POPPIES

(by W. A. D.)

With the near approach of Remembrance Day, the ladies are now out busy canvassing for Vetracraft Wreaths.

A few years ago Timmins and district was canvassed by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion for the sale of memorial wreaths for displays in windows. The Legion gave a small prize for the best display of an Armistice Day window and some striking windows was the result. For a number of years this feature continued, but for the past two years merchants and other businessmen have seemed satisfied to just display the Vetracraft wreath purchased.

This year, however, to stimulate the sale of Vetracraft products the Ontario Poppy Committee has had designed a special trophy for local competition. The rules governing the awarding of this trophy are now being drawn up by the officers of the Timmins Branch of the Canadian Legion.

The rule which should be borne in mind by those wishing to compete is that the window display must have a wreath from this year's catalogue, from which the ladies are now soliciting orders.

The trophy is very attractive and expresses the undying spirit of Remembrance quite adequately.

The popular suction-cup window poppies, a new feature last year, are again available this year and also a new-style boutonniere.

Poppy Day will be on Nov. 10th and by the permission of the town council, tagging will be continued until 11 a.m. on Thursday, November 11. The same privilege has been granted by the Township Council.

It is the hope of the Ontario Poppy Committee of the National Poppy Fund to make Ontario the province with the biggest turnover, both in sales of Poppies and Vetracraft wreaths. With this in view they have prepared the following interesting summary of the part played by Canada's young manhood during the Great War:

"Remember"

Enlistments in the Canadian Expeditionary Force	619,636
Number of Battle Casualties	51,748
Deaths from disease	6,767
Other deaths	2,146
Total Deaths	61,061
Served outside Canada	424,589
Buried in France and Belgium	37,900
Buried in United Kingdom	3,500
Buried in Canada	9,000

Other Canadians buried in Egypt, Salonika, Syria, Palestine, North Russia and Siberia.

On the Menin Gate at Ypres are inscribed the names of 7,000 Canadians whose last resting place is unknown.

On the Vimy Memorial are the names of 11,300 Canadians who have no known graves.

That is the reason the Legion asks you to wear an "Emblem of Remembrance" and use the slogan: "Wear a Poppy on Poppy Day."

Says Words Exaggerated by Toronto Newspapers
(From Kirkland Northern News)
The Regular Baptist Church members are standing behind the statements given in Toronto last week by their pastor, Rev. Cunningham. The morning service was taken by E. O. Daniell, local insurance man, in the absence of Mr. Cunningham, who was in Timmins.

A speaker from Timmins was slated to address the meeting but did not arrive because of the snowfall.

Before an audience of six people, Mr. Daniell said:

"The statement uttered by our pastor, has been plastered over the front pages of the press. It has been taken up and greatly exaggerated by the enemy."

Later in the meeting it was stated:

"The persons who reported and interpreted this statement of our pastor and that of Mr. Slade of Timmins, have absolutely no knowledge of righteousness, whatsoever."

As the Timmins speaker, Mr. Hicks, did not turn up during the day, the evening meeting was not held. A congregation of four turned out to sing hymns.

Clergy of Kirkland Lake and of the mining country in general joined over the week-end in refutation of the charges made at the Regular Baptist convention in Toronto against the north, when the Rev. H. C. Slade of Timmins described Kirkland Lake as a modern Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Rev. J. B. Cunningham of Kirkland Lake declared that evangelism was difficult, because miners' hearts were harder than the rock which they drilled and women's hearts are full of sin and iniquity of all kinds.

Dr. J. C. Cochrane, superintendent of northern missions for the United Church, was emphatic in taking issue with the statements.

"And I resent the statement that 'a miner's heart is harder than the rock in which he drills.' Nowhere will you find a kinder, more generous-hearted people than the mining men of the north. It is true, they do drink. But no more so than do the general run of people everywhere. And they are absolutely free from hypocrisy."

Hearts abrim with "friendliness and generosity" rather than "filled with iniquity" were found in the north country by Rev. Dr. Peter Bryce, moderator of the United Church of Canada, who recently returned to Toronto after a tour of mining centres.

Dr. Bryce said: "I saw nothing in all my visit that would make me agree with those statements. The men and women I met up north are of a fine type."

He visited Kapuskasing, Matheson, Sudbury, North Bay, Porcupine, Cochrane, Timmins, Schumacher, Noranda, Halleybury and New Liskeard.

On the editorial page is a letter from Rev. Walter Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church at Kirkland Lake, disassociating himself and his church with the statements made by the Regular Baptists.

Laid Up For Weeks By Sciatica

At 76 Kruschen Conquered His Complaint

At 86 years of age, this man is still going strong, yet 10 years ago he was laid up for weeks with an attack of sciatica. Read how he keeps fit in spite of his advanced age:

"Ten years ago, I was laid up for about a month with a severe attack of sciatica. I was quite unable to sleep and I suffered a great deal. I tried several remedies, but obtained little relief. At last I saw one of your advertisements, and decided to give Kruschen a trial. I stuck to it and took about half-a-teaspoonful every morning in my coffee and my sciatica gradually went. I was 86 last month—still going strong—and my friends ask me how I keep my clear skin and healthy looks. I tell them all it is due to Kruschen Salts."—C.T.L.

Whether you are in your 'teens or past your prime, it is neither too early nor too late to start on the "little daily dose." Just a tiny, tasteless pinch in your morning tea or coffee—that's the Kruschen rule for constant fitness.

Opening Badminton Club, Iroquois Falls

Presentation Made to Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Reid at Iroquois Falls.

Iroquois Falls, Ont., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Advance)—A surprise farewell party in honour of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Reid, was held at their home on Saturday evening by a few intimate friends. The evening was spent in dancing. Refreshments were served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Reid were presented with a beautiful silver tray and a cut glass relish dish.

The official opening of the Badminton Club took place on Saturday evening, October 23rd, in the town hall. Several exhibition games were played, after which refreshments were served. The officers of this club are: President, A. R. Armstrong; vice-president, Mrs. H. M. Young; secretary, G. Edwards; chairman of match committee, T. LaVallee; match committee made up of the following: Miss A. Wilkes, Mrs. I. Osborne, Mrs. A. R. Armstrong, Mr. C. Benson, W. Urinchuck, and B. Shaw.

Unique Ski Club that Charges No Fees or Dues

What is thought to be the only co-operative ski club in the world has been organized at Jasper National Park. There are no fees and anyone in the Park who wants to join simply does his share of clearing ski-runs and trails and building club quarters. The clubhouse is being built of trees which are cut down to make the trails. The Canadian Government has deeded a large area on the northwest slope of Whistler Mountain for skiing purposes. It lies only two miles from the village of Jasper and may be reached by motor road which will be kept clear of snow in winter. More than 10 miles of trails will be in use in two years, it is expected.

Miner Sarcastic on "Sin and Iniquity"

Thinks Difference Should be Made in Hardness of Hearts to Agree with Different Rocks.

The following letter was received on Monday for publication, but was too late for insertion in that issue.

Timmins, Ont., Oct. 25, 1937.

To the Editor of The Advance, Timmins.

Dear Sir:—

Friends, Romans, miners, lend me your ears. The evil that miners do lives after them. The good is oft interred with their bones.

I come not to bring the charge but to prove it. For many months I have contemplated the weighty problem of your sins and mine, but have always regarded them as a private or semi-private matter. This attitude was somewhat interfered with, however, when two of our Northern men mentioned it in public at a meeting last week. It was further complicated by the fact that his meeting was held in Toronto the Good and was composed of people from that church-going city.

One of the audience was a reporter, by occupation, and either he didn't hear very well, or was very lenient in summing up. Evidently he doesn't know the half of it, because he only criticizes our hearts, and even then casually. The reporter's paper meekly quoted that the miners' hearts were as hard as the rock which they drill, in referring to men of that occupation in Kirkland Lake and Timmins. The reference to the women of these two camps was much more interesting and it is this latter gentle touch that has prompted me to seek further information from the spokesmen.

Prior to asking for these details I would like to make a suggestion.

My teachers always encouraged me to look at the bright side of a problem and in casting about for a gleam regarding these reports I immediately noted that the newspapers carrying these columns would for the most part be confined to Ontario, which, after all, only has a population of three and a half millions. I shudder when I think of how it could have been put on the radio and been listened to by the Americans, and all those people in the dried-out area of the West who can't subscribe to a newspaper. The few that have read about it I feel sure will consider it a confidential matter, and before it becomes public I would like to see a couple of points cleared up.

Firstly, these spokesmen referred to us as a class and classed us all alike, which I humbly suggest to be in error. This places myself and many of my fellow workers who have never toiled below the 1500 foot level in the same group as those hard rock McIntyre miners who are now working in the second mile down from the surface, and with miners of the lower levels of Lake Shore at Kirkland Lake. In the latter mine the rock is so hard and brittle that occasionally air blasts occur which shake the houses in the town nearby and cause common household articles such as cups, plates and Bibles to fall from their shelves. Naturally many of us do not like to have our hearts compared with the hearts of men who work in these places, and if our sinfulness is going to receive any publicity we respectfully urge the spokesmen for Northern sins to make this distinction. Thanks.

With respect to the alleged remarks about the Northern women at the Toronto meeting which, incidentally is my reason for this communication, may I say this. I am very slow at meeting people. Stony-hearted people get that way, and I have not been able to locate the type that the reporter quotes are numerous. I envy the Northern spokesman his experiences with them, in getting his information which I presume must be accurate and will make him the following offer. I will give him free title to a genuine Northern forgiveness for all he has said regarding the miners if he will give us an introduction to some of those women that he knows and which he has described.

S. Tony Hart.

P. S.—Please give the addresses to the same reporter. It gives us all an even break.

Hon. T. B. McQuesten Says New Campaign Against Highway Accidents Bringing Results.

The press of Ontario is the most important single factor in the war being waged against highway deaths and accidents, according to an opinion expressed this week by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways for the province.

"Although conclusive statistics have not yet been completed," said Mr. McQuesten, "there can be no question that the 'fear' campaign which the highways department has conducted during the past several months has had a definite effect on the reduction of the horrible carnage and needless waste which has been stalking our highways."

"It is quite evident," he declared, "that whatever success this campaign has achieved is due in great measure to the whole-hearted co-operation which has been extended to the Department of Highways by editors in every Ontario community, and I wish through the medium of the press to extend to them this department's warmest gratitude for the public-spirited way in which they have used their news and editorial columns to save human lives and prevent misery and destruction."

Comments have been pouring into his office every day, the minister said, both from motorists and pedestrians concerning the effectiveness of the department's campaign. The most significant, he maintained, came from scores of travelling salesmen and truck drivers.

"These men," said Mr. McQuesten, "are driving on the highways every hour of the day and each day in the week. They, perhaps more than any other groups, are more quick to observe changes in the driving habits of the motorists of the province, and they have been almost unanimous in commenting on the general improvement in highway motoring. They report less cutting in, less passing on hills and curves, and a noticeable reduction in all the bad, careless, thoughtless habits which result in death and destruction on the highway."

But there is still much work to be done, pointed out the minister. People are still being slaughtered on the roads of the province, and automobiles are still piling themselves up in twisted heaps of wreckage. The war against thoughtlessness, recklessness and stupidity on the highways must be carried on until people can travel in complete safety and pleasure.

To this end, he called for the unceasing aid of Ontario editors and every pedestrian and motorist in the province.

"The Department of Highways," stated Mr. McQuesten, "is doing everything it can to design and construct highways which will be as accident-proof as engineering science can make them, but this can be of little effect unless the human beings who travel the highways take upon themselves the responsibility of controlling the ever-present 'human factor' in accident prevention. Engineers can mold concrete and steel to the ends of safety, but no force more potent than the press has been found which can mold human minds into paths of life-saving thoughtfulness."

RISKS DEATH BY CANCER

Dr. Matthias Duque, 68-year-old former director of public health in Cuba, shows his bandaged arm after he received injections of cancerous tissue in Havana. Dr. Duque volunteered for the injections in the interests of science's war against the dreaded disease. He jubilantly declared that he felt confident that he would develop cancer from the injections. With him is Dr. de Grana who inoculated him.
