TEN YEARS AGO IN TIMMINS

From data in the Porcupine Advance Files

"Dr. L. Hudson, of Timmins," said The Advance ten years ago, "has the first case of tularemia recorded in Canada. Tularemia is a rare disease and a serious one, but while increasing numbers of cases of the malady have been reported in other countries, probably due to improved methods of diagnosis, the Timmins case is the first to be reported in the Dominion. Tularemia may be described in non-technical language as an infection of a peculiar type received through handling certain ground animals, or birds, these including rabbits, squirrels, muskrats, opossums and quail. There are four types of the disease, ulceroglandular, oculoglandular, glandular and typhoid types. In the Timmins case the typhoid type is the one from which the patient suffers. Fever is one of the symptoms of the typhoid type. The other types are featured by glandular troubles. In the Timmins case, the patient had been suddenly seized with illness, the symptoms being those characteristic of tularemia, namely headache, vomiting, chilliness, chills, aching bodily pains, sweating, prostration and fever. He started for Sudbury, but had to return to Timmins. After careful examination and study of the case, Dr. Hudson diagnosed the case as one of tularemia. This diagnosis was confirmed by laboratory tests, and later it was found that the patient contracted the disease while skinning two wild rabbits some weeks before."

The Northern Prospectors and Claim Owners Association, Porcupine branch, met in the town hall in regular session ten years ago. The chief matter before the association was in regard to timber on mining claims. At a previous meeting the secretary had been asked to write Hon. Wm. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, asking him why the law had been changed in this regard. The answer from Hon. Mr. Finlayson was along the line that there had been so many abuses of the former privilege to cut timber on mining claims that the right had to be withdrawn. The association felt that the claim owners should be allowed to use timber on their claims for mining purposes and that after claims were patented the claim owner should be allowed the timber unless it had been sold previously by the Government. A resolution to this effect was passed by the meeting and forwarded to the proper authorities for attention.

Ten years ago John Brown, of the Lake Shore Road, reported to the authorities the horrible treatment given to a valuable dog he owned. The animal had been slashed and gashed all over the body and legs by a knife. There were a number of serious gashes on various parts of the dog's body and it was feared at first that the animal would have to be destroyed. Eventually, however, the suffering animal was taken out to W. Bailey at the incinerator plant, who was able to sew up the wounds and the dog made splendid recovery, though the poor animal suffered terrible agony until relieved by the good work of Mr. Bailey. It was thought that the animal was caught by some one who was on more or less friendly terms with the dog, and that by the use of a rope round his neck, choking him so that he could not make himself heard in his suffering, the dog was held mute and defenceless while he was cruelly slashed with the knife.

Either the dog was released after being slashed with the knife or he was able to tear himself free. In any event the suffering animal was able to make his way home where its moans and howls prompted investigation. The animal had not been long away from home, Mr. Brown said, and so the mutilation of the animal had been hastily done.

Mrs. L. S. Newton, Mrs. Emerson Rogers and Mrs. J. D. MacLean were called to the east ten years ago on account of the sudden death of their father, Michael Carr, who had been residing on the homestead farm some five miles from Gracefield, Quebec, in the Ottawa district. A phone message to the sisters here gave the sad news without particulars further than that their father had died suddenly on Saturday evening, January 11th, 1930. They left at once for Gracefield to attend the funeral, the services being deferred until Wednesday, January 15, to allow them opportunity to reach Gracefield.

At Iroquois Falls ten years ago the Porcupine Hockey club team won from the Papermakers by a score of 5 to 4 in the N.O.H.A. Senior series, Northern group. Thirty minutes of overtime was necessary to break the tie that held at the close of the third period. Until the latter part of the third period the Falls were leading by a score of 4 to 2, but hard work on the part of Montgomery brought the score up one for Porcupine with only 40 seconds to go. In that 40 seconds Arundel shot a loose puck in for the goal that tied up the score and necessitated the overtime play.

In the Advance ten years ago: "The Porcupine Poultry, Pet Stock and Dog Show, being held this week in the Boston Hotel, opposite the power company building, corner of Pine street and Second avenue, on Wednesday and Thursday, January 15th and 16th, opened yesterday and looks to be one of the very best shows yet and previous ones have been very creditable. The hall is crowded with fine exhibits and the showing is certainly a credit to all concerned. Visitors here say the show is one that will stand comparison with any similar event held in any town this size in the province. The number of dogs on exhibit is greater than last year and the quality of the dogs shown is up to very high standards. It is not often that anyone has the opportunity to see so many well-bred dogs gathered together. While the number of poultry exhibits is perhaps not so large as last year, the variety is noteworthy being up to standards not reached before. In addition to the poultry and dogs there are very interesting exhibits of cats, Belgian hares, rabbits, including chinchillas, guinea pigs, canaries, parrots, etc."

The regular meeting of the town council was held ten years ago with Mayor Geo. S. Drew in the chair and Councillors A. G. Carson, Dr. S. L. Honey, R. Richardson, Alfred Caron, J. T. Chenier and C. P. Ramsay present. A letter was received from the Kitchener City Council pointing out the desirability of an amendment to the Old Age Pensions Act so that municipalities may be permitted to share proportionately in the returns from the estate of any deceased pensioner. The Government asked that property left by a pensioner be turned over to the Government so that the pension may be thus recovered after the pensioner has no further use for the property. The Kitchener council felt that the municipality that paid part of the pension should share in any money thus received by the Government. Eventually, the council passed a resolution to the effect that the Government be asked to consider the amendment of the Old Age Pensions Act so that the local municipality that had contributed to the cost of maintaining any pensioner may after his death share in any sums recovered from the deceased pensioner's estate by the provincial commission in proportion to the amount contributed by the local municipality bears to the total cost of maintaining such pensioner, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the commission.

In the Advance ten years ago: "Brief reference was made last week to the death of Edward N. O'Grady, who passed away at his home, 91 Wilson avenue, on Thursday last, Jan. 9th, 1930. Mr. O'Grady was one of the real old-timers of Timmins and district, having been in this camp since it opened in 1912. He was held in high esteem by all who knew him and his death is very deeply regretted by all. For twelve years the late Mr. O'Grady was in the employ of the Ontario Forestry Branch. The first two years he worked as a fire ranger in the Timmins district, and the next two years as a deputy chief in the same place. For the last eight years he had held the position of chief fire ranger in the Cochrane district, with headquarters at Norembega."

"To the heroes of the North Land," said The Advance ten years ago, "should be added the name of Edna Berndt, of Nahma, four miles south of Cochrane on the T. & N. O. There was a fire at the Berndt home on Monday morning of last week and Edna bravely dashed into the burning house to rescue her brothers and sisters from the flames. She sustained terrible burns, and died at the Cochrane hospital on Wednesday afternoon from pneumonia that developed as a result of the smoke, burns and inevitable exposure following the fire and the trip to the hospital from Nahma. Mrs. Berndt and six other children are in the hospital at Cochrane, suffering frozen feet, ears and hands. They are all expected to recover if no complications ensue, but the little heroine, Edna, has passed on. The father of the home was away at the time of the fire."

Among the local items in the Advance ten years ago were: "A. A. Amos, of Cobalt, vice-president of the Arthur E. Moysey Co. is a visitor to town this week." "Born—At St. Mary's hospital, Timmins, on January 3rd, 1930, to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Aubrey—a daughter." "Mrs. J. McKinnon, who has not been in the best health for some time past, left last week for Toronto, for treatment by specialists in the city." "Mrs. W. Mortson, of Latchford, is visiting her son, A. Mortson, Timmins." "J. R. Walker is a visitor to Toronto this week." "Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fogg left on Sunday for a visit to Florida." "Mrs. A. J. Shragge and children are away on a visit to relatives and friends at Ottawa." "Jos. Berni is in Toronto this week attending the annual motor show of the Willys-Overland and Durant autos." "U. C. Fitzgerald, local manager of the Fesserton Co., is on a business visit to Toronto." "Mr. Victor Godin returned last week from Ottawa, where he was visiting on his way back from Detroit, Mich." "K. Eyre was a visitor to Montreal this week, representing the District Trustees of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district of the Kiwanis." "Born—To Mr. and Mrs. H. Lochrie, 61 Third avenue, Schumacher, on Saturday, Jan. 11th, 1930—a daughter, (Marguerite)."

Charlie McCarthy, Detective, This Week at Palace Theatre

New Style Entertainment Merges Comedy and Mystery.

It was every man for himself—and the devil take the dimwits!

Which means that Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen got back in movie make-up to star in Universal's "Charlie McCarthy, Detective," which comes to the Palace theatre on Friday, Friday midnight, and Saturday, Jan. 19th, and 20th.

Those that suffered most under the barrage of Charlie's splintery wit were Mortimer Snerd, Robert Cummings, Constance Moore, John Sutton, Samuel S. Hinds, Ray Turner and producer-director, Frank Tuttle.

"Charlie McCarthy, Detective," is the first picture in which Charlie has had the title role all to himself. In his first, "Goldwyn Polles," his efforts were confined to specialties and bits. He advanced a step in "Letter of Introduction," playing a supporting role with Andrea Leeds, Adolphe Menjou and George Murphy, while in "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man" he shared the billing honours with his mortal enemy, W. C. "Bill" Fields. But in "Charlie McCarthy, Detective," he not only has the title role, but he's a big star. Only fly in Charlie's honey is the presence in the cast of Mortimer Snerd, Bergen's other boy friend, who has lately come to the fore through his radio and screen work, and whom Charlie refers to as "an uncouth person, a hick from the sticks."

Logical Plot

The story is all about a society murder which the ubiquitous McCarthy solves just as the going gets pretty tough for his friend, the hero, "Elemental, my dear Bergen, elemental." Charlie explains when Bergen's eyes pop at the canny reasoning of his wooden wonder boy.

Robert Cummings was first to suffer under McCarthy's barbed sallies. Cummings came to "Charlie McCarthy, Detective" after finishing a four-week stint with Sonja Henie at 20th Century-Fox studios where he put in a month learning to skate and doing comedy skating routines. He was a bit tired and bruised after his experiences.

McCarthy Speaks

As Cummings gingerly eased himself into a chair on the set, McCarthy asked:

"How does it feel to sit down on your own free will, Bob?"

Later, John Sutton came under fire after he had fumbled a line twice.

McCarthy turned to Director Frank

Fact Equals Humor of Waterworks Chairman

At the annual Firemen's banquet last week, Councillor W. Spooner made some humorous references to plans that might be made to improve the flavour of the town water. He touched on the idea that the drinking water might be flavoured with different materials so that one day it would taste like Scotch whisky, another day like gin and a third day like rye, and so on. As one fireman whispered, as Councillor Spooner outlined his humorous programme, "It's too good to be true!" But last week the people of East Joliet, Illinois, found that such things actually happened. When they turned on their water taps beer ran out. Some called City Commissioner Joseph F. Whalen, to complain, the Associated Press despatches said. Others said it was great. One man suggested it would be all right if the stuff could be made a little stronger. But there wasn't any doubt about it being beer. The City Commissioner said that a brewery vat had overflowed into the water system and made the water taste strongly of beer. Anyway there will be people here who hope now that Councillor Spooner was not just joking, but that he will go right on to perfect his system of Scotch, gin and rye in the water on different days. The Advance will be pleased to announce the different flavours for the different days, for the benefit of those who prefer Scotch to gin or rye, or rye to gin or Scotch, or gin to anything else.

"Frank," he said. "Let's rewrite the script. I'm sure we're going to kill the wrong man in the picture."

High Speed Romance on Double Feature Bill at Cartier

The Other Picture Jan. 19th and 20th is—"Law of the Underworld."

At the Cartier theatre on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 19th and 20th, there is a double feature programme. "Everybody's Doing It" is the title of the one picture, while the other is "Law of the Underworld," with Chester Morris and Anne Shirley.

A high speed romance, unfolded in the heat of a nation-wide advertising contest that gets out of control, forms the theme of "Everybody's Doing It," RKO Radio's new offering with Preston Foster and Sally Eilers in starring roles.

Foster and Miss Eilers have the romantic leads as commercial artists in the breakfast-food company's advertising department, who perfect the idea for the contest. The two favorites are excellently cast as a pugacious pair of lovers.

With many of the scenes filmed in a large advertising office, the inner workings of advertising campaigns and the painting of advertising posters is revealed for perhaps the first time on the screen.

Supporting the stars is a notable group of players. Lorraine Kreuger, the dancer who scored in "New Faces of 1937," plays her first featured role as a game entertainer. Richard Lane and Guinn Williams are cast as racketeers. Cecil Kellaway as head of the breakfast-food company and William Brisbane as his timid son, with Arthur Lake, Frank M. Thomas, Jack Carson and Sally Ward in important roles. Christy Cabanne directed.

London Evening Standard:—"Because the war is causing a shortage of starch, the British Launderers' Research Association are trying to find a substitute. Unless it is found there will soon be a run on soft-fronted dress shirts. A member of a men's clothing firm says: "Soft shirts have been competing with the stiff variety for some time. It would not be surprising if, before the winter is over, soft shirts have won."
