Transients Accused of Fiendish Crime

Girl Assaulted by One While Two Others Guard Act With Clubs

North Bay, Aug. 6.—Under the threat of a loaded gun, a 15-year-old North Bay girl was forced to submit to a criminal attack by a transient, a mile beyond the Worthington street railway crossing on the old Callander highway, shortly after 10.30 p.m. Wednesday.

Provincial Police, seeking three transients, so far have made no arrests. The victim's 16-year-old girl friend broke and ran, hiding in the roadside bush from the attacker, who returned to criminally assault the first girl, over whom two other transients had stood guard with clubs.

Of the girls' two boy friends, aged 15 and 16, one got away to call police, while the second, under the threat of a club, was forced to stand helplessly by while the girl was violated.

Beyond confirming that a girl had been criminally attacked, they were seeking three transients on so far un-decided charges, police refused to discuss the case.

Police Did Not Come

The lad who ran for help, first phoned city police with the alarm, only to be told that they had no jurisdiction beyond the city limits. He asked that they send out the provincial police, and this was done.

The two lads, one of whom is a member of a band, met the girls near a park bandstand.

On the crossbars of the boys' bicycles, the girls rode out the mile beyond the Worthington street crossing on the old Callander highway.

At the point near which the double-riding cyclists stopped is a fresh water spring, frequented as a camping ground by transients.

The boy who broke and ran for help did so when the attacker was chasing the elder of the two girls down the highway.

Raced for Police

Disregarding the warning shouts of the attackers' two companions, the boy raced down a rock-strewn hill, cutting his legs and elbows as he fell stumbling in mad flight. After putting in the call for police, he returned immediately, coming back by way of the old Callander road, where he met the girl and the second boy riding slowly towards the city. Together they continued into North Bay, and it was beyond the city limits that they met up with Provincial Police.

"We were sitting on the side of the road," related the lad who was later forced to stand by while his girl friend was violated, "and we saw three men coming along the highway. They were wearing breeches, and at first we thought they were police officers."

"Then when they got up close they came over. The big fellow shouted 'Keep quiet or I'll bust your teeth down your throat'."

"He was carrying a gun close to his hip, and one of the others had a big club."

Threatened Trio With Club

It was at this juncture that the elder girl broke and ran, racing down the highway, according to the two boys. The attacker jumped on one of the bicycles and gave chase, while his two companions kept the second girl and the two boys rooted to the spot with threats of clubbing.

It was then that the lad who later called police, ducked low and sped over the brow of the hill. They made no effort to chase him.

"I was alone with the girl when the big fellow with the gun came back to his two friends," related the younger lad. "He was shouting. He grabbed my girl and told the other two what he was going to do."

Religion Called Racket in the Pamphlets Seized

Noranda, Aug. 6.—Robert Cameron, Noranda, and Angus McDonald, New Liskeard, who face a charge of blasphemous libel against the Christian churches, will receive judgment from Magistrate Armand Boly on Monday, August 15th, it was stated in police court on Saturday when the men appeared for their preliminary hearing.

The crown alleged that Cameron and McDonald had distributed literature in Rouyn and Dufresnoy townships that was blasphemous, indecent and profane, and produced five pamphlets entitled "Cure," "Deliverance," "Riches," "Light" and "Enemies," from which certain extracts, alleged to be libellous, were taken and included in the complaint.

Connection between Cameron, McDonald and the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, Toronto, was established by production of a letter written the men after they were sent to jail. The society stated that it would fight the case "to the highest courts" and that there was little chance of conviction, since none of the tracts contained libel.

The literature the two men admitted having distributed in this district contained references to the "Catholic," "Protestant," and "Jewish" religions, all of which, they claim, are "rackets." Distinguishing between "religion" and "Christianity," one of the tracts stated that none of the religions mentioned are Christian but that the first two had long since ceased to be "Christian." Commercialism is rampant throughout all the "religions," it was stated.

As "Witnesses of Jehovah," the two men claimed to be bringing "true Christianity" to people.

McDonald and Cameron are still free on bail, but will appear in court again next Monday.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Porcupine Advance Files

An interesting item was contained in The Advance's report of a meeting of the Tisdale council twenty years ago. This paragraph read as follows:—"The public works committee reported that the work of improving the roads was continuing, and that assistance from the Government was expected in the near future on the road from Timmins to South Porcupine." It was several years after before the help materialized in any noteworthy way, but twenty years ago people here had to be hopeful, or they would have been plumb discouraged sure!

The blueberry crop twenty years ago was an unusually large one in this district, while raspberries were also a good crop. Monstrous people twenty years ago were noted for their skill and industry in gathering blueberries. The North Land was fortunate in the good fruit crops enjoyed as in the south the usual fruits were more or less of a poor crop generally. The Advance suggested special attention for the year to the North Land raspberries and blueberries for preserving and those who gave that attention were well pleased before the next season arrived.

An item in The Advance twenty years ago received very wide publicity being given prominence in practically all of the larger newspapers. The article was headed, "Timmins Now a Stumpless Town," and read as follows:—"There isn't a stump left on any of the streets in town," said Fire Chief A. Borland this week. "The streets in town have been cleared up in excellent way," he continued, and he pointed out that many of the back streets formerly noted for being badly marred with stumps and stones were now in even better condition than the main streets. In the absence of Town Foreman MacLean, Chief Borland made an inspection this week of the work done on the roads and he pronounced this improvement made as excellent and the work well done, indeed. "Timmins has good streets now," said the fire chief. The fire chief was particularly interested in the condition of the streets, because of his knowledge of each piece of roadway depended the safety and speed with which aims of fire might be answered. The fire chief always made a particular point of keeping a perfect knowledge of the exact condition of the roadways. He knew just where such a stump was located, when there were stumps left on any of the streets. He used this knowledge to avoid the stumps when the fire brigade was on its way to fires. Accordingly, it seemed specially fitting that the fire chief should be the one to publicly announce that there wasn't a stump left on any of the streets, and that the town was up-to-date and following city lines. The outside newspapers were much interested in this item, and some of them featured it to illustrate the strides made by Timmins, a town that only a few years before had been a section of virgin bush.

The Advance of July 31, 1918, announced the taking over of the Stadelman store by Mr. E. H. Bridger. The paragraph said:—"Since the enlistment of Mr. Ivan Stadelman with the C.E.F., the Stadelman store in Timmins has been on the market and recently Mr. L. Stadelman completed the arrangements whereby Mr. E. H. Bridger, one of the popular old-timers of the camp, will take over this established business. Stock has been taken, the purchase completed, and Mr. Bridger will be in charge as owner of the business on August 1st. The formal anouncement of the change will be found elsewhere in this issue."

It was July 31st, in 1918, before the results of the High School Entrance examinations were announced for Timmins. The following were the successful pupils:—Hildreth Auer, Maude Boyd, Bertha Browne, Elsie Clark (honours), Francis Davis, Charles Jemmett, John Monaghan, Edna Sims. At the South Porcupine centre the following were successful candidates at the Entrance examinations:—Margaret Boyle, Sarah Eurns, Louilla Crawford, Delia Bostrum (honours), Sophie Levine, Laura Miller, Becky Pearce. The successful pupils from the Dome were:—Vola Anchor, John Fell, James Fell. Comparing this list of successful candidates in the Entrance examinations, and that published in The Advance some weeks ago, will certainly show a great difference, the town of Timmins alone now boasting nearly a dozen schools from which pupils graduate each year.

The Mountjoy Settlers Association twenty years ago were having a big time trying to secure what they considered fair prices for their pulpwood. The association had a membership of 44 and were seeking to increase the number to include every bona fide settler. The association decided that unless proper prices were given there would be no pulpwood cut in this district for the season.

Twenty years ago Messrs. Patenaude and Berini, the inventors and patentees of the safety stove pipe which was being manufactured here, found their business grown to such an extent that the formation of a joint stock company was necessary. The company made arrangements with a larger manufacturing concern in Toronto for the wholesale manufacture of the safety stove pipes, and Mr. Andy Lalonde was secured as salesman and special representative.

Some idea of the amount of work done by the various patriotic organizations in the Porcupine twenty years ago may be gathered from figures supplied by an official of the Porcupine Consolidated Patriotic Club. The Timmins Red Cross in the six months ending June 30th, 1918, made a record that included 700 pairs of socks, 202 suits of pyjamas, 2316 towels, 292 sheets, 407 pillows, 255 personal property bags, 684 handkerchiefs, 213 pashcloths, 86 bed socks and 4 quilts. In the same period Timmins D.Y.B. Club made 520 pairs of socks and 44 shirts. The Schumacher Red Cross made 101 pairs of socks, 229 suits pyjamas, 2268 towels, 142 sheet, 434 pillows, 865 personal property bags, 2 washcloths. As The Advance said at the time it was certainly a record to be proud of.

A Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons was instituted in Timmins on July 24, 1918. Cobalt and New Liskeard members exemplified the degrees. Seventeen candidates took the Royal Arch degree. For the new chapter the following were appointed: First Principal, R. J. Jemmett; Second Principal, C. G. Williams; Third Principal, D. A. Hoggarth.

The Advance twenty years ago says that Mr. F. E. Cossette, manufacturer of soft drinks, etc., died the previous week at South Porcupine, aged 35 years. The funeral took place at the R.C. Church at Timmins on July 25th, 1918. The sympathy of all was extended to the young widow and the other relatives and friends in the death of this old-timer of the Porcupine.
