materially in the search for the man.

Near the beginning of August Moffatt was suspected of being in Omaha, Nebraska. Additional circulars were sent to the Immigration Department and finally officials picked him up in California and notified Timmins police that they were holding him.

Police here and the Crown Attorney are making arrangements to return Moffatt from the port of deportation, which will probably be Vancouver or Victoria.

Moffatt was a sheet writer and advertising man. While here he was in the employ of the Timmins Daily Press.

One of the major attractions of the bazaar was a fashion show sponsored by the R. Devlin Co. Timmins branch, which is located opposite the fire hall in Timmins, and is operated by Mrs. Desrocher. Among the fur coats displayed were Rice Lake Seals, this being the only fur in Timmins which carries these furs, Hudson Seals of the finest quality, Persian Lamb and other grey lambs, and Silver Fox scarves added an attractive touch to many of the ensembles. An especially becoming ensemble was one of a seal and tweed combination. There were also knitted wear, afternoon dresses, gowns for dinner and evening wear, and luxurious wraps, of velvet and ermine.

The copy of the Wally Simpson wedding gown, which was on display, brought a light to the eye of many a lady in the audience, as did the beautiful ermine butterfly evening wrap.
