Twenty Years Ago

From The Porcupine Advance Files

Twenty years ago a woman and two men were arrested for being drunk and disorderly. The woman created quite a disturbance while being taken in charge, and when the case was tried she was fined $25.00 and costs, while the two men escaped with $10, and costs each. The woman went to Schumacher the afternoon of the trial and was picked up there again for being drunk and disorderly. She came before the magistrate again at South Porcupine, just a few hours after her appearance at Timmins. The magistrate decided it would be best to send her to Haileybury to get properly sobered up.

At the meeting of the town council twenty years ago it was decided that the summer water services should be extended. Also, the town decided to purchase a flag for use on special occasions. Councillor Globe, chairman of the waterworks committee, explained that more power for pumping purposes was imperative. An attempt had been made through the use of larger pulleys to make the old motor answer, but this had proved impractical for safety. Mr. Globe, suggested the replacing of the present 30-horsepower motor by a 50-horsepower at an additional cost of $200.00. On motion, council endorsed this plan.

The sketch in The Advance under the heading of "Prominent in the Porcupine," as published on June 19th, 1918, was a brief biography of Mr. Jas. E. Boyle, then reeve of Tisdale township. "Mr. Boyle was a hardworking and attentive member of the township council in 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917," said The Advance, "and he also gave good service on the school board in 1915 and 1916, being chairman of the board for both these years. Mr. Boyle has been in the North Country the greater part of his time since 1892, so he may rightly be considered as one of the old-timers."

Twenty years ago at the annual meeting of the Dome Extension Mines Company there were two changes in the directorate of the company. J. S. Wilson, of Massey, and A. S. Wigmore, of Toronto, resigning, and their places on the board being taken by A. H. Curtis, New York, and G. C. Miller, Buffalo. At the annual meeting of the Dome held about the same time, J. S. Wilson, of Massey, who was the original staker of the property, resigned from the Dome directorate and his place was taken by W. D. Joyce, of New York. In the absence of President De Lamar, of the Dome, W. S. Edwards, vice-president, occupied the chair at the annual meeting.

The boxing bout between Prof. Morrow and Young Sampson, the strong man, at the Empire theatre twenty years ago, was a big disappointment. Sampson was too much of a slugger to make the contest of much interest. Referee Jack Faithful closed the bout because of the punishment being taken by Morrow, whose blows had absolutely no effect on the "Syrian Slugger," as Sampson called himself. "After the stopping of the bout," according to The Advance's report, "Morrow had a black eye and a badly bruised face, in addition to his percentage of the house." Dominion Police C. O'Connor who acted as second for Morrow, took the slugger on for a few rounds and created some interest by his handling of the big fellow. O'Connor thought about half the weight of Sampson, and handicapped by the fact that he had to fight in his ordinary clothes, put up a battle that surprised Sampson and delighted the crowd. Sampson was interviewed by the police after the show as to his standing in regard to the order-in-council requiring every man to be engaged in honest and useful work. Sampson left town on the early morning train the next day, and the band was not out to see him off.

Twenty years ago a lad of ten or twelve years of age, had been using his observation to some effect, opened the door of the safe of Ed. Malek, grocer, Moneta, and grabbing what money he could easily secure in a hurry, managed to get about $160.00 cash. The safe door was shut but not locked, this being the usual way it was left in the daytime—up to that time—but never again. The lad went out and distributed the money around among his friends. Through the capable work of Constable McInnis at Moneta the culprit was discovered in the course of a few hours.

One of the most successful advertising "stunts" tried here twenty years ago was introduced to town by the Curtis Drug Co. A window was filled with a great variety of articles, all retelling for a dollar or more, many being worth as high as $5.00. Each article was attached to a string, and these strings were brought back over a bar into a tangled bundle. The customer chose a string and drew on it, not knowing what it would pull along. Practically everybody got "on the string," and there was much interest. Crowds lined the sidewalks for a couple of hours when the window was completely cleared out. One lady drew a string, only to find she had won a safety razor, and laughingly trying her luck again, she drew a razor strap. A man drew a book! "Hang it," he said, "I never learned to read!"

Among the local and personal items in The Advance twenty years ago were the following:—"Mr. Homer L. Bibson came up on Friday's National to spend a few days in the camp." "Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Lowe are visiting in the East." "Mr. Ken Deacon, who has been overseas with the C.E.F. for several months, arrived home at South Porcupine on Saturday evening."

Northern News:—California man drove at 80 m.p.h. to catch his wife, who was running away, and was fined $25, which he couldn't pay. She had all the money, which was probably the only reason he was chasing her.

Valedictory at the Nurses' Graduation

Graduating Nurses Express Appreciation to All.

The following is the valedictory given at the graduation exercises at St. Mary's hospital on Thursday last:

Valedictory
Rev. Mr. Chairman and Friends: On this, the occasion of the 10th annual graduation exercises of St. Mary's School of Nurses, we extend to all a hearty welcome and express our sincerest appreciation of your kind interest. It is indeed gratifying to be honored by such a large attendance and we hope that you will enjoy this gathering as much as we enjoy having you with us tonight.

This event marks the completion of our three years of training—three short years crowded with work, study, interest and excitement. But rather than regard it as the end, we feel it is only the beginning of our lives as nurses. So vast is the field of work to be done and knowledge to be gained, we realize more than ever that it is truly a commencement.

We will carry away an abundant store of memories of our days as student nurses, some of which will naturally be unpleasant but these will be pushed to the background and overshadowed by thoughts of pleasant incidents and the joy derived from serving and helping those placed under our care.

In this school as in any other school, the person to whom we are responsible for our actions and behaviour naturally receives the most consideration and respect, and she will occupy a very prominent place in our memories. In our school this esteemed personage is Sister Mary Fidelis to whom we are grateful for all she has done for us—consolation in times of distress, advice in time of uncertainty and even well-deserved reproof. But we think of her chiefly as our friend, and we take this opportunity to thank you, Sr. Mary Fidelis, and we will endeavour to show our appreciation by living up to the principles you have taught us.

To Sister Superior, and to the members of the medical board, as well as all others, who co-operated in the least way, we owe our heart-felt thanks for the realization of a long cherished dream—our residence. We are justly proud of our beautiful modern building and appreciate to the fullest extent all the comforts and advantages it affords. We realize, too, just how much untiring effort, patience and hard work it meant to those who brought about the erection of this new wing. We are proud, too, of the fact that the class of '38 is the first to graduate in our spacious auditorium.

We thank our parents who made possible our ambitions, who aided, guided and encouraged us throughout the past three years. We are happy to repay in some small measure the great debt that we owe them.

To the medical staff, we offer a vote of thanks, for their instructive and interesting lectures, their unfailing co-operation and assistance. They have always been most kind and understanding, the mere fact that they entrusted their patients to our care is a source of satisfaction as well as incentive to greater efficiency in our profession. The Sisters and supervisors too must be remembered for their splendid instruction and unceasing efforts to guide us in our daily tasks. We wish to express our appreciation to Reverend Father O'Gorman for his course of lectures in Ethics. His sound advice since the beginning of the training school has made him our benefactor and his absence tonight strikes a note of disappointment on an otherwise happy occasion.

It is a time honored custom to bestow a little sound advice to our school-mates, but we feel that we are not qualified for this awe-inspiring task. Rather, we might all impress upon our minds a few of the thoughts Rev. Mother Provincial left with us during her brief but pleasant visit: The value of discretion, the gift of an understanding heart, and never to allow material gain to obscure loftier ideals.

Once again, we welcome you, our friends, to our graduation, and you have proved yourselves friends, in the finest sense of the word, by all your kindness and unfailing trust, which we sincerely hope may never be considered misplaced.

We thank you.

Humorous Summary of Graduates of 1938.
The following "jingle" was given on Thursday night at the graduation exercises of St. Mary's Hospital, and created much interest and amusement. Many who enjoyed the humour of the composition have asked for its reproduction in these columns.
