Special Training Course for Three Local Schools

Sergt.-Major John Young to Conduct Special Physical Education Course at Birch Street School, Schumacher School and Buffalo-Ankerite. Latter to Demonstrate at Teachers' Convention

The pupils of three schools in the camp, Birch street, Timmins, Schumacher Public, and Buffalo-Ankerite, began a special course of training this week under the instruction of Sergeant-Major John Young, R.C.R.I.C., of Militia Staff Headquarters M.D. 2, Toronto.

Sergeant-Major Young has been loaned by the militia headquarters to the Ontario Board of Education in order to bring the students training in reliability, discipline, self reliance and good citizenship. The course, which extends over a period of approximately three weeks, includes physical training and group games, military drill, rifle drill, shooting, first aid, signalling and lectures on citizenship, loyalty and patriotism.

In connection with the Teachers' Convention being held here on October 7 and 8, Sergeant-Major Young is taking a class of thirty pupils from Buffalo-Ankerite school and training them for a demonstration.

A class from Buffalo-Ankerite was chosen to show what could be done in rural schools where there is a lack of equipment. The children are gathering and making their own equipment, event to the extent of making gymnasium mats from sacking and straw and basketballs and medicine balls from the same materials. Wands, skittles and all the other equipment that will be used in the demonstration, which will be held in Birch street school on the afternoon of Thursday, October 7, will be made by the pupils.

Sergeant-Major Young's course and the demonstration which will climax it, is designed to prove to rural school teachers that training and discipline can be given their pupils with only a minimum of equipment.

The Schumacher cadet corps, which includes about 110 boys, is being given a course of training and brushed up on marching and cadet work. The course at Birch street consists mainly of physical training.

Sergeant-Major Young is a specialist in the type of work he is doing. He is one of a group of men that were chosen from the regular Canadian army and sent to the Royal Military College at Kingston to undergo a rigorous training to qualify in physical training, gymnastics, first aid, boxing, wrestling, swimming, life saving, anatomy and physiology.

After passing the tests the men were sent out to various districts to train the youth of the Dominion. Sergeant-Major Young's territory is from Sault Ste. Marie to Niagara Falls.

Captain J. M. Cummings, of Toronto, the officer in charge of this training course, will address the assembled teachers on Thursday, October 7 on Physical Training in Rural Schools.

"My Dad Devoted Life to the North"

Of less importance is the repeal of the Amusement Tax Act of 1927 with its 1932 amendment; yet, the doing away with this so-called nuisance tax while saving each one of us only a few cents now and again, when we go to the theatre, has saved us collectively thousands of dollars. Take care of the pennies, as the old saying goes, and the dollars will take care of themselves.

While administration costs have been reduced, the people have witnessed, during the last three years, a great extension of Health Service all over the province. Under Mr. Hepburn's government cancer and tuberculosis clinics have been increased both in number and extent. Mental patients have received greater care and attention than ever before. You must have read in the papers a few days ago that Mr. Hepburn had handed over to his Department of Health a blank cheque to extend the defensive programme directed against the serious paralysis epidemic raging in Southern Ontario.

Everyone of you who has children and most of you who have not, realize the need of looking after young people and giving them vocational guidance to gain placement in industry. The new Dominion-Provincial youth training plan is your answer. From 1930 to 1937 the opportunities for gainful employment were so limited that only unskilled work such as delivering groceries, etc., could be obtained by many young people. Money invested in education was dormant. This situation illustrates the need of something more than relief. Youth should be given vocational training to enable them to fit in with industry. In this extensive project the federal and provincial governments share equally the cost. Under the Youth Training Programme 350 young men are to be trained in forest conservation. 50 young men will be given a six months' course in mining. Each county in Ontario will have ten boys placed with ten outstanding farmers for a six months' apprenticeship. All the boys, under the plan, will receive pocket money and board and a course of lecture as well as practical instruction. Canadians must train Canadians whether they be Canadian by birth or by adoption, and in industry our progress will depend on the fresh supplies of earnest, dynamic, vital youth eager to gain for themselves a self supporting place in industry and commerce. Many other features of the plan are worthy of note but time prevents explanation. It is sufficient to say that it is the only practical and intelligent solution to the youth unemployment problem of today. All this has been effected by Mr. Hepburn's government in co-operation with Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King's federal government.

Actions speak louder than words. You have before you the evidence of a good, able and honest administration headed by a good, able and honest premier and it is your duty to see that the Hepburn government carries on.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, and particularly the ladies, you have all heard that the slogan of the Liberal party and of thousands of Conservatives of this riding is "The North needs Gallagher".

I know from personal experience that my dad has devoted his life to our North Country and particularly to our own riding. He has made many personal and family sacrifices so that the North should receive its proper heritage. My father paid particular attention to all requests, be they from rich man or poor man, regardless of race, religion or politics, and has done his utmost to help those who were entitled to help, without fear or favour. He is always ready to hear a complaint, grievance or appeal for help and I have never seen him impatient with anyone in trouble. I know very well how cheritable, kind and sympathetic he has been both as Reeve of the Township of Tisdale and as a private citizen. I know, too, how much my father, Charles Gallagher, has sacrificed for the welfare of our riding and I know that if he is elected he will be more steadfast, if that is possible, to the welfare of all the people of our riding irrespective of creed and politics.

JUST AN OLD COWHAND

He may be only 13 months old but he's every inch a cowboy from his half-pint hat to his furry chaps. Marvin Jensen, that's our diminutive cowhand, appeared at a Rodeo out West, attracted a lot of attention and was in turn fascinated by the man-sized cowboys he saw all wearing ten-gallon hats.

A Toast to Railwaymen Who Do Your Duty Well

(From Northern News)
A New Liskeard brakeman rode a runaway car full of scrap iron for six miles and finally brought it to a stop north of Cobalt.

And only the other day a railroader on the T. & N.O. Railway averted another disaster by quickly jumping aboard a car with some broken gear and pulling the emergency cord.

Possibly because we are so far from our railway stations here, we do not, perhaps, always pay our northern railroaders the tribute they deserve.

It's hard work on this road, whether on the freight or the passenger runs. Here's to the chaps who take us there and bring us back, a hearty, loyal and plucky bunch of men!
