Electricity and Gas Tax Will be Felt by Majority

While no increase was made Tuesday in the eight-percent, sales tax, it has been extended to apply to all electricity and gas used for domestic purposes, and will affect most urban and a large percent, of rural householders, Government financial experts explained after the war budget was brought down. It will mean that eight per cent will be added to the gas and electric bills of the householders. It will be considerable for householders who cook with gas or electricity and those who heat with natural gas.

salted and smoked fish. The extension in the application of the sales tax will produce extensive increases in revenue, particularly from urban centres.

Manager Plant and Robinson, the eller, were alone in the bank when the two bandits entered, just before noon "Joe" covered Robinson in the cage and Biliock ordered Plant to join his colleague there, at the same time going The tax is also extended to apply to behind the counter toward the open safe, which he looted of 2100 bills, ranging in value from one dollar to ten, and $20 in silver. As he retired, he took Robinson's revolver and both men headed for the street, which is part of the main road, and which happened to be empty of traffic at the time. Once outside, and followed by the bank staff, the bandits opened fire on Plant and Robinson, the manager returning the shots and the teller peppering "Joe" with stones. As the bandits retreated, still firing, George Franklin and Stanley Larose, aroused by the shooting, chased the men and caught Biliock without trouble, they later said.

Let's Keep Our Heads and Get the Facts

It's probably true that some selfishly inclined manufacturers and distributors have tried to increase their profits by refusing to sell except at a higher price than they have been receiving, without there being any increase in their costs of production.

But it's probably true too that consumers have also done their share to raise prices by assuming THAT FOOD WILL SOON BE HARDER TO GET IN WARTIME, AND BUYING MORE THAN THEY NEED NOW.

What are the facts? Most of our food is produced on this continent; and there are at present world surpluses in many commodities, for example, wheat-Canada has just produced her fifth largest crop

In Canada, however, despite ample supplies of sugar, the government has had to limit the number of cars shipt to each community, for fear that consumers, ignorant of the facts, would, by reckless buying, create a scarcity and rise in price. In the United States, Mr. Montgomery, Consumers Counsel, said that only last month the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation was considering adding lard to the list of surplus commodities to be distributed under the food stamp plan. Per capita production of lard will be greater in 1940 than in the years before 1934 when 25 to 30 percent was exported, mostly to Germany (a market now cut off). Refiners stocks of sugar are larger than last year, with 800,000 tons on hand in the United States, and further supplies in Cuba and Latin America.

And remember, Consumers Cooperatives raise prices only when they have to pay more for the goods they sell. They return all profits to their members so they have no reason to take advantage of the consumer.
