

Quebec Overwhelms Duplessis Party

Radio Station Here and Programmes Sharply Criticized by Council

Mr. Sydney Wheeler Starts the Discussion by Asking for a Local Resident Inspector to Check up on Interference. Views of Some of the Councillors Strong in Regard to Radio.

Criticism of the Timmins radio station, of radio reception in Timmins and of the Timmins Press, local newspaper, occupied most of the time at the meeting of the Town Council last night and when it was all over the radio station had lost a 2-1 decision on resolutions. One of three resolutions concerning the radio station, two were passed and one lost on a show of hands.

Taking their cue from Mr. Sydney Wheeler, who appeared before the Council asking that they request the Government to appoint a radio inspector to reside in Timmins for some time in order to locate and eliminate electrical interference which makes good reception impossible here, the Council went a bit further and severely criticized the programmes put out over the local station and deplored its over-commercialism.

Leader of the Anti-Radio Station Bloc, Councillor Armstrong, introduced a motion of protest to the Minister of Transport and asking that an inspector be sent here to investigate the situation with a view to providing greater C.B.C. facilities for the citizens of this district and remedying electrical

Britain and Russia Discuss New Agreements For Future Trading

United States Steamer "City of Flint," Likely to be Taken from Russia to Germany as Prize of War. Paris Reports "All Quiet on the Western Front." Finnish Mission Returns to Finland from Russia.

Improved relations between Russia and Britain were considered probable with the two countries opening negotiations on the possibility of a trade agreement. Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax opened negotiations last night with Russian Ambassador Ivan Malsky at the Foreign Office after Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, had begun discussions with Malsky at the Russian embassy.

Rumours that Prime Minister Chamberlain is planning to send a trade mission to Moscow are considered impossible at the present time. Large scale barter arrangements between the two powers are advocated by influential sections of the British people. Britain would send rubber, tin, copper, cocoa and machinery to Russia in exchange for timber, cereals, manganese, flax, hemp, and possibly oil.

From Berlin, too, comes word that Russian-German trade negotiations provide that the Soviet deliver large quantities of vital raw materials to the Reich in exchange for machinery and industrial equipment.

Probable release of the United States steamer "City of Flint" by Russian officials was announced from Moscow. The ship will leave the Russian port in charge of its German prize crew and flying the Nazi flag.

Berlin officials said the ship would be brought to Germany as a prize and would not be taken to the United States. An explanation of the circumstances of its capture will be given to the United States embassy.

Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons that the German pocket battleship "Deutschland" was free on the Atlantic as a sea raider and had sent the British steamship "Stone Gate" to the bottom.

From Helsinki, Finland, comes word that the Finnish mission had returned from Moscow with written Russian demands which, while not disclosed, were said to present a serious obstacle to further negotiations. While hoping for a peaceful settlement, the Finnish delegation were not optimistic and the Government is continuing its defence preparations by putting all foreign monetary transactions under the control of the state bank.

Paris reported "all quiet on the western front" with the Germans ready for a big push. Berlin confirmed the despatch with announcement that Hitler was continuing discussions with his chief military advisers as to future war moves. Air and naval officials were present along with the army leaders.

Flight between French and German troops was reported from the Western Front to-day as a snowfall blanketed the countryside. Whether the action was considerable or not early despatches failed to say.

Provincial Election Results Show Quebec United With All Canada

Isolationist and Non-Participation Policy Rebuked by Voters. Godbout Elected by Overwhelming Majority. Only Fifteen Duplessis Seats in New Legislature.

In upsetting the Union Nationale Government in a landslide, the people of Quebec province yesterday told Premier Maurice Duplessis in no unmistakable terms that they want none of his isolationist and non-participation in the war policies. The huge vote piled up by the Liberal Government in the election showed that the French Canadian province is solid in its desire for Canadian unity.

An ex-premier to-day, Mr. Duplessis saw only fifteen members of his party returned to office while Hon. Adolphe Godbout had 68 seats. One Independent and one Nationalist were elected and one riding is yet to be heard from.

A survey of the changes showed that the Liberals gained fifty-five seats from the Union Nationale, and that the Independent and the Nationalist both gained their ridings at the expense of the Duplessis forces. Twenty-six seats remain unchanged.

The standing at dissolution of the House on Sept. 23rd showed seventy-one Union Nationale, eleven Liberals, five Nationalists, and three Independent Union Nationale members. The House membership was reduced from 90 seats to 86.

The result is considered as a vote of confidence by Quebec in the King Administration's war policy, since Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Federal Minister of Justice, led the Quebec members of the Dominion cabinet in the opposition to Duplessis in the provincial campaign.
