Silver and Gold Predominate in Jewellery Stores. In Footwear There are Wonderfully Comfortable Slippers. How About Fur Coats, Accessories?

Christmas is coming Ho, Ho, Ho, Ho, and so is the gift buying season. The Yuletide season is supposed to be one of happiness and gaiety. For many it is the time, the only time during the year when they are impaled on the horns of the well-known dilemma. In order to save Christmas shoppers headaches and in order to prevent them from waiting on pins and needles until the last day or so and then rushing out and buying the first thing they see, there follows a list of suitable gifts for any member of the family. Look them over and save yourself a lot of grief.

Good Choice
A variety of suitable gifts for men and women are on display in Pic Holze's. For Dad or Brother there are Sunbeam Shavers, Ronson Lighters, Rolex watches, wallet and key rings, pen and pencil sets and signet rings. Men's and women's travelling bags make useful, serviceable presents and, of course, novelty jewellery is always appreciated by the ladies.

For the home there is Ainsley China, cut glass and silverware, clocks of all kinds, alarm and chimes, Cory coffee percolators and Toastmaster sets. Community plate will recall the Christmas of 1933 many years from now and diamonds and other precious stones are presents that grow more valuable with each Christmas that passes.

For Hardworking Mothers
The Beauty Washer store is where mother can see on display three products that go a long way towards relieving her of the labour of housework. Beautys are featuring a new washing machine that is as new and interesting as tomorrow's newspaper. It is model S.E. This new machine is equipped with two tanks, one on the outside of heavy steel and one inside of stainless steel. The same principle as that of the thermos bottle is followed. Water in the machine is kept at a high temperature for an indefinite period of time by use of this principle.

In addition, this new model is equipped with a calrod element to heat the water in the machine. It can be set at two speeds, low for delicate fabrics and high for ordinary run-of-the-mill washing.

An interesting test was made by the Beauty store. A model of the new machine was placed in a boarding house in Schumacher where it ran for six hours a day for ten days. After that period it was brought back to Timmins where it was torn down and examined. It showed no sign of strain in any part of its mechanism.

In addition to several different types of washing machines Beauty is showing labour saving vacuum cleaners and electric ironers. Beautys claim many new features for their ironers not found in those manufactured by other firms.

Quality Men's Wear
Clothing is always welcome at Christmas time. Ladies could not do better than visit Mark Bowies, where an extensive line of quality clothes is shown. Forsyth is featuring soisettes and paisley patterns in pajamas. Pastel shades are popular as well as the solid colour type. In ties pattern effects are being worn and the foulard is still good. Bowies handle Forsyth, Arrow and Currie ties.

In dressing gowns, wool delaines and wool challies are popular and of course the plain flannel gown with contrasting piping. Goat skin, peccary hide and chamois gloves are selling well. A complete line of ski attire gives the ladies, who are buying gifts for men, a wide choice. Something novel in a gift would be a dress kit. Tail coats are becoming more and more popular in the camp. Dress requirements are becoming more rigid at formal affairs in the North as well as the South and Bowies is prepared to make a Beau Brummel out of any customer.

Santa's Arrival
The arrival of Santa Claus is a big event in a child's life. If Santa wants to stock up on his trip through Timmins he should call in at Pelletier's Hardware store. He will find a wide assortment of toys and gifts for children there.

He also could find gifts for all members of the family. There are skates, electric shavers, ski boots, sleds, travelling bags for brother or father and Sampson irons, Silax coffee makers, dishes and many other presents for mother, and Rogers radios, lamps, toasters, cutlery, carving sets and dishes for the whole family. Pelletier's have several fine decanter sets for the dispensing of Christmas cheer. They have a large stock of cut glass and many other types of gifts.

Shaheen and David
In their men's wear department, Shaheen and David have all the gifts in the line of clothing that a man or boy could want. They have dressing gowns of all kinds, ties, Forsyth, Currie and cheaper brands. Harvey Woods and Stanfield knitwear come in a variety of articles ranging from underwear to scarves.

Lounging sets and silk pajamas make good gifts and shirts, socks and gloves are always welcome. Utility gifts include miners' equipment and shoes. Fairway ski suits are there for athletic type and hats Biltmore and Crean, for any type.

All Specially Gay for Christmas Time

Over in Little Old New York They Also Have Christmas.

New York, Dec. 7. — The feminine folderols which have already sifted from Santa's pack point to a frivolous Christmas.

Lacy lingerie, "kitten sweaters" and gay little jackets are heaped on counters. Gem-studded necklaces and flaming heart clips shimmer in show cases and perfumes and powders come wrapped in boxes gay as a Christmas tree.

Lingerie's Christmas carol is an old-fashioned air. A number of night-dresses are trimmed with lace yokes reminiscent of grandmother's day and many of them are designed with sleeves either short and puffed or long and full. Slips and panties are lavishly trimmed with lace or with heading threaded with satin ribbon. The season even has seen the return of boudoir caps—frothy little triangles of chiffon and lace, which perch on top of the head and may be tied on with ribbons.

Jackets and little wraps are among the most appealing gifts in the whole Yuletide array. There are scores of new bed jackets—save little affairs of lace-trimmed chiffon or satin, cold morning coats of quiked silk or wool challis and lazy-evening coats. After them comes an army of gay velvet jackets to transform the appearance of frocks.

Room Decorations And For Windows

Inexpensive but Attractive Ways to Decorate for Christmas.

(By Lydia LeBaron Walker)

While windows may have been decorated for Christmas before now, the arrangements indoors seldom are made until the day before the holiday. The freshness of the beauty is wanted without any diminution. If the novelty has worn off some of the zest of Christmas is lost. This is so true that many homemakers refuse to have windows trimmed more than a day or so prior to Christmas.

If you happen to be among this latter group, let me suggest that you take sprays of a tree that is misshapen and so very cheap (as described last Saturday), and make a splashing bow of red crepe paper for each and hang one in every front window downstairs. Or have one in each downstairs window that is discernible from the street.

Ornamenting the Spray
You can dot the spray with holly berries, or whatever you have in addition to the green. Or you can dip popped corn in red stain or dye, and touch the kernels with glue and secure them to the sprays. These notes of red with their irregular shapes are intriguing, sometimes being mistaken for berries and sometimes for flowers.

Bank the Mantlepiece
Bank the mantlepiece over the fireplace where the stockings are hung, using sprays of the green intermingled with holly, mistletoe, pine cones, bayberries, or silvered or other metal painted motifs such as acorns, fine twigs with many friends, etc. When everything is fixed to your fancy twine a string of wee colored Christmas tree electric lights through the greens. These will look ornamental by day and have a glamour when lighted during the evening.

Christmas Greens Fill Baskets
Baskets filled with greens and dotted with the novelty units lend notes of appropriate Christmas decoration. Any small baskets will do for this purpose. There generally are some about the house, but if not, metal paint or green stain some of the little markets baskets such as strawberries, brussels sprouts or tomatoes come in. Make a rope or lengths of paper braid for the handles, painted or stained to match the basket. If a length of picture wire has been wound with the strands of paper rope and braid, these handles will keep their shape when ends have been thrust inside the baskets close to their opposite sides. The handles can be wired or glued to the baskets.

Bouquets
Bouquets of Christmas greens in vases can be put in rooms other than the living room and dining rooms, and give their beauty of Christmas about the house. Be sure to use vases and bowls that have broad standards, lest the uneven weight of the greens tip them over.

CHRISTMAS CRACKERS

What gets wet when drying?—A towel.
What is better than a cake?—Two cakes.
Why is a goat nearly?—Because it is all but.
What never bites with its teeth?—A comb.
When is a sheep like ink?—When it is in a pen.
When is a cup of tea sad?—When it is upset.
When is a ship like snow?—When she's adrift.
What letters know the most?—Y's (wise).
What fish do you find in a bird's cage?—A perch.
What time makes everybody glad?—Good for-tune.
A trip around the local stores will prove of interest as well as of benefit in the matter of your Christmas shopping.
