Charming Autumn Wedding at Church of the Nativity

Miss Esther Larson and Mr. Alfred Guidice United in Marriage.

The Church of Nativity was the scene of a charming autumn wedding on Monday morning at 8.30 o'clock, when the Rev. Fr. Roney united in marriage Esther, daughter of Mrs. August Larson, of Ansonville, and the late Mr. Larson, and Mr. Alfred Guidice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Guidice, of Toke street, Timmins.

During the ceremony, wedding music was supplied by Miss Olive Lafournier at the organ, and Miss Cora Amadio sang "Ave Maria" and other selections. Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Theodore Alf. Larson, the bride was a picture of loveliness in an ensemble of teal blue cordelene, fashioned with a tucked yoke, flared skirt with full back, and short puffed sleeves. She wore navy accessories, and a white gold cross, a gift from her god-parents, and a corsage of pale pink roses.

Mr. Joseph Guidice, brother of the groom, was the groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner took place at the home of the bride's mother in Ansonville, many friends of the popular bride and groom from Timmins and district, being present at the event.

Mr. Larson, mother of the bride, received the guests, becomingly attired in an afternoon dress of black sheer, with a corsage of mixed carnations, and was assisted by the groom's mother, who chose for the occasion a street-length dress of black crepe, with a corsage of mixed carnations. Mrs. Gould, sister of the bride, also assisted, charmingly attired in an ensemble of cyclamen mauve cordelene, with matching accessories.

The bride and groom left on the afternoon train for points south, the bride wearing her wedding ensemble, with a navy blue coat, bearing a red fox collar. Upon their return they will take up residence at 153 Pine street, north, Timmins.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding ceremony, included the bride's family from Ansonville, as well as numerous friends from that district.

"Another Dive," Says Magistrate "Three Months"

Witnesses, Brought to Court With Aid of Bench Warrants, Testify.

Magistrate Atkinson's usual summary of an establishment, proven in court to be a "blind pig," was applied to the home of Charles Fournier in police court on Tuesday afternoon.

"Another dive," said His Worship sentencing Fournier to serve three months in jail.

Two witnesses who at the court session were not present and for whom bench warrants ordering their arrest were issued, Leo Boag and George Martel, were present on Tuesday.

Boag told the court that he visited Fournier's place on September 17. They got beer from the man he assumed was running the place, namely Fournier, and he paid 25 cents a bottle for two pints. Boag identified Fournier as the man from whom he bought the beer. There was a "floody crowd" in the place at the time, he said.

Martel, who said that he was a friend of Fournier's, told the court that he did not pay for any beer. He saw a dollar bill displayed when Boag got the beer but did not see it passed nor did he see any change given.

"I bought the beer two days before," Fournier said. "I was treating the others so I gave Boag and Martel each a bottle. I did not take any money for it."

Another witness, John Charlebois, said that he was there along with four or five others drinking beer. He saw no money passed although he did not swear that none was given. When the police raided the house he saw Boag go into the bathroom and empty his beer, he said.

"A Hit in the Dark" John Gustini charged Charles Michaud with assault. Gustini told the court that he had been talking Michaud's daughter out. He was twenty-one years of age and she was seventeen. When he was walking with her on the street Michaud stepped out of the darkness and hit him. He said he had never told him to stay away from his daughter.

The father's story was different. He said that the reason he "pushed" Gustini was that his daughter was trying to get by the man and he barred her way. He pushed him and he fell over. He must have received an injury to his cheek when he fell.

Michaud was assessed $5 and costs. For Old Times Sake

Because she had been married to him for twenty years and because of her children, Victoria Villeneuve was willing to withdraw the charge of "assault occasioning actual bodily harm" against her husband, Philias.

Constable Atkinson said that he watched Timothy Conway going from store to store soliciting something. When he was refused whatever he asked for in one store he "raised a rumpus." He took him in, said the Constable, and a charge of vagrancy was laid.

Conway told the court that he went to two stores asking for the address of a house where he had left a knapsack. He had been promised a job last Friday.

Magistrate Atkinson gave Conway and the man, who was with him at the time, Harry Lynch, the benefit of the doubt. Both were dismissed.

Dismiss Wine Charge "There is a loose connection in this case somewhere," said Magistrate Atkinson dismissing a charge of "having wine in a place other than his own private residence," against Henry Hudson.

Police said that they found Hudson in a woman's room with wine he had bought. He was fighting with the woman and they both were on the floor.

Six drunks were given the usual alternative, $10 and costs or 30 days in jail.

The bride who was given in marriage by Mr. Ernie Despatie, brother of the groom, was becomingly attired for the occasion. Mr. Alexander Despatie attended his son as groomsman.

Ginger Rogers in Another Gay and Sparking Comedy

Popular Star Presented as First-Aid Girl to Troubles of Millionaire Family.

Said to be even funnier than her recent "Bachelor Mother," Ginger Rogers' new RKO Radio starring vehicle, "Fifth Avenue Girl," comes to the local screen with the famous comedienne in the role of an unemployed girl who takes the job of bringing a rich and careless family to its collective senses. "Fifth Avenue Girl" will be at the Cartier theatre Sunday midnight to Wednesday, Oct. 15th to 18th.

The job is forced on her by the nominal head of the family, a millionaire manufacturer who is getting fed up with the selfishness and indifference of his wife and children. He brings the sidewalk Cinderella to stay as a guest in his palatial but morgue-like Fifth Avenue mansion, letting his horrified relatives believe he intends to marry the girl as soon as his wife has secured the divorce she is secretly planning.

The mother does her best to drive the intruder away; the "deb" daughter is in love with the social-conscious family chauffeur, seeks the girl's aid and advice; the son, believing her to be an outright gold-digger, endeavours to break up the fancied affair between her and his father. And the father, delighted with the outcome of his scheme, finds he is once more being locked upon as a man instead of as a bank account.

How the plan works out, with its expected and unexpected results makes for the gay ending to the picture. Miss Rogers, of course, plays the role of the fixer-upper, and Walter Connolly that of the harassed millionaire. Tim Holt and Kathryn Adams are seen as the son and daughter, respectively, of the family, James Ellison as the chauffeur and Verree Teasdale as the wife, while Franklin Parr born, Ferike Boros, Theodore Von Eltz and Louis Calhern have important supporting roles.

Epidemics Sometimes Play Heavy Part in War

It is said that the Persians under Xerxes were defeated in their invasion of Greece by plague and dysentery. In all of the wars from that time to the Great War of 1914-18 disease was as deadly a foe as the munitions of the enemy.

In a recent American book on "Disease in Military Campaigns," Lieutenant Colonel Nelson Mercer says that the United States losses in the last war were 58,119 from disease and 50,385 were killed or died of wounds. A large percentage was from the influenza epidemic of 1918. By that time, typhoid had been brought under control and there were only 2,200 cases among more than 4,000,000 soldiers and there were only 200 deaths.

During the Spanish American War, typhoid caused 20,904 cases and 2,188 deaths. That war in which 379 men died in battle, was responsible for 4,795 deaths from disease, most of the troops never reaching Cuba.

Similar stories of epidemics have come down from previous wars. In 1741, because of a typhus epidemic among the Austrian defenders of Prague, the French were able to capture that city. Later Napoleon had to retreat from Moscow because of typhoid, typhus and pneumonia.

In the United States war with Mexico in 1846-47 of 100,000 American soldiers only 1,549 were killed or died of wounds, while 10,986 died of typhoid, dysentery, smallpox, malaria or tropical diseases. In the Civil War, the Union Army lost approximately 200,000 men by disease and 112,000 from wounds.
