Fur-Trader Appears at Court at Sudbury

J. I. Glick Presents Himself at Court and is Remanded on $5,000 Bail.

Sudbury, July 6.—(Special)—Sought by police of Ontario and Quebec for nearly two weeks as the master mind in an alleged illegal fur-trading ring, J. I. Glick surrendered to the authorities in Sudbury late Tuesday afternoon, and was freed on $5000 bail after still another charge was laid against him. Counts now total eight in connection with the case.

Advised that a warrant had been issued accusing him of exporting furs illegally from Ontario to Quebec, he conferred with his lawyer, G. M. Miller, K.C., and later appeared before District Magistrate Willard Cooper. The case was remanded until July 20, at the suggestion of the Attorney-General's department in view of previous counts. Bail was supplied by friends. Seven Charges Laid

The original charge of illegal possession of furs was laid on June 23 after Glick stepped from an airplane at Rouyn, Quebec. Police claim $10,000 worth of furs were involved. Bail was set at $100 and nothing more was seen of the buyer by police until Tuesday.

Six other charges have been laid against him at Elsas, Ontario, of having beaver pelts illegally. If he were worried over reports that airplanes had been ordered to search the North Land for him, the dark diminutive fur trader managed to hide his anxiety.

"No, I didn't surrender myself to the police as soon as I came to Sudbury," he told a reporter. "I have done nothing wrong and I am going to appear in court when my case is heard at Elsas in three days. I was granted $100 bail when I was arrested and my trial was set for July 8. On July 8 I will go to the court. All of this excitement about me is silly, that's all."

Mr. Glick, however, did not discuss his failure to appear in court at Rouyn on June 29, as scheduled or the fact that a bench warrant was issued for his arrest there. He confined his remarks chiefly to his case at Elsas.

"Whole Thing Exaggerated" Asked where he went following his arrest at Rouyn, he stated: "I have been in several places. I was in Montreal and I was in Toronto for two days."

"Did you know that the police were looking for you?" he was asked.

"I saw some reports in the newspapers and saw plenty of policemen both in Toronto and Montreal, but they didn't seem to be looking for me," he replied.

"Did you know that airplanes were searching for you?"

"If they were, they were simply out on joy jaunts. I can't understand this at all."

The fur buyer also belittled reports that he was connected with an illegal fur trading ring on a large scale.

"It will all come out at the trial at Elsas," he said. "The whole thing has been exaggerated."

J. B. Lacroix, of Peterbell, an associate of Glick, was remanded to-day until July 25, when he appeared in court here charged with unlawfully holding 44 beaver pelts. Lacroix was released on $1400 bail.

Kirkland Kiwanis Carnival Attracts Record Crowds

The Kirkland Lake Kiwanis carnival last week at Culver Park attracted record crowds—bigger than for any similar event in the Kirkland Lake area. As a result of the event the Kirkland Lake Kiwanis are well financed for the coming year for their chief project—the supplying of milk to needy youngsters. At the carnival there was a splendid programme of entertainment to supplement bathing, strolling and picnicking. There were sports for children, aeroplane flights, motor boat rides, surf board riding, bingo, etc. The main prizes for the event were shares of Lake Shore and other Kirkland and Larder mines. C. Hunton won first prize, 10 shares Lake Shore; second, Wm. Glover, 15 shares Wright-Hargreaves. There were eight other main prizes.

Canada Must Aid in Defence of Itself

Hon. Arthur Meighen Stirs Convention at Ottawa

Ottawa, July 5.—Canadian co-operation with Great Britain in her rearmament and preparedness program was made a great national issue to-day by keynote speeches delivered by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Sir Thomas White, K.C.M.G., P.C., at the opening session of the Conservative convention.

While the 1500 delegates cheered again and again, Senator Meighen, with the full approval of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, denounced the King government's refusal to permit the British government to establish its own aviation schools in Canada. When the Conservative Senate leader completed his address, which will go down in history as one of his greatest oratorical efforts, the gathering rose and gave him a mighty ovation.

The injection of the question of a policy of co-operation with Britain in defence, to-day, presents a major issue for this convention. It may very well have a profound influence upon the choice of a leader. Mr. Bennett, admittedly, is the man most competent to carry the question to the country, and every effort is being made to persuade him to run again.

If he is not nominated to succeed himself, the delegates will be influenced by the attitude of the other delegates on the subject. Denon Massey, Hon. J. Earl Lawson and Joseph Harris already have expressed themselves as strongly supporting the Meighen-Bennett stand. But Dr. R. J. Manion has refused to state his opinion.

Senator Meighen approached the subject not so much from the angle of sentiment and loyalty to the Motherland—though this was not overlooked—but with the argument that it is in Canada's own interest that she should co-operate wherever possible with the British program of preparedness.

The Minister of Defence, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, speaking in Parliament in the last session, had declared that Canada is dependent upon the British and U. S. fleets for her protection. If this was the government view it was only right that Canadians should be prepared to do their share in helping Britain act as their shield.

"If we call ourselves partners," shouted Senator Meighen, "let us behave the way partners behave."

Tremendous applause greeted his statement.

Toronto Troubled Now by Gangs of Hoodlums

(From Toronto Globe) There is developing in this city a new spirit of lawlessness: a "ganging up" on the police while in discharge of their duty. This is hoodlumism in its most dangerous and despicable form. And it is the essence of cowardliness. On several occasions recently, with their gang about them, defied the police, resisted arrest, and provoked street fighting. Single-handed constables have little chance against a half dozen thugs eager for an opportunity to attack him savagely, overcome him and treat him brutally while down. That has been the procedure.

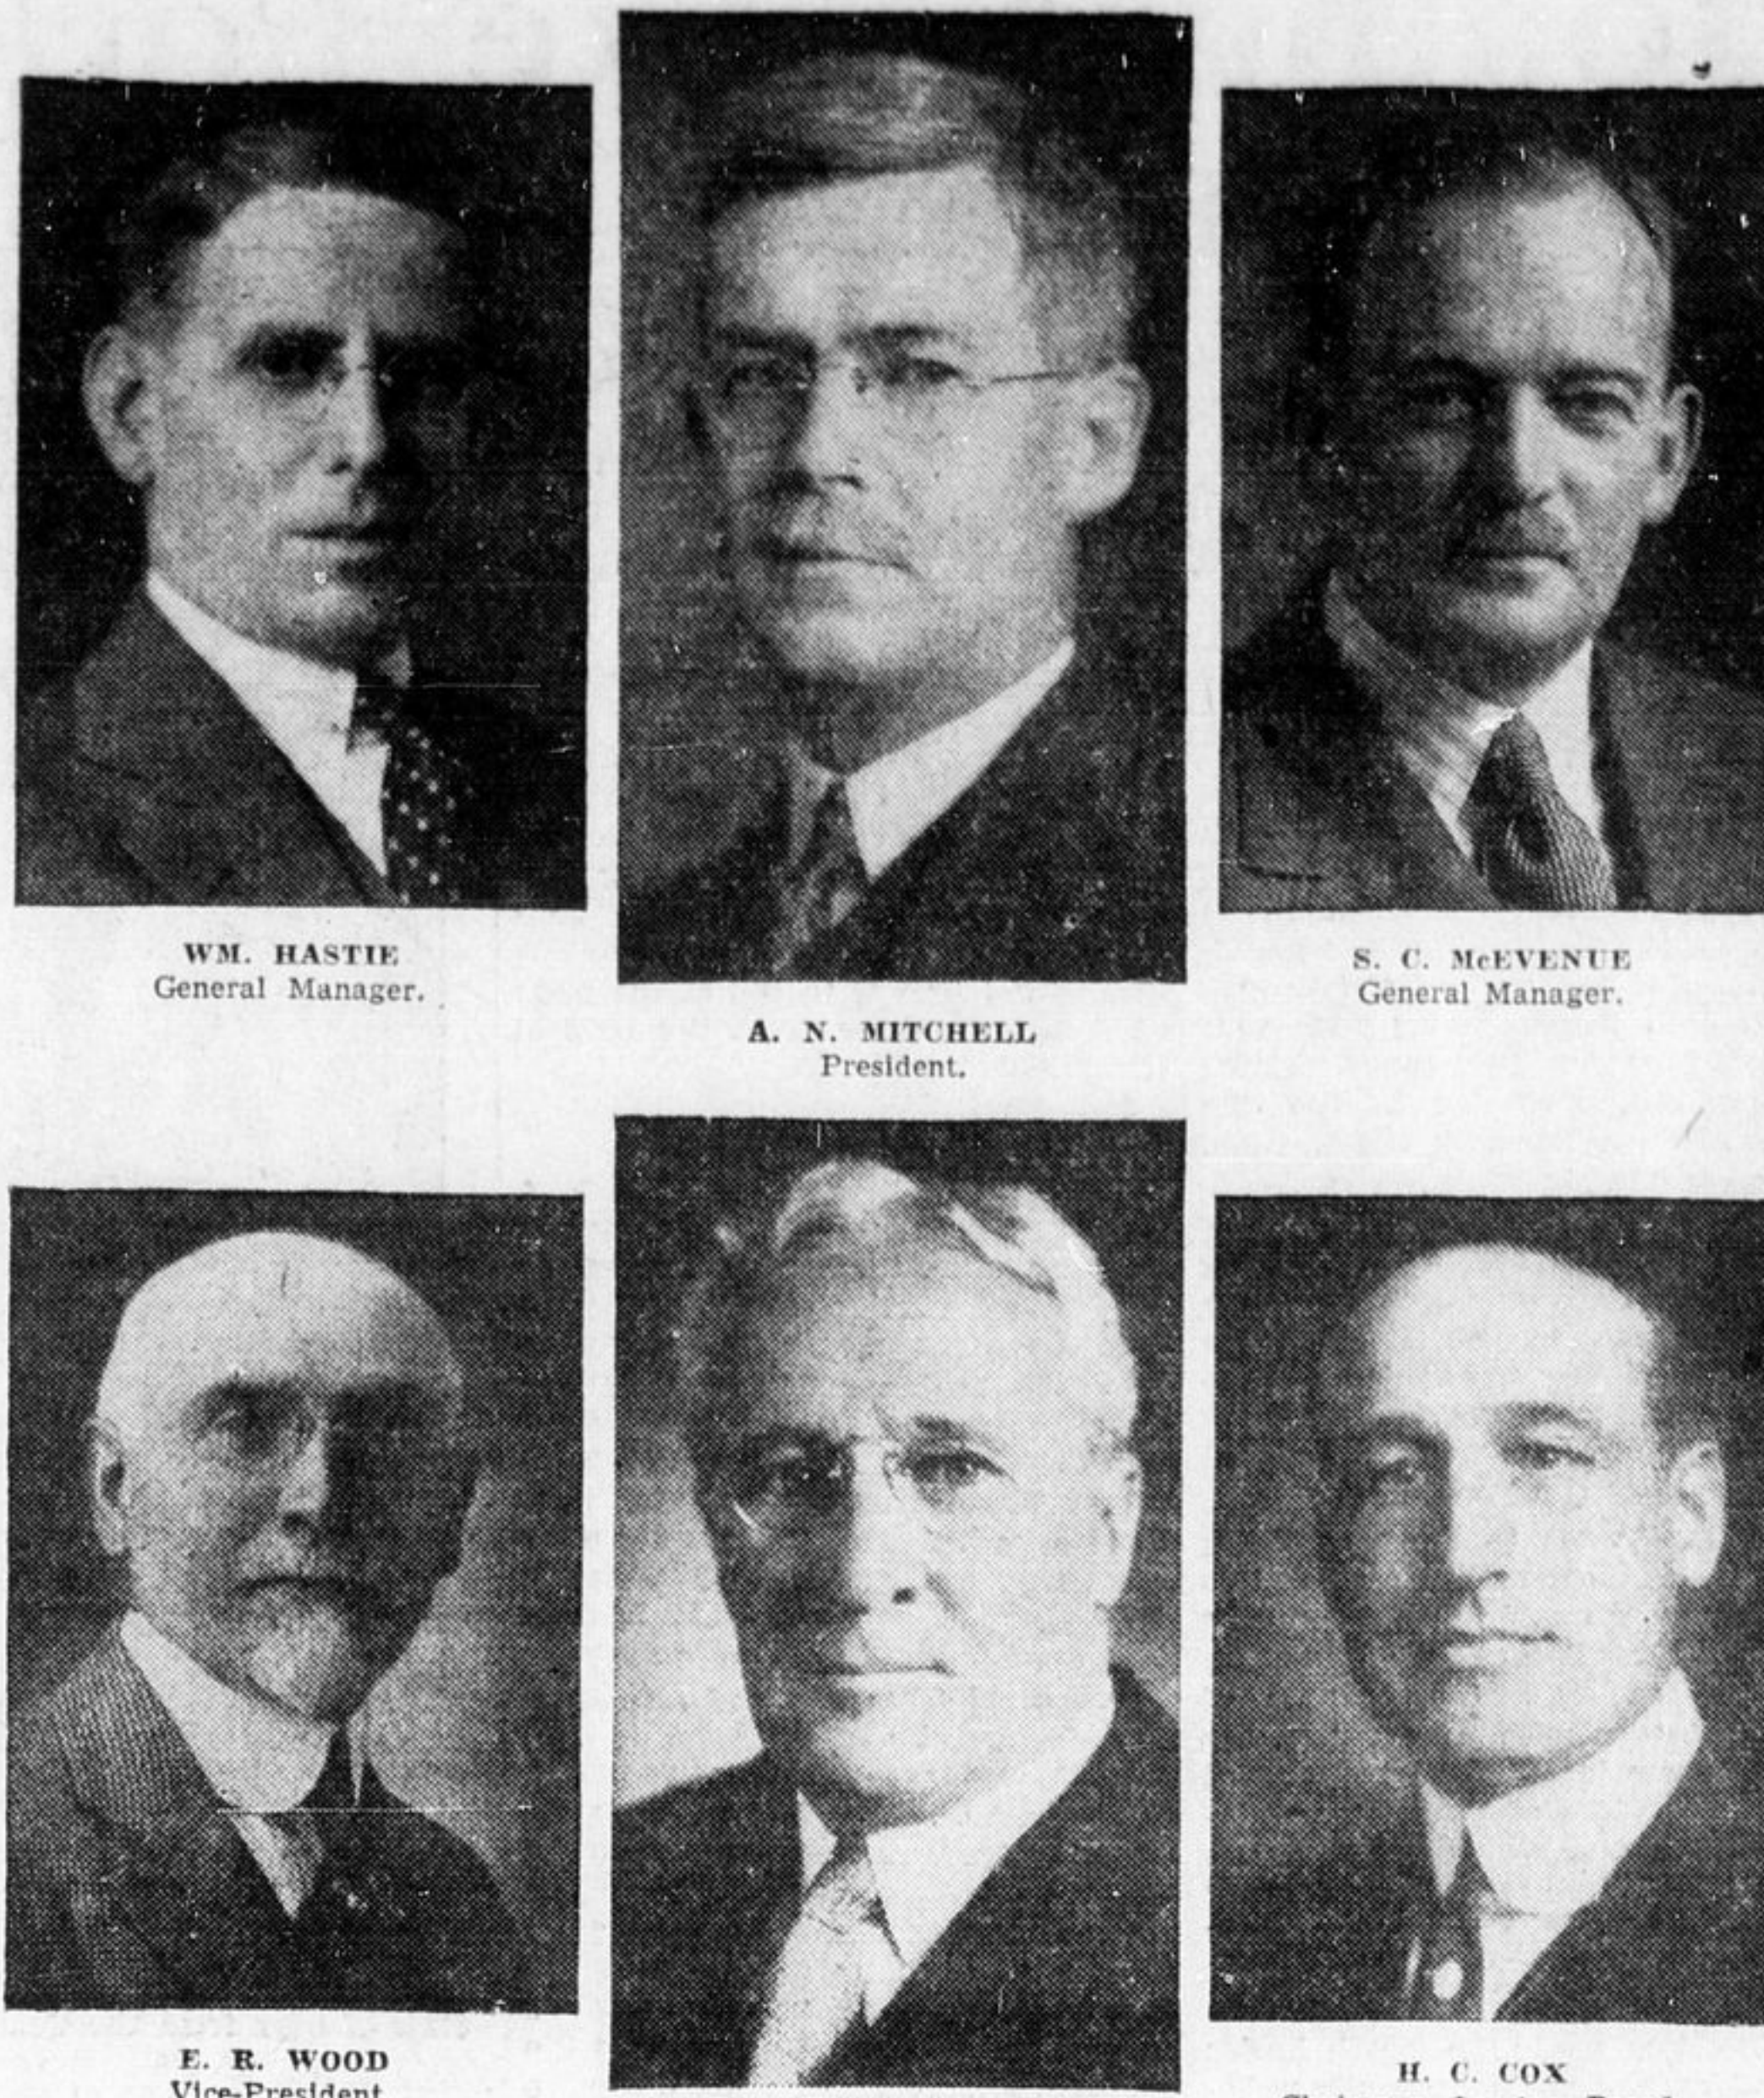

In such circumstances police victims of these gang attacks have shown the utmost courage and coolness, and generally managed to secure at least one of their assailants. When help arrives the rest of the cowardly loafers clear out, but their arrest is almost certain to follow soon. The thugs of each neighbourhood are well known to the police.

Another ugly feature of these street fights with the police is that the crowd that gathers permits the struggle to go on. There has been no attempt to help the constable contending against great odds, trying to do his duty. This hardly can mean that the crowd is in sympathy with the thugs. Law-abiding individuals in these gatherings fear to act—and in such cases acting is an obligation—on behalf of the police lest they should also become embroiled in the fighting. This fear may be understood, but it is not evidence of good citizenship. Decent people who see such trouble developing can do something to assist the law by promptly telephoning a police station, so that help may be sent to the officer who is struggling against a group of hoodlums bent on doing him injury.

If this lawlessness be not checked now both citizens and police will be obliged to join forces against it. Action should be prompt and vigorous. Gangs of loafers, who apparently are able to secure plenty of liquor, are getting out of hand. It is intolerable that there should develop in this city a condition that allows these street-corner rowdies to insult women, molest youths going about their work, then defy the police by fighting against arrest.

Chesley Enterprise:—Now that pine trees are being used for making paper and rayon for dresses it was a mistake to cut down the pinery on the old homestead to be sawn into lumber, but the land had to be cleared and trees hadn't transformed the old pine trees into paper or dress goods in the pioneer days.

Seven Chief Causes of Motor Accidents

As Listed by Director of U. S. National Safety Council.

The seven chief causes of automobile accidents in the United States, listed by Sidney J. Williams, public safety director of the National Safety Council, reporting for the American delegation to the International Road Congress at The Hague, are:

1. Exceeding the speed limit or driving too fast for road, visibility and other conditions.
 2. Driving on the wrong side of the road.
 3. Disregard of stop signs and signals.
 4. Improperly failing to yield the right of way at intersections.
 5. Attempting to force entrance between moving vehicles to avoid collision with an oncoming vehicle.
 6. Attempting to pass on a curve or hill a vehicle moving in the same direction.
 7. Failing to indicate intention of stopping or turning.
- Systematic research by a large number of individuals and organizations over a period of years has revealed these and other facts. Mr. Williams told highway and traffic engineers gathered from all over the world to discuss the problems brought into existence by the sweep of the horseless carriage during the last generation, Science Service reports.
- Describing safety work in the United States, he cited figures showing that systematic safety drives in a number of cities have succeeded in materially reducing the high accident rate. More detailed and more uniform accident reports are still needed, however, in order to provide a basis for sound highway engineering, a field in which vast sums of public money are being spent.

Middle Lane Causes Accidents Among the interesting facts submitted by R. E. Toms, chief of the division of design of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads and reporter on traffic problems for the American delegation, are the following:

Three-lane highways, popular in suburban areas because of their flexibility in handling traffic streams predominantly in one direction at certain times of the day, become more hazardous than two lane or divided four-lane highways as the traffic increases, in the opinion of some authorities. They blame the middle lane for the cited increase in accidents.

The "traffic circle" now common in American cities where several streets with heavy traffic converge can handle far more automobiles with greater safety than the intersection fitted with traffic lights.

The vertical curb found on some rural highways as a means of separating opposing traffic lanes, is probably a serious hazard. It reduces the effective width of a road since the careful driver will veer away from it.

Four-lane highways of the undivided type are more hazardous than three-lane highways because they tend to encourage weaving by drivers.

The CANADIAN LEGION PICNIC

SCHEDULED FOR Sunday, July 10th, 1938

Has been unavoidably postponed until later date, which will be announced later.

Two Residents Charged with Theft

(Continued from Page One) cabin phoned the provincial police at Temagami. "I just don't like their looks," he told Constable Braney. As soon as Constable Braney arrived at the tourist camp, West dove into the bush and disappeared. Braney cracked the handcuffs on to Fabbro and proceeded to search the cabin and car, the latter containing the stolen gold precipitates.

A police alarm was immediately sent out and all available officers were rushed to the scene to take part in the manhunt for West. The fugitive apparently left the bush as quickly as he entered it and the officers were still combing the district when word came through that he had been arrested in Sudbury.

A cash reward of $5,000 was offered by the Attorney-General's department for information leading to the capture of the thieves and return of the gold. Mr. Ruddy, who was directly responsible for the apprehension of the two men will no doubt be in line for the reward but it was intimated here to-day that two Timmins men are also claiming all or a portion of the money offered.

Dean Kester, K.C., has been retained as counsel by Fabbro but it is not known whether he will handle the case of West, who has not been brought to Timmins yet. Mr. Kester confirmed this afternoon that the Crown are asking $50,000 bail for his client.

Fabbro, a married man with two children has been living here for the past two years, coming here from Sudbury. West, who had been living in Schumacher, had been a resident of the Porcupine for several years and is said to have come from Sault Ste. Marie.

Both men will be charged with possession of gold stolen from Dome Mines Limited, under section 399 of the Criminal Code. The maximum penalty under this section is 14 years' imprisonment.

St. Mary's Journal-Argus: The liquor situation in Ontario is becoming worse and worse. Consumption of beer since 1933 has increased by 211 per cent, and of hard liquor by 80 per cent. There has been an increase in drunkenness, drunkenness among women, increases in the number of illegitimate children and in fatal accidents since the beer and wine parlors opened. There are 200 more places selling alcoholic spirits in Ontario to-day than in the old bar days before 1916.

Sudbury Star:—When his young son asked him which was the faster, a race horse or a pigeon, a well-known Sudburian replied: "If they both go on foot, the race horse."

Freed on Charge, Sentenced for Breaking Custody

Odilon Bellemont, of Fournier township, near Cochrane, was recently arrested on a charge of indecently assaulting an eleven-year-old girl whose bedroom he was alleged to have entered while her parents were absent. When the case came up before Magistrate Tucker, the accused man was acquitted, the evidence of the girl and her younger sister not warranting any other decision. In the meantime, however, Bellemont had escaped from custody. While he was awaiting trial he was taking exercise in the court yard under the eye of the janitor when he decided to make the break. He accordingly fled to the bush. For four days he suffered from hunger, flies and other discomforts, then decided to get out of the bush and give himself up. He was picked up by the police at Frederickhouse, some six miles from Cochrane. The irony of the matter rests in the fact that while he was acquitted on the charge that was first brought against him, he was sentenced to three months in jail for escaping from custody.

Wants Canadians to Decide Whether They Are British

(From Toronto Telegram) Canada's position in regard to Commonwealth defence should not be a party issue, but Prime Minister Mackenzie King has made it so. The Government's statement that Britain will not be allowed to locate in Canada a training school for British flyers is a pronouncement of policy by leaders of the Liberal party. Many who have in the past voted Liberal will be shocked by the suggestion that Great Britain is to be ranked with foreign nations, and that her possession of a training school in the country would be a menace to Canada's sovereignty. Any Conservative leader who aspires to control Canada's destiny must be as definitely opposed to the separatism of the King Government's policy as was Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett when he denounced that policy in the House of Commons.

Canadians who are proud of the British connection will not resent the Union Jack being "dragged in." Hon. Ernest Lapointe to the contrary notwithstanding, Canada's interests are united with those of the British Commonwealth of Nations and it will be a sad day for this country when the national flaggers manage to isolate us from close co-operation in Commonwealth defence.

If Mr. King is so sure that he represents Canadian opinion, let him bring on an election and make this the issue. Canadians are entitled to have an opportunity to express their opinion on the question whether they believe in pandering to a section of the population which is luke-warm or hostile to the British connection.

The time is past for Mr. King to hedge about no "formal" request having come from Britain, and to declare that he knows of no "such" request. It is no use his whining about "an old Tory trick." His own statement has put before the people of Canada the biggest issue which has yet confronted them. His announcement in the House of Commons brings Canada to the parting of the ways.
