

Horn Blowers to Feel Weight of Law Police Chief Says

Says Unnecessary Use of Horn Contributing Cause to Accidents. Not Only Discourteous but Annoying.

Next species of traffic offender to feel police restriction will be the motorist who uses the horn on his car unnecessarily. Chief of Police Leo Gagnon has determined that this annoying use of horns on Timmins streets will be eliminated. To that end he has instructed his men to strictly enforce the law covering that phase of traffic by-law violation.

"It is getting bad in Timmins," said Chief Gagnon to-day. "Unnecessary horn blowing is a contributing cause to accidents and has to be stopped. In addition it is most annoying both to drivers and pedestrians alike. I have had many complaints from pedestrians that motorist would drive up behind them at intersections and lean on their horns."

"I know a man who drove 2400 miles recently," continued the Chief. "He travelled through Southern Ontario and many American cities. On July 4 he was in the congested traffic of Detroit during that time he had occasion to use his horn only twice."

Wedding parties which drove through town, their horn going full blast would be stopped and offending drivers charged, the Chief said. He pointed out that there are many men sleeping during the day in Timmins, due to the shift system at the mines, and it was not fair to them to have their rest disturbed by motorists who consider weddings an occasion for a lot of unnecessary noise.

Another thing which the chief said was productive of complaints was the habit of motorists of honking their horns at intersections when the car ahead was not quite fast enough to suit their mood.

"There are some countries where automobiles have no horns—where horns are not allowed by law," the chief said. Sometimes I think it would be a good law for this town. If a motorist ahead of you stops you are not going to hurry him up any by a heavy hand on the horn. If his car is out of order it won't start the motor and if he stops for any other reason he is not going to hurry because of your impatience. In fact he is more likely to delay his departure out of spite.

Inquest Into Death of Ronald Noel at Hoyle on Saturday

Much Evidence Taken in Case of Boy Killed on Track.

South Porcupine, July 15th. Special to The Advance.

An inquest was held on Saturday morning under Coroner Frank C. Evans in the Township Building, into the death of nineteen-months' old Ronald Noel, of Hoyle.

Mr. S. Caldwell appeared for the Crown and Lawyer J. LaCourriere was also present. The jury, under Foreman W. G. Skinner, was comprised of Messrs E. Grant, W. S. Adamson, S. Kennedy and F. Wilson.

Several witnesses were called. Dr. W. Atkinson testified that on July 7th at 7 p.m. he met the way freight at South Porcupine, and took the child to hospital where he died three hours later. Laceration of brain due to severe fracture of base of the skull, was the cause of death.

The child had no possible chance of recovery; also bruises were noted on the child's hip.

James Wood, T. & N. O. engineer, drove No. 303 way freight on this date and testified that when passing Keyson he had increased speed to 25 to 30 miles per hour, and had given the usual whistle for a crossing at Hoyle Station. He saw an object close to the rails on the crossing on the right hand side which looked like a dog. When he recognized it as a child he shut off his engine and applied the brakes.

He did everything possible to bring the train to a stop before hitting the child.

There is no protection at this crossing.

Mr. Sykes, fireman, corroborated the Engineer's testimony and said the train stopped as quickly as it would normally when brakes were applied.

Mr. Oulette, brakeman, said he saw something on the track and tried to make signs to a man about 12 ft. from the child on the other side of the track but could not make him understand.

Evidence was heard from R. G. King of Gold Centre, who saw the accident in his car, and about 150 ft. from track heard the whistle of the engine and saw the child on the edge of the track.

He called to a man on the other side and said, "Is the kiddie clear of the tracks?" to which he got the answer, "I think it is."

But the child was hit by the edge of the engine and was herled over twenty feet. The train stopped, and the child's uncle picked him up and took him to the tent—150 feet from the track—where the family was living.

from the river when he saw the child on the track. He started to run but the train was too fast, he could not save him.

Mr. J. Stevens was loading freight at the shed forty feet from the crossing. He saw the child and yelled to it, but it was too young to pay attention or know what was meant. Children did not often play round the track and he had not noticed this child before.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel and their children, Juliet, Norman and Beatrice, all gave evidence.

Nobody in particular was told off to watch the baby but he had just run out by himself and had not been gone a minute when the accident occurred.

Wood piled up near this crossing would make an obstruction to clear view, it was noted.

The jury returned the following verdict.

"We, your jury summoned to enquire into the death of Ronald Noel, find that deceased died in the Porcupine General hospital on Friday, July 7th, from a fractured skull caused by the child being struck by the engine of No. 303 way freight on the T. & N. O. Railway at Hoyle crossing in the Township of Matheson; death being accidental from evidence given. No blame can be attached to the train crew."

A fugitive from Cromwell's wrath, the king was secreted in a hollow oak tree at Bos-cobel, England, by members of these families named Yates and Penderels. One of the heirs Thomas Walker, 29, now lives at Andover, Mass., and received his annual check last week for 12 pounds, approximately $60 in U.S. money.

North Should Have First Employment Preference in Lignite Fields

Mayor of Cochrane Suggests That First Contingent Should be Sent from Town of Cochrane. Unemployment in North Should Not be Overlooked. Danger in Further Influx of Workless from South.

Cochrane, July 13th 1939

The Editor, Porcupine Advance, Timmins, Ontario.

Dear Sir.—During the past three weeks, the press has contained articles from time to time reporting the taking over of the so-called lignite fields north of Cochrane by the T. & N. O. Railway Commission, and from what the articles have to say, it would appear that work might commence at some early date on these fields.

Representing the very town, which originally asked for the construction of this railway from Cochrane north, and which town, to-day is located in a strategic position in the event of any development along the Railway, I must take exception to the reported plans from Toronto, and possibly other southern Ontario cities, where committees claimed to have been formed, for the purpose of inducing the T. & N. O. Railway to extend employment to unemployed men from those cities, and at least, until such time, as large numbers of men might be employed at this lignite, or any other development, I am sure that the northern towns could provide all the help necessary, and further if there should be such development, that the very first initial crew should depart from this very Town of Cochrane, followed by others from nearby towns.

My object in addressing this to you, is not to enter into a controversy through the columns of your valuable paper, but to prevent further influx of unemployed individuals, and possibly men who would not be properly fitted or suited to the somewhat hard climate conditions, that prevail in the area where this development is supposed to take place. Such persons, should they be sent here under the auspices of some committee or organization in the cities, would possibly end up, as so many have ended up, in the northern towns, and where no more than elsewhere in the Province, have we any national or province-wide system of looking after these so-called transients, so that, in the event of you publishing anything further on this subject at any early date, I would consider it a favour, if you gave this feature of the subject, such publicity as you consider advisable.

May I have your acknowledgment of this letter?

Yours very truly,
A. E. Wicks
