Taking Principalship of Collingwood Collegiate

Mr. Neil Runnals, for the past four years teaching mining and H. S. Science at the Timmins High and Vocational School, will be one of the teachers to leave here this year, having accepted the position of principal of Collingwood Collegiate Institute. During the four years he has been in Timmins, Mr. Runnals has won the high opinion of all by his excellent work at the school. In addition to his teaching ability he has been popular and highly esteemed by the pupils, and as coach of the senior basketball here he has been unusually successful. There will be general regret at the fact of Mr. Runnals leaving Timmins, but he will be followed by the sincere good wishes of all in his new duties, the principalship of Collingwood Collegiate being an important post, this Collegiate having a staff of ten teachers and being of high standing in the province.

BROOKS—In loving memory of our dear son, Barry Brooks, who departed this life on May 26, 1933. I cannot say, and I will not say, That he is dead, he is just away. Observe Clean-up Week

Help to Make Timmins a Cleaner, Safer Town.

This is Clean-up Week, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and supported by the town authorities, the board of health, the fire department, the horticultural society and the business and professional men of the town.

The idea behind the Clean-up Week is to make Timmins a more attractive town in which to live. Not only is the thought to clean up unsightly rubbish and litter from yards and lanes and homes, and so make the town more attractive, but also by doing this to remove fire hazards and risks to health. Disease breeds in litter and rubbish in the house or out. A clean town is a healthy town and a town safer from fire danger.

By endorsing the clean-up idea, the Timmins Horticultural Society carried the idea further along logical lines, and urged the making of lawns, the growing of flowers to add to the attractiveness of the town and the pleasure of visiting Timmins or living here.

If you haven't done your bit yet, do it now!

Party and Shower in Honor of Bride-to-be

Miss Ivy Rudd Guest at Event and Showered with Gifts and Good Wishes

The home of Mrs. J. T. Geddes, 91 Main Ave., was beautifully decorated in pink and white on Monday evening when a number of friends gathered there to honor Miss Ivy Rudd, a bride-to-be, at a party and shower.

Mrs. Bellisle introduced the guests of honor, and as she entered the room, the guests joined hands and sang "She's a Jolly Good Fellow," to express their fondness and liking for Miss Rudd. During the evening, cards and other games were played, following which a decorated chair was brought into the room. The guest of honor was invited to "sit down" and immediately as she did this, a shower of hidden confetti fell upon her, adding gaiety and merriment as well as a "forecast" of the wedding to the occasion. Miss Rudd was then presented with a large basket filled with gifts from her friends into which had gone their best wishes, and she expressed her appreciation of this kind thought.

The event was brought to a close with the serving of a delicious lunch by the hostess, Mrs. J. T. Geddes, assisted by Mrs. Bellisle and Mrs. E. Martin.

Department Looks for Mine Extension

The Dominion Department of Mines is looking for excellent results in the far-flung mining areas of Canada during the present year and a very material increase in the output of gold. The future of base metals in nearby months is, however, somewhat obscure, as much will depend upon the revival of industry, particularly in the United States, where conditions will naturally affect those of this country. For the first time gold production is expected from the Yellowknife area at Great Slave Lake, where at least two new mills will be in operation before year-end, and where good results are anticipated for years to come. Also from Lake Athabasca.

Discoveries at Zeballos, in British Columbia, are also expected to contribute wealth from new sources, and revival in the old Cariboo district adds colour to the picture. Nearer home, accentuated activity in the old Porcupine area and in the new-old Larder Lake field are definitely looked to for important additions to the national wealth. Offhand, it is possible that last year's output of $143,000,000 in gold will be augmented by at least 10 per cent, and may go considerably higher.

While there has been a definite slackening of public interest in financing of new ventures, it is believed support will be sufficient to look after the most meritorious new projects this year. A high official of the department, when questioned about the advisability of the Dominion creating an agency through which loans might be made to mining companies and individuals under certain conditions of safety, said that, while the matter had not been broached to his department, it might be worthy of serious consideration, although loans upon highly speculative collateral, such as mines, involved considerable risk which could not be removed. The matter might, however, receive serious consideration if the support of the public failed. Development of the great new fields of the North must go on uninterruptedly in the best interests of all the people.

Why Doesn't the Market Move?
There has been considerable discussion, here and there, of late, as to when and if this market will stage a comeback, and, as many have had their say, there seems to be no reason why we should not put in an oar for what it is worth.

Our memory goes back to the big excitement in the Coeur d'Alenes, after the vagrant burro had kicked a chunk off the great footwall showing of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, and compasses the later stampedes to Siocan, Roesland, Boundary, Tonopah, Goldfield, Kingman, Nelson, Bridge River, and the waves of copper enthusiasm which swept over Montana and Arizona, sending out wavelets down into Old Mexico and as far north as

TENDERS FOR COAL AND COKE

SEALED Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tenders for Coal," will be received until 12 o'clock noon (daylight saving), Monday, June 6, 1933, for the supply of coal and coke for the Dominion buildings throughout the Province of Ontario.

Forms of tender with specifications and conditions attached can be obtained from the Purchasing Agent, Department of Public Works, Ottawa, and the Supervising Architect, 36 Adelaide St. East, Toronto, Ont.

Tenders should be made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with departmental specifications and conditions attached thereto.

When the amount of a tender exceeds the sum of $5,000.00—whether it be for one building only or more—the tenderers must attach to their tender a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works equal to 10 per cent of the amount of the tender, or Bearer Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company and its constituent companies, unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Dominion of Canada or the aforementioned bonds and a certified cheque, if required to make up an odd amount.

The Department also reserves the right to demand from any successful tenderer a security deposit, in the form of a certified cheque or bond as above, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of his bid, to guarantee the proper fulfillment of the contract.

By Order,
J. M. SOMERVILLE,
Secretary,
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, May 6, 1933.

Prince of Wales Island, Alaska.

That experience taught us that the market activity in Toronto has lasted longer with intensity than any other in the history of the North American continent, and we are not afraid to go back even far beyond our own time and take in the excitement at San Francisco after the epochal discovery of Jim Marshall and the later wild orgy of gambling that followed discovery of the great Comstock Lode in the shadow of Mount Davidson. Even to-day, transactions on the Toronto Stock Exchange are of greater volume than in any other center, now or in the past.

We often wonder what the Toronto man expects for his money. Surely he has had his fill of excitement in the past twelve years and must know that mining markets have a habit of blooming and withering with the years. Obviously Toronto is the centre of a far greater virgin area than any other mining centre in the history of mining in the Americas, but even so she cannot expect high-pressure markets all the time. The public must be given time to replenish its purse after each burst of enthusiasm, and that takes time.

Then, again, this market has come so closely under the domination of the New York Stock Exchange, now trimmed down to the hocks by the S.E.C., that it has only now begun to toddle on its own feet and is obviously wobbly. The time may come when the people of this and other provinces of the Dominion will come to the conclusion that gold stocks and gold mines of the Great North have about as much to do with the up-and-down motions of securities in Jitterland on Wall Street as we have with the Einstein theory of relativity. But, patently, that time is not yet.

Nothing will bring a market back to the boiling point like a new strike of rich ore in a new district, and that, as we see it, is what the market is waiting for now. When properties go on production they become commercial enterprises, with values based upon earning ability. The romance has gone and mining markets live almost wholly on romance and the hope of big reward.

We hate to inject a note of pessimism into the situation, but we do wish to suggest that perhaps the present protracted dullness has been made. Would it not be a wise move to call real prospectors into consultation with government authorities and ascertain if there is not something that could be done to lighten their burdens and give them some assurance of fair reward if initiative and self-abnegation should result in discovery of something worthwhile?

It may be a work of supererogation to call attention to the fact that prospecting largely died after certain regulations were promulgated in this province just a year ago, and that Quebec has done, and is still doing, all stupidity can do to classify the prospector with the dodo. Give him his head; give him the only chance he seeks—to get out in that Northern bush, dreaming of riches that he may find for himself and, when found, share with you with a generosity unknown to any other class.

You cannot have your cake and eat it too. Neither can you have markets if new mines are not found, and you cannot have new mines if you throttle the spirit of adventure and hope of reward that finds them. Fifty years behind the United States in development of tremendous mineral resources, you have cluttered up the uncut trails to the North with inhibitions and suspicions that are sterilizing the great gifts of nature.

You ought to be in the midst of the greatest prosperity in history, just as the United States experienced her greatest period of activity when the mining areas of that country were being explored, exploited and developed. You have the greatest opportunity ever given to any nation in recent years, and it is yours to embrace if you will, but you cannot asphyxiate initiative and expect to open the Great North, where lies your greatest national hope, and one that only the prospector and the capitalist can transmute into value to you.

FOOLS GOLD

The sensible buyer knows that to have the things she wants, at the place where she can conveniently buy them, she must pay men to make and carry them.

If the price she pays does not include these charges, then something else she buys must include them. Many stores each week will sell some goods below cost; but you can't avoid paying for the service you get, by trying to fill your pantry with loss leaders, because if the wages of those who make and distribute your necessities are not paid, they will stop doing it.

Some stores, of course, in order to create large profits, charge more than is needed for fair wages, rent, freight and so on. To defend herself against this, the housewife was driven to bargain hunting.

But this cannot happen in a Co-operative Society, where price is set in accordance with the cost of distributing, with a small margin for safety. And whatever is left of that margin after costs are met, is returned to the buyer in proportion to the amount she has bought.

Co-operators, therefore, pay only the bare cost of distribution and production. The sensible buyer knows that if this is not paid, she won't get anything, so she doesn't try to escape it. In a co-operative store each article's price should cover just the true cost of distributing it, neither more or less, "Specials" should have no place and if you will help, we shall do away with them.

Consumers Co-operative prices are low, these for example are some of this weeks items
