months his junior—with their daughter, Mrs. J. H. Smith, at Stop 19 on the main highway.

He told the correspondent he remembered when the present area of the city of Ottawa was still pasture land and when the now thriving town of Renfrew consisted of three streets and no sidewalks. Pembroke, as he knew it years ago, had one tavern, four blacksmith shops, a store and the court house. One of his recollections is of a man named Copeland, who lived in Pembroke, and who owned a team of moose, and it was Mr. Bailey's duty to clean and curry these animals. They were used, he said, between Ottawa and Pembroke by their owner, and they could make good time along the snow roads in their travels. Mr. Bailey was born on January 29, 1850, and has spent most of his life in this country, to which he said he came in the days before there was any regular steamer service between Britain and Canada.

What is Being Done for the Blind Here

Field Secretary Reviews Some of the Work in This District.

There were meetings this week of both the Timmins and South Porcupine ladies' committees of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, and to both meetings Mr. D. B. Lawley, supervisor of Ontario Field Services of the Institute, submitted reports of unusual interest. Among those present at the Timmins meeting were:—Mrs. H. L. Traver, Mrs. Dorschner, Mrs. Langman, Mrs. Robson, Mrs. Coulson, Mrs. Halperin, Mrs. L. E. Dorway.

Both the Timmins and South Porcupine ladies have plans well under way for the present campaign.

In his report Mr. Lawley pointed out that during the year the registered blind of the Ontario Division grew to 3132 sightless men, women and children.

Pursuing its work the Institute, through its many departments of activity had rendered services or had made active contact with all of this group with the exception of about twenty-five who had been difficult to seek out.

This fact set forth, as nothing else could, the thoroughness and efficiency of the work and Mr. Lawley wished to thank Mrs. L. E. Dorway and all the ladies of the Porcupine district for their noble and unselfish part in making this result possible. He also thanked all the patrons and subscribers of this district for their generous support of services for the blind.

A number of new cases had appeared in the Porcupine district and these were to have examinations of their eye condition with a view to action.

He mentioned in particular one boy formerly of Timmins and was sure that all citizens and service organizations would be glad to hear of this boy's progress. This lad lost his sight when very young from infantile paralysis. The Children's Aid Society, through Mr. A. G. Carson, first brought this boy to the attention of the Institute six years ago. He was sent to the Ontario School for the Blind but for various reasons was sent home on the grounds of not being capable of receiving education. The Institute sent a teacher to Timmins to specially teach this boy. He went to the School and was again rejected. Finally the Institute found him at Latchford and after clearance with the Children's Aid Society of Temiskaming the boy was taken to North Bay. The Home Teacher was again sent in to coach him and in September last he was admitted to the Ontario School for the Blind and promises to be an average pupil. It has been a long struggle and whilst the infantile paralysis had wrecked much of mind and body and had robbed the boy of his sight, it was believed by the field secretaries and others of the Institute that beneath the wreckage there was a boy who could be educated and who would grow up to more fully appreciate the true things of life.

Speaking of the School Mr. Lawley pointed out that there were ten pupils graduated from the Ontario School for the Blind in June, 1937, and before the end of the summer they were all found employment by the Institute. Thirteen graduated last month, June, 1938, and they hoped to have them all employed by the end of this summer. It is the aim and the hope of the Institute to see that every blind pupil who graduates is found work as soon as possible so that no period of discouragement will ensue. There is a useful happy place for every blind person in his or her community and it is the work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind to help each blind person to find that place.

Premier Faces Facts that His Critics May Forget

(From Toronto Telegram)

From Czechoslovakia to Spain to China; from China back again to Spain and Czechoslovakia. That, with a few stops here and there at Palestine, Egypt and other points east, is the course Premier Chamberlain's mind has to keep travelling. When the situation is relieved in one corner of the globe, trouble develops elsewhere. In handling a problem anywhere, he has to take into account the certainty that other problems, old and new, will present themselves in the old familiar places.

His critics do not have to care about these things. They can concentrate their attention on one spot and forget all the rest. They can call for commitments to Czechoslovakia, overlooking the fact that trouble is looming up in Spain. They can call for war in Spain, without calculating the chances that Japan may prove threatening in China. When it suits them, they can advocate war for China, as though trouble in Europe was a possibility too remote to be considered.

The difference is the difference between responsibility and irresponsibility. The man in charge of affairs has to consider everything, and above all the safety of the people who have entrusted him with the task of governing them and for them. His critics have to consider nothing but the effect of their own noise, the capital they may make and the embarrassment they may cause the government. Thinking persons will be able to judge sanely between the government and its opponents. If there are enough unthinking persons in the country the nation may be forced into war. That will be a cheerful end to the controversy.

Statistics Suggest that Begging May Be Made Pay

(James Finan, in the Forum)

Does begging pay? Most emphatically it does. The professional beggars "take" in authenticated cases, has reached $50 a day.

A 22-year-old beggar, arrested for scratching the arm of a restaurant hostess when she refused to let him solicit from table to table, was found to own a home in Riverside, R.I., and a $6,800 bank balance. He claimed that the income from begging in the eastern seaboard cities had dropped during the recession, from $65 to $12 or even $10 per day.

Fifty thousand dollars per day is the estimated haul by beggars in New York city alone. Most of this is picked up by individuals, operating on their own. But signs of syndicated management appear.

A man in the Bronx, arrested recently, turned out to be a panhandling overlord. Each morning he delivers his beggars to "work" in his car. He called for them at night and collected their money; then he lodged and fed them and plied them with cheap liquor to keep up their morale.

Roe Fulkerson, editorial writer of the Kiwanis Magazine, offers this suggestion for men who suffer from inferiority complexes: Watch a woman trying to back an auto into a narrow parking space on a busy street.

Nearly Ninety But Still Going Strong

Old-timer of Cobalt Camp Hale, Hearty and Happy Between 88 and 89.

North Cobalt, June 30—(Special to The Advance)—Dancing a little jig to demonstrate to the correspondent his spirits are still light despite the fact that he is almost midway between his 88th and 89th birthdays, William Bailey may not be the oldest resident of this section of Temiskaming, but certainly he is about the spriest for his years. The veteran, a familiar figure at court sittings in Haileybury and Cobalt, a regular frequenter of the Cobalt market, and a sturdy pedestrian yet, needs no glasses to reinforce his eyesight and his memory, is remarkably good. In earlier life, after coming to Canada from his native England, Mr. Bailey lived in the Ottawa Valley and in Hastings county, but in recent years has made his home, with his wife—15

Lady Used Novel Way to Make the Truck Move Over

(Windsor Star)

Miss Ruth Barofsky is a registered nurse in Boston. She has discovered one method to get a truck out of her way when its driver refused to move. She just bit the driver.

When the nurse was hurrying to an appointment, she found the road blocked by a truck. When the driver just leered at her, the nurse got out of her car and went to the truck. The driver leaned back and laughed. He hitched his trousers and displayed the bare calf of a leg. Miss Barofsky sank her teeth into the truck driver's leg.

He let out a roar and jumped out of the truck. The nurse climbed in, drove the truck to the curb, then calmly got into her own car and drove along. She was brought to court for driving a truck without a license, but was let off on that count. She had to pay $25 for assaulting the truck driver, who appeared in court with a bandaged leg.
