Windsor Star.—One of the sorest spots for the Communists and their fellow travelers is the utter failure of their prediction that Generalissimo
Franco would prove to be but a puppet of Nazi Germany. They whooped up the theory that post-civil war Spain would be under the heel of Berlin. Now that Franco is standing on his own two

War Spurs the Search for Alloy Minerals Throughout Canada

Prospectors are Now Alert for Showings of Tungsten, Molybdenum and Beryllium-Bearing Ores. Occurrences of These Known to Exist in Many Districts of Canada.

Actuated by possibility of war demand, prospectors of Canada are now paying more attention to discovery of ores of tungsten, molybdenum, beryllium and other alloy minerals than ever before and it is not unlikely that it will be prolonged the Dominion will add several other phases of the mining industry to its already long list, says The Globe and Mail.

According to the Canadian Mineral Industry of 1937, there has been no production of tungsten in Canada, with the exception of a few hundred tons of concentrate produced between 1912 and 1917. Tungsten-bearing minerals, usually in the form of scheelite, are known, however, in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba, British Columbia and Yukon Territory. In Nova Scotia some development was carried on in recent years at the Indian Path mine, near Lunenburg, but no shipments made. The Moose River deposits known as Burnt Hill Brook, have not been worked for several years. Some exploratory work has been done near Falcon Lake, Manitoba and on Hard-scrabble Creek, Cariboo district, B.C. Scheelite sands have been recovered in a very small way from alluvial deposits of Dublin Gulch, Mayo district. Recently some interesting tungsten values have been found at property of Slave Lake Gold Mines, Northwest Territories, and are now being investigated.

In United States, imports for 1938, decreased 97 per cent to 162,744 pounds, worth $138,693, chiefly from British Malaya, China and the Union of South Africa. In addition, 828,660 pounds, was imported in bond for smelting, refining and export. Domestic production was about 4,000 tons of ore containing 60 per cent WO₃ and shipments were valued at $3,161,498. Imports of tungsten metal and tungsten carbide in 1938 reached 22,814 pounds metallic content, compared with 133,959 pounds in 1937. About 92 per cent came from United Kingdom. These figures are given in an advance summary by U.S. Bureau of Mines.

Molybdenum Output Small
Official figures regarding molybdenum development and production in 1938 are not yet available from Canadian authorities. In 1937 13 1/2 tons of concentrate was produced and 12 1/2 tons shipped with value of $7,674. Some of this, however, was produced in 1936, when no shipments were made. In 1937 Canada imported 212,566 pounds of calcium molybdate for use in manufacture of steel alloys, valued at $70-337, compared with 158,621 pounds, worth $60,363 in 1936. Considerable activity has been under way in Renfrew County, Ontario, during the present year and late 1938, and it is generally admitted that this area gives greatest promise of domestic supply. Other deposits have been found and in some instances worked in a small way in Quebec, north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, and in British Columbia.

In United States about 85 per cent of the entire production of molybdenum in 1938 came from the great Climax Mine, Lake County, Colorado. Production was 4,601,000 tons of ore, producing 36,157 tons of concentrate, containing an average of 46.05 per cent of molybdenum, or 16,648 tons, valued at $17,977,000. Some production came from Arizona, Idaho, New Mexico, Utah and Washington. Outside United States, the principal producers are Mexico and Norway.

Ontario's Beryl Deposits
The mineral beryl, a silicate of aluminum and beryllium, is the only known source of the element beryllium and is found in pegmatite dykes in the form of disseminated crystals. Considerable interest has been created in Ontario of late by the operations of Canadian Beryllium Mines and Alloys, in Renfrew County, where some remarkably large crystals are found in pegmatite. These deposits are mentioned in the Canadian Mineral Industry (Continued on Page Six)

Hints Bremen Taken

"The British have fast destroyers," said Count Friedrich von Der Schulenburg, German ambassador to Russia, when asked about reports that the Bremen had reached a Russian Arctic port. He referred to the ship being held for 22 hours by U.S. authorities. "I should think the joint effort of two powerful empires, the United States and British, should have been able to trap and take an unarmed German ship"

Tourists Paid a Dollar Each for Porcupine "Eggs"

A new porcupine story comes now all the way from Interior, South Dakota. In other words it comes from the Interior of South Dakota. It runs like this:—

Two women tourists halted at Interior, and carefully unrolled from wrapping of tissue paper several oval objects bought in a Black Hills town. "Porcupine eggs," one volunteered proudly. "And only a dollar apiece," added the other.

The "eggs" were cockle burs. The women said they had been told they would "hatch" in a few weeks.

Report of the Work of the Cochrane District Children's Aid Society

A. G. Carson, Local Superintendent Outlines the Progress of the Work for Children in This District. Report of Miss Thomson on Placement, Supervision and Preventative Work.

The following is the report of the local superintendent of the Cochrane District Children's Aid Society as presented at the annual meeting of the Society:—

To the President and Members of the Society.
Ladies and Gentlemen:—How to present a report of the past year's work, our fifteenth, in the brief space available is a problem, because the magnitude of the work and responsibility it entails places it in the rank of one of the most important social and charitable undertakings in the district.

By earnest effort and co-operation with other organizations the Society has been able to make a worth while contribution to the social conditions of the district. The work of the society in this district is much more extensive than is generally realized. Many think of it as limited to the care of children in the shelter and boarding homes, whereas these are only a few of the number that have received as-istance in various ways, and their lives made bright and happy. Could you think of a greater work of mercy, a more worthwhile contribution to humanity than that of giving unfortunate children a chance to live and of bringing into their lives a little happiness and sympathetic care? That is what you are doing through this society, and you have every reason to feel proud of your connection with the Children's Aid Society and the support you have given to enable us to carry on this work. If we could march before you the army of youthful citizens who have been served by your society, it would present a very vivid picture of the work, but this being impossible we must resort to an abbreviated report.

British Gasoline Ban Beat by Staffordshire Man

As most people will have noted gasoline is being "rationed" in England so as to assure a full supply for war purposes. This has handicapped private drivers of motor cars, but John Bestwick, of Leek, Staffordshire, has shown that necessity is truly the mother of invention. He has built himself a steam-driven automobile which can reach a speed of 60 miles per hour. He heats the car with a paraffin heater.

Arabian Emir Says that Freedom Must be Protected

Emir Abdullah of Transjordan declared this week that his country would "support our democratic allies to the end" because "freedom must be protected and respected."

In an Independence Day address he appealed for national unity during the war and asked "the whole Arab nation to bury all feelings of malice and follow in the footsteps of the right people." He ended with a prayer for an allied victory.

NO AIR RAIDS YET, BUT LONDON IS PREPARED

Britain's home defence authorities know that unless since the outbreak of war. The King and Queen both in vigilance is the price of safety, and measures to carrying gas masks are shown inspecting sandbag defence security from air attack have been intensified fences in Bermondsey, London.

Voluntary registration for women in Timmins is to be carried on here all the coming week, Oct. 2nd to 7th, inclusive.

For the registrations the following places have been secured for the work of registration in the afternoons from 2 to 6:—Hollinger hall, Legion hall, Church of Nativity hall, Town hall, the Notre Dame des Lourdes church hall, the Sacred Heart Italian Church hall and the Polish White Eagle hall, Sixth avenue.

All local women who are ready to give any service or help in the war are asked to register at any of the places named during the coming week. Registration forms will be available at any of the places named at the times specified.

The project for the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women arose before the recent declaration of war. It developed from discussions by a group of women who were interested in questions of defence. They were convinced that something ought to be done to insure that in the event of a crisis women willing to serve their country would be put to tasks for which they were trained and qualified, and that a record of their willingness to serve, their training and their qualifications ought to be made now so as to be readily available in event of such an eventuality.

For the work of arranging to make the necessary registration, the help of the numerous women's organizations throughout Canada was enlisted. These organizations entered into the plan with all earnestness. A provincial committee was set up and this committee soon had the plan under way.

In the first place the V.R.C.W. was planned with the idea of having data available in case of any emergency, and also to secure information that would be useful in regard to social welfare and other community work. At the head of the questionnaire adopted there was the following paragraph:—

"To every nation there comes from time to time periods of national distress, caused by various untoward circumstances, such as earthquakes, floods, tornadoes, crop failures, forest fires, grave economic depressions, epidemics, war, etc. That the Canadian women may be in position to serve their nation at short notice in any of the above calamities, it has been thought well that they band themselves together in a voluntary scheme of registration, so that, already prepared, they would be able to render intelligent and efficient service, with this in mind, and in an endeavour to find how many Canadian women would be willing and able to take British and refugee children into their homes you are asked kindly to consider the following questionnaire and to assist by answering the same."

The arrival of actual war conditions and war needs has speeded up the efforts of the V.R.C.W. committee and the local committees.

The questionnaire itself suggests the purpose and scope of the plan. The information on the questionnaire is sent to Ottawa, as well as to headquarters at Toronto. With the information thus available it would appear that women will be available for almost any line of endeavour or activity in connection with the war and that their services may be secured at very short notice.

The following are the questions on the questionnaire used in the registration:—

- Permanent address—Home—Business.

- Married, single or widow?
