Accessories for Autumn

Here are some blithe and smart accessories guaranteed to brighten up a late summer and early autumn wardrobe. For your suit, there is an overblouse in toast-coloured jersey cleverly pin-tucked in plaid design from yoke to waist. The little neckband with a bow in front is nice with autumn suits. The belt is in dark green suede with padded brown kid appliques in a leaf motif terminating in a strap and buckle. The gloves are an amusing new note in Paris fashions. A little round mirror of unbreakable glass is crocheted into the back of each doeskin glove. The under-side where the glove buttons is shorter than the back which has rounded edges. BETTER LIGHT Makes Better Marks

Are you doing all you can to make sure your children get good marks in school? Do they get enough rest and sleep and good food? Of course, you say! But that's not enough! School days usually mean study nights. And many parents who would never starve their children's stomachs are literally starving their eyes - with insufficient, or glaring light.

Your children live outdoors during the long summer months. Their eyes are accustomed to the intense light of outdoors - up to what lighting experts measure as 10,000 foot candles of light. Indoors, in many homes, their eyes get only 5 to 10 foot candles of light under the average study lamp - when less than 20 foot candles is definitely harmful to youthful eyes

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, looked lovely in a fitted gown of white satin, with trimmings of gold sequins. Her veil was caught with dainty clusters of orange blossoms. She wore gold slippers and carried a bouquet of tiny asters, pom-pom dahlias and fern.

Miss Lucy Tubman, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and wore a bouffant frock of peach net over taffeta, a picture hat of white with ribbons tied under her chin, white lace gloves and white slippers. Her flowers were pink and white asters, pom-pom dahlias and fern.

Mr. Aubrey Napier, brother of the bride, supported the groom.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to New Liskeard for a visit to the photographer, and thence to the bride's home where a sumtuous wedding supper was served. In the evening the reception was held in the community hall, Heaslip. The many beautiful gifts received testified to the popularity of the young couple.

Leaving later, by motor, for an extended trip to Ottawa, Carleton Plac and other points, the bride wore a travelling costume of navy tricontine with accessories to match. On their return they will reside in Timmins, where the groom is employed at the Hollinger mine. They have the good wishes of their many friends in this district.
