Death of Miner Near Rouyn Found to be Accidental

Rouyn, Que., Dec. 21.—A coroner's jury decided Saturday that John Kovach, 37, came to his death accidentally at Arnfield Gold Mines, 10 miles from here, Friday, following a blast. He died in hospital a few hours after the explosion. According to a companion, William Long, Kovach and he lighted two shots to lodge rocks. The men went in opposite directions down the tunnel for coal. One blast went off and Kovach returned to the rocks as the second blast occurred. It is believed he forgot that two charges were lighted.

HERE'S AN IDEA

(From Sudbury Star)

Cigars, of course, are all right, but why not give father cigarettes instead, something the whole family can enjoy?

"Only three more shop-lifting days before Christmas," was what the lady said.

WHATS UNDER THE SKIN ?

If you were offered a gold brick of the same weight at a cheaper price in one store than in another, before buying you would find out what was inside, you would inquire whether the cheaper had more alloy.

So with your Christmas Turkey. The sensible housewife believes in quality, and will ask for the Red Grade 'A' tag, when she buys. But she will find Grade 'A' Turkeys at more than one price. One thing is not printed on the Red Label—that is, whether the Turkey is old or young. An OLD Turkey can always be bought for at least five cents less than a YOUNG Turkey of the same Grade; its hard to tell from the outside, but you'll find out from the length of time you have to cook it.

In each branch, we are placing only 20 Grade 'A' OLD Turkeys at the cheaper price. If you want one, you can get one. If you don't ask for an Old Turkey, you're going to get a GRADE 'A' YOUNG TURKEY.

Look First—not for the price outside, but for the quality under the skin.
