TEN YEARS AGO
IN TIMMINS

From data in the Porcupine Advance Files

Ten years ago extensive diamond drilling plans were arranged for the Lang-Wallingford claims. This group of Kamiskotia claims consisted of 12 claims in Robb township, unusually well located and with work that had progressed showing most encouraging results.

On Wednesday night, November 23rd, ten years ago, before six o'clock, a man whom Deputy Chief W. W. Orr had just arrested made a vicious attack on the officer, using a bottle as a weapon. Officer Orr staggered back from an unexpected and vicious blow on the side of the head, the bottle breaking to pieces and the officer being showered with pieces of glass and with brandy from the bottle. The prisoner took to his heels but Deputy Chief Orr gave speedy chase, calling on the escaping man to stop. Four warning shots failed to stop the prisoner, so the fifth and last had to do the trick. The prisoner was shot in the heel and stopped as soon as he felt the bullet. He made no further resistance, and after being taken to the station was transferred to the Providence hospital where he was under guard. Officer Orr sprayed the bullets around his heels to make him stop, but it was the last shot in the gun that landed right in the prisoner's heel. At the hospital the shot heel was painful, the bullet being left in until x-rays could be taken. Following the x-rays, the bullet was extracted and no permanent injury resulted.

Ten years ago two men were arrested on a charge of stealing a case of liquor from the Ontario Government liquor store here. According to the information given the police, the two men had been allowed to take empty boxes away from the cellar to use as firewood. After one trip for boxes, when the men were left alone for a few minutes in the cellar, a case of whisky was missed and investigation followed at once. The liquor store warehousemen had a particular and peculiar way of opening the boxes and the box that was taken was traced to the home of one of the men where it was found on the pile with the other boxes, but to the experienced eye it was easy to see that it had been opened by some other method than the liquor store one. The explanation of the men as to how they got this particular box and some liquor in their possession and also the fact that there were other circumstances pointing their way in regard to the disappearance of the liquor, resulted in the two being taken into custody.

On Saturday, Nov. 19th, 1927, at 8 o'clock in the morning there was a quiet but pretty wedding, when Miss Lorette Boivin, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Boivin, of Timmins, and Mr. Joseph Paul Gervais, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gervais, of Timmins, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Fr. C. Theriault. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a peach-pink hand-painted georgette dress, with black lace-trimmed hat, nude hose, and black satin shoes, and carried a bouquet of roses and baby's breath. The couple were unattended.

The grand bazaar in the United Church basement ten years ago, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid and the Girls' Club, drew an unusually large attendance on both days and was successful in every way, a neat sum being realized from the event. All who had any part in the arrangements or direction of the bazaar were certainly to be highly complimented on the success of the event. There were two big days with excellent musical programme each day, and everything going along in perfect fashion.

Two jurers were fined at Cochrane ten years ago for failing to be on duty on time. The first was a Cochrane man who did not answer the call for him at one o'clock on Tuesday. He had sent no excuse to the clerk in the matter and Judge Caron imposed a fine of $25.00. The second jurymen to be fined was one of the petit jurers. He had been arrested the night before on a charge of drunkenness and was still in the cells when his name was called. When the matter was explained to the judge he imposed a fine of $20 and costs on this man for failing to be on time and in proper shape.

In the South Porcupine news ten years ago, there was the following item: "The weekly supper and Bible study is much enjoyed by the Young People's class at the manse. The International Sunday School lessons are studied as well as church history and a special lecturer is given each Thursday evening. The supper starts at six, the study and lectures are taken up while the guests are around the table then all is over by eight so that the young people are free to attend the rink or other amusements."

The first indoor band concert for the season of winter, 1927, by the Timmins Citizens' Band ten years ago, drew a good house at the Goldfields theatre and all enjoyed the excellent programme provided for the occasion. The selections given by the band were attractive and interesting, and were presented with musical talent and effectiveness. Bandmaster F. J. Wolno and his bandmen were complimented generally both on the selections given and the way in which they were rendered. The soloist for the evening was Mrs. D. Neill, and the gathering was delighted with the fine musical talent, the attractive voice, and the sympathetic and understanding presentation of the number given by this gifted singer.

In The Advance ten years ago (in part): "On several occasions The Advance has published references to the travelling schools inaugurated under the auspices of the Ontario Department of Education to assure children in certain sections of the North where schools are not established the opportunity for education. The Department of Education, and especially the Premier of Ontario who is the Minister of Education, appear to be determined that every child in this province shall have a chance for education. In meeting the needs of the children of settlers and others in outlying and sparsely-settled areas, where the children live too far away from schools and the people are not numerous enough to maintain new schools the province in planning to meet the needs considered two plans and eventually adopted both schemes. The one was the correspondence courses successfully used in British Columbia and the West, and the other was the "schoolhouse on wheels." The correspondence courses have proved successful beyond the hopes of those who urged the adoption of this plan. At present there are over one hundred children who would otherwise be without educational facilities who are making excellent progress through the correspondence courses. This plan is now an assured success in every way, and it is something that the province has every right to take pride in. It is not costly, and the fact that a hundred children are being educated in very effective way through its use who would otherwise grow up illiterate is full justification for its maintenance."

A very enjoyable event for those attending, and probably the outstanding social event in the winter season of 1927, was the At Home held ten years ago in the Masonic hall by the Kiwanis Club of Timmins, when over one hundred and fifty members of the Kiwanis and invited guests were present. The Masonic hall was decorated for the occasion, a full length picture of His Majesty King George V at one end of the hall was draped with the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, while along the walls Union Jacks and the Canadian ensign were displayed. There was also a large Union Jack on the ceiling in the centre of the hall, which also served to hold dozens of balloons above the dancers.

For several years previous to 1927, Mr. W. A. Field had put in a rink each year for his own boys and this rink had been free and welcome for all the other youngsters of the district. Each year this little rink had been crowded on Saturday and after school and in the early evenings. Ten years ago Mr. Field decided to extend the plan and to give the youngsters a bigger and better rink. Also, to devote more time and attention himself to the youngsters and so give encouragement to hockey and build up real hockey talent among the boys of the town. Through the kindness of Mr. A. F. Kenning, Mr. Field secured the use of more land, and in 1927 had a fine ice rink 75 feet by 35 feet, lighted by electric light and in excellent shape throughout. This rink for the youngsters was on the land across the road from the Children's Aid Shelter on Hollinger lane. The rink was a very acceptable one and it was thought that it would be greatly appreciated by the boys and girls, who would find healthy and wholesome sport and fun in playing hockey and skating on the good ice surface.

Ten years ago it was decided to inaugurate mail service by plane to Red Lake, the service hitherto having been by dog team.

Ten years ago there was a small stabbing affray at the Dome Mines, the result of which was one Russian in the hospital and the other in jail. So far as could be gleaned about the affair, it seemed that there were two men who delighted in tantalizing a fellow countryman who was not of the same belief as themselves. According to report he was a quiet inoffensive man who seldom took a drink. However, at the time of the stabbing, he had obtained a drink somewhere, after coming off shift, and when the other man said provoking things to him he retaliated by attacking him with a knife. It was said that the man who was knifed had not been nearly so aggravating as the man he was with but that in attempting to stop he infuriated man from striking his friend he got the full force of the blade himself.

Ten years ago the Arrow Club met the High School B. in the High School gymnasium, to play basketball. After a whirlwind game and a thrilling last quarter, the B. team came out on top with a score of 19-16.

Ten years ago the new post office building at Schumacher was nearing completion.

The McIntyre Recreation hall bowling teams opened the league ten years ago, and were away to a big start. Some of the bowlers were showing mid-season form, and at the first game the Yorke's team won all four points from Webber's pin-tossers.

At police court ten years ago two men employed at one of the mines here were each fined $10 and costs for attempting to go on shift while under the influence of liquor. Neither of the men got further than the "dry" room and they were getting ready for work when they were sent home. The Mines Inspector said that a heavy penalty was not asked in these cases, but rather that all should understand the seriousness of men attempting to go to work in a mine while under the influence of liquor. The magistrate imposed the fine of $10 and costs and impressed the seriousness of the offence, and warned others against offending.

"Watch your money" is always a good motto for everybody. Ten years ago it was said that counterfeit United States five and ten dollar bills had been circulating in a number of cities and towns throughout Ontario. The majority of the bogus bills, which were manufactured from thin but brittle paper, had been passed on merchants and garagemen. Several of the notes which had been secured by the police had the serial numbers printed upside down.

Ten years ago information coming out from Ramore, near where discoveries and consequent small rush of prospectors had occurred, was to the effect that an interesting deposit showing visible gold occurred on the Tucker claims, situated about three or four miles northwest of the high grade in Barnett township. The veins were reported to be large, and were running a little south of east.

In the local news carried in The Advance ten years ago were: "Dr. Hague is a visitor to Toronto this week." "Mr. Wm. Delamere, of Toronto, spent a few days in town last week." "Mr. W. G. Smith left on Tuesday for Toronto for an operation, and his innumerable friends in town and district will sincerely hope that the medical treatment in the city will result in early and complete recovery of health for him." "Mr. D. Sutherland left for Toronto on Tuesday on a business trip." "Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Walters, of Hamilton, Ont., were visitors to the camp last week." "Mrs. Findley Munroe was elected president, and Ms. Cawood, secretary of the Cobalt branch of the Children's Aid Society of Temiskaming." "Mrs. Linton, representing the Butterick Pattern Co. of Toronto, is at the Stewart Co. store all this week." "Born—in Timmins, Ont., on Thursday, Nov. 17, 1927, to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hodgins, 119 Maple street south—a son." "Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Pelletier, of North Bay, spent a few days this week in Timmins while on their honeymoon, being the guests of Mr. Edmond Rochefort and Mr. Omer Gauthier. Mr. and Mrs. Pelletier returned to North Bay to-day."

"Good progress is being made with the work of construction of the new wharf for the Timmins landing on the Mattagami river. Piles are being driven for the wharf and the work is being rushed to completion." "A lady on her way home on Sunday evening had the misfortune to fall on the slippery sidewalk on Shankman's hill, and sustained a fractured leg as a result of the accident. She was taken to her home where she is making good recovery from the result of the unlucky fall."

Kirkland Stops Storing of Cars on the Streets

(From Northern News)
 Automobiles cannot be left on the street in dead storage, and trucks and commercial vehicles may not be parked on the streets overnight.

Such is the order issued by Chief William Shane, who explained that this was necessary to facilitate street ploughing and to avoid accidents.

He pointed out that particularly in slippery weather, it was too easy for a car, avoiding another one at night, to run into a truck, possibly smashing the windshield against the tail board of the truck.

Cars cannot be left permanently on the street as it prevents the ploughs from clearing the roadway.

Why Stock Market is Like
Characters from Dickens

(From Globe and Mail)
 In his alternate elevation and depression of spirits and his seemingly everlasting troubles, Dickens's character, Mr. Wilkins Micawber, is a true personification or prototype of the stock market, and those who persistently use its facilities are like Micawber's loving wife who declared so often: "I never will desert Mr. Micawber."

The stock market and Mr. Micawber are also alike in that both are, or were, continually "waiting for something to turn up," and, of course, something did in the end turn up both for Mr. Micawber and his faithful wife. Prices did turn on the stock market also around Oct. 19. They turned down again last Friday, but again wisdom was justified of her children and what went down on Friday turned up on Saturday.

But when I used this simile in talk with a group of traders Saturday one of them repelled the idea that he was like Mrs. Micawber, declaring that he was really like the dismal widow, Mrs. Gummidge, "a lone, lorn creature. I go contrary-wise to everything and everything goes contrary-wise to me."

"Mark Tapley would have liked the market for the last three months," said another. "He was always wishing for some environment where it would be a credit to be 'appy'. He should have lived today and have been a trader."

Nerves on Edge

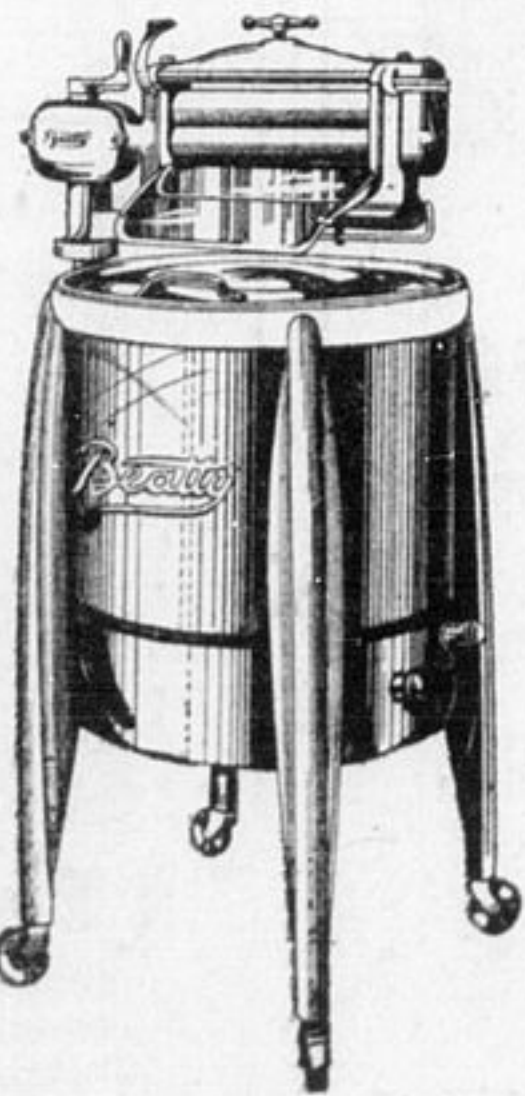

From loss of sleep

Sleeplessness is the most persistent symptom of exhausted nerves. You may have headaches and should do as much for you. It is not a narcotic to merely induce sleep but a restorative which will enable you to regain the vigor of the nervous system and free yourself of the condition which is making life a burden for you. You will not be using it long before you will understand why there is so much enthusiasm about this food treatment.

Exclusive Furs and Woollens Store Here

F. D. Burkholder Ltd., Furs and Jaeger's Equally Famous Woollens.

An unusually smart shop—one that it is a pleasure to visit—has been opened at 68 Third Avenue. The shop is under the joint proprietorship of F. D. Burkholder Ltd., Ottawa's largest fur establishment, and Jaeger Woollens (Luce's shop in the front section of the store). The furs are exclusively Burkholder products, while only Jaeger woollens are handled in the other half of the shop.

Mrs. L. Burrill is in charge of the woollens department. Mr. M. Gonder, is the traveller for F. D. Burkholder Ltd., and having received a complete and thorough training at the factory in Ottawa is able to successfully satisfy the wants of his customers.

Upon entering the store, one is immediately impressed by the cosy, yet distinguished, setting. The decorations are in green, black and chrome, and all of them have been chosen with great care and good taste. Upon the back wall, prominently displayed is the following extract by John Ruskin:— "There is scarcely anything in this world that some men cannot make a little worse and sell a little cheaper, and buyers who consider price only are this man's lawful prey."

F. D. Burkholder Ltd., were the first retail furriers to travel in the North Country, and their success gave them the desire for a permanent establishment. They are furriers by special appointment to Viscount and Viscountess Willingdon, Lord and Lady Bessborough, Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir, and Lord and Lady Byng of Vimy. The firm handles all furs, squirrel, coon, caracul, broadtail, lamb, lapin, mink, marmot, Jap beaver, Persian lamb, (grey and black), Bombay lamb, all seals (including superb Alaska seal, English government dyed, some of which are in the exclusive Bessborough brown). An especially beautiful coat on display, that will draw admiring glances, and to which every hand will wander in order to touch the lovely soft fur, is a georgina mink, which every fashionable woman will wish to own. And for the men, there is a sturdy, soft beaver that will buffet every cold winter wind. Fur neck-pieces are also an important display in the store, so that all the townspeople will find something to please their individual taste.

Say Latest Invention is Turkeys Resembling Ducks

Six hundred streamlined turkeys that resemble ducks with their short legs, broad backs and wide, plump breasts, and that carry the wild game tang of their aboriginal American ancestors, await the roasting pan for the Thanksgiving feast, readers of the New York Herald Tribune have been informed.

For six years agricultural scientists have experimented in breeding small, well finished birds that would weigh from twelve to fifteen pounds and fit into modern ovens and the smaller roasting pans of city apartment dwellers. It is turkeys resulting from such breeding that are now available.

Pure bred wild turkeys have been mated with pure bred mammoth bronze hens. These wild birds have large breasts (it is their flying muscle), they have trim bodies, short legs and, what is more important to the epicure, the flavour of wild game. The turkey raiser, in New Jersey, is asking 55 cents a pound, dressed weight. The vendor suggests sausage stuffing.
