

Considering Annuals, Biennials, Perennials

Timmins Horticultural Society Gives Useful Hints as to the Best Plants to Grow in This North Land Where the Winters are Usually Severe.

As these articles are designed mainly to interest beginners it would not be amiss at this time to refer to the three headings under which all plant life is grouped by nature and habit; viz: the perennial, the biennial, and the annual. It is a practical necessity in this North Country, where the growing season is comparatively short and the winters severe, to let these distinctions govern your choice of plants or seed, to avoid disappointment.

Briefly—the perennial may be defined as a plant that, once established, will go through its annual cycle for many succeeding years; if conditions are favourable to its continued existence. The term, perennial, to be strictly accurate, includes trees and shrubs in its wide range of meaning, but gardeners prefer to use it only when speaking of the herbaceous species of perennial. Herbaceous is applied, in a gardening sense, to those plants whose foliage dies down to the roots after they have fulfilled their functions for the growing season. The perennial, then, alternates its growing season with a dormant period wherein its foliage dies down and the root or bulb remains inactive.

The perennial may be propagated from seed or cuttings. Some species, the Begonia, for instance, will reproduce themselves from their own leaves. Perennials may also be depended upon to multiply by sending up new shoots as their growth and root system develops. The biennial has fundamentally the same habits as the perennial, but its span of life does not extend beyond its second year from seed. It will, however, perpetuate itself by means of new growth and root development before the parent plant dies off. Annuals are propagated from seed or cuttings. They carry out all their functions and die in one growing season. Certain plants are definitely perennial or biennial and must be treated as such. Delphinium, Paeonies and other standard perennials take more than one growing season to establish themselves. This means that until their second year from seed you must not expect them to bloom. It follows,

Dressmaker Had To Quit Sewing

Hands Swollen With Rheumatism

Pity this poor dressmaker! Nintents of her work consists of sewing—and she was not able to sew. Rheumatism in the hands was her trouble, and she tried any number of remedies. But nothing helped much—until she came to Kruschen. "Three-and-a-half years ago," she writes, "I had a violent attack of rheumatic pains. My feet and hands were swollen. The pain was terrible. I was really quite crippled and helpless. I tried many remedies without success. Then I started on Kruschen Salts, and after one month, I could stand up again. Then, I walked with a cane. In three months, I was quite well again. As I am a dressmaker, you can imagine what it meant to me not to be able to work my sewing machine. What a treat to be able to walk to work and to be free from pain." (Mrs.) E. S. The stabbing pains of rheumatism are often caused by needle-pointed crystals of uric acid lodging in the joints. Kruschen brings relief because it helps to dissolve these troubling crystals and to expel them from the system.

Business Girls Club to Hold Banquet on March 9

The Porcupine Business Girls' Club, which has had an unusually successful career since its inception, at its last regular meeting, reported in The Advance on Monday, considered the question of affiliating with the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Canada, and with this in view decided to have Miss Jacqueline Kennedy, of Owen Sound, visit Timmins as representative of the Federation. Miss Kennedy will be here next week and will be the one of the guest speakers at a banquet to be held in the Fern Cottage on Thursday evening, March 9th. Tickets are now available for this event, and as the accommodation is limited, the early purchase of tickets is advised. The tickets may be secured from Miss Eve Marshall at the town hall, or from any of the members of the Porcupine Business Girls' Club. All business and professional girls, both members and non-members are invited to this event. The programme for the evening will be found to be unusually interesting. Elect Spooner Head Underwriters' Group

A. W. Pickering Elected Vice-President at Meeting Yesterday. T. E. Bailey, Secretary. W. J. Spooner was named as President of the Timmins Life Underwriters' Association yesterday at noon when a meeting of the organization was held in the town hall. Principal business of the meeting was the ratification of officers for the current year. Mr. Spooner was named as President, A. W. Pickering, Vice-President, T. E. Bailey, Secretary. Members of the executive are A. Nicolson, Jack Brady, Gene Gladstone, Fred Stock and A. L. McDougall. Mr. Charles Yates gave the members a short talk on some of the various legal aspects of wills. One of the points brought out was that before 1928 it was possible for a man to will his property to strangers and leave his dependents poverty stricken. However, since 1928, the Dependents Relief Act forced a man to make some provision for his family.

Rabbi Sachs Makes Able Plan for More Harmony

Addresses Kiwanis Club on the Need for Harmonious Relations Between Men. Shows the Folly of Hate as a National Trait. British Empire a Living Example of Harmonizing, Says Rabbi.

Modes, Manners and Music of 1900

(Continued From Page One) which they portrayed. Mrs. Barry, who told the audience that she was returning from a garden party, was charming in an ivory lace, with a floppy-brimmed hat. The Misses Alice and Betsy Dodge wore old-fashioned cambric dresses, with very full sleeves, and the fashionable high neck of 1900, and Mrs. P. H. Carson, Mrs. Stanlake and Mrs. Webb, wore costumes made of heavy satin, velvet and lace, these materials being the pride and joy of the style-conscious woman of thirty-nine years ago. The ladies all wore heavy beads, lockets, large brooches, earrings, bracelets on both arms, and carried jewelled fans and their collures were arranged in the upswep manner which is again finding favour today. As the programme commenced, the audience was taken to the drawing-room of an English home in the year 1900, with the conservatory opening from the drawing-room. Although the scene was not that of the comfort of today's drawing-room, an atmosphere of the long-ago hung over the stage, and seemed to envelope the eager audience. The programme was as follows: Piano duet, "Poet and Peasant Overture," by Misses Alice and Betsy Dodge. Solo, "The Song That Reached My Heart," by Mrs. Stanlake. Solo, "The Last Rose of Summer," by Mrs. P. H. Carson. Duet, "The Venetian Song" (by Tosti) by Mrs. Stanlake and Mrs. Webb. Duet, "The Keys of Heaven," by Mrs. Barry and the Rev. Mr. Baine. Violin Solo, "Malgurea" (by Sarasote), by Mr. Michael Rose. Solo, "The Carnival," by Miss Betsy Dodge. Piano Solo, "The Blue Danube," by Mr. Wm. Kenney. Solo, "Oh Dry Those Tears" (Teresa del Riego), "There's a Land, a Dear Land," by Mr. Burgin. Solo, "The Amorous Goldfish," from Geisha, by Mrs. Douglas. Solo, "In Cellar Cool," by Mr. Harris. Duet, "Larboard Watch," by Mr. Harris and Mr. Jones. Solos, "O Thou Sweet Sublime Evening Star" (from Tannhauser), and "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," by Mr. Carl Struck. Recitation, "Casabianna," by Master Douglas Leiterman. Outstanding artists on the programme were Mrs. Stanlake, Mrs. Carson, and Mr. Wm. Kenney. Their performances brought a great deal of applause, and added to their already great popularity. Mrs. Barry and the Rev. F. J. Baine, who presented the humorous duet, "The Keys of Heaven," were stars in their acting roles. In this selection, the gentleman offers his lady-love the keys of heaven, a silk gown, a coach and six, and finally the keys of his heart, and Mrs. Barry in refusing each of the first three, and the Rev. Mr. Baine, in making the offers, portrayed a carefree and happy acting ability that brought much laughter and made this number one of the exceptional performances of the evening. During the evening, reference was made to such things as the breakdown of the motor car, and it was noted that the artists used the word "petrol" instead of the present word "gasoline." The mother also mentioned that since his return from South Africa "Will" had been wont to visit the music-halls and pick up selections that were not at all in keeping with the classical numbers treasured by the home. Mrs. Heslop and Mrs. Neame, who convened the programme, are to be complimented on the excellent idea, and on the well-arranged manner in which the programme was presented. This evening gave the younger generation an opportunity to visit the home of thirty-nine years ago, and brought back to the elders happy memories of times long ago. The conveners of the programme wish to thank the following ladies who so kindly loaned dresses, accessories, and furnishings:—Mrs. Cook, of the Pamour, Mrs. Cuthbertson, Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Ostrosker, Mrs. Reg. Smith, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Waddell; and Mrs. Tom Tyrrell for her valuable help with the script.

A strong plea for harmonious relationship between men was made by Rabbi Samuel Sachs in his address to the Kiwanis Club, Monday. Taking for his subject, "The art of harmonizing in the midst of a discordant world," he first answered the question, "where is discord?" by stating that in some countries hate is taught rather than love. The worth of a patriot is judged by the intensity of his hatred. This in a civilization based on the ideals of "love thy neighbour," as taught to Jew and Christian alike. Loyalty to a faith or group carried to extremes results in bigotry. Only tolerance can bring about harmony. True civilization, defined as the progress of character, can only be achieved by discovering our common needs and working co-operatively in the interests of all to fulfill those needs, said the Rabbi. The Rabbi ironically referred to the superiority claimed by some races over others and showed that it had no foundation in fact and could not be substantiated by science, philosophy or religion. Many amusing stories and incidents were told to illustrate this point. To show the bond between Jew and Christian, the speaker quoted the opening lines of the Lord's Prayer, the prayer reverently repeated by those of both faiths. "We all say, "Our Father who art in heaven." Then if He is father to all of us, we are His sons, and therefore brothers one to the other. Then too, we are all descendants of Adam and hence have the same blood, Rabbi Sachs said. The story was told of a boy, after a lecture on revolution, rushing home and saying, "Dad, we are descended from monkeys." "Perhaps you are," the indignant father retorted, "but speak for yourself, son."

In various parts of the country society uses different standards to judge men. In some it is, "where do you come from?" in others, "what do you know?", "what can you do?" or "how much have you got?" In the opinion of the speaker the worth of a man can be judged by his answer to the question, "How much service do you do to your fellow man?" Rabbi Sachs held up the British Empire during the world war as the greatest example of harmonizing peoples of all races, colours and creeds, for a common purpose, "fused by the heat of great emotion," as he put it. When the rest of the world emulates the Empire, discord will be no more, he concluded. In introducing the guest speaker, Mr. Barney Sky told of the valuable social work the Rabbi had done. For this he was honoured with a Coronation medal by King George the Sixth. Mr. W. W. Tanner thanked the speaker on behalf of the club. President J. L. Fulton extended a welcome to the many guests who especially attended to hear the distinguished Rabbi's address.

Mayor and Reeve Unseated in Renfrew Election Case

County Judge J. T. Mulcahy on Tuesday set aside the election of Mayor F. A. Wade and Reeve F. X. Plaut, of Renfrew in allowing a motion to unseat them by James Fennessy, a defeated candidate for the reeveship in the last municipal election at Renfrew. The case was heard at Pembroke and the judge found that the election had not been conducted in accordance with the municipal act. He found that four persons had been irregularly placed on the assessment rolls and that the property qualifications of these voters had been changed by the clerk-treasurer of the authority of the chairman of the court of revision. The judge held that the court of revision could not delegate its authority, even if wished to do so, and much less could the mayor or chairman pass on the authority held only by the court of revision itself. Mayor Wade was elected at the January election with a majority of 243 votes over I. E. Pedlow, one of the well-known and prominent business men of the town and a former M.P. for Renfrew County. Reeve Plaut had a majority of 13 in the election count, but a recount a week later cut this majority down to 2. Now, the decision of the judge makes a new election necessary. It will be recalled that James Fennessy was one of the Renfrew town councillors some years ago and made a strong fight against Chief of Police Greer, of Renfrew, formerly of Timmins and Schumacher. The former chief from Timmins was successful in meeting all the charges suggested against him and coming out of the investigation as his old friends here were sure he would—with flying colours. Since then Mr. Fennessy has not been elected to the municipal board at Renfrew.

Where Motion Pictures May Be Seen on Sundays

(From Toronto Telegram) Three men at the Ontario reformatory fainted during the showing of a film, "The Son of Frankenstein," on Sunday night. It's queer that movie would make the bad men faint. It's also queer that the authorities should pick on a film like that to show people who have been sent to jail. It is also queer that after you get sent to jail you apparently can go to the moving picture show on Sunday—but you can't go to a moving picture show on Sunday unless you are in jail.
