Questions Asked Mother by Three-Year-Old Daughter

(By Gail Stevens)
My three-year-old daughter expects me to answer these questions. Could you?
Where is far away?
Where do flies live?
How do we get mad?
What makes the wind?
When was last night?
Does the rain sleep?
What makes the talk come out of my mouth?
Who took care of me when you were a little girl?
Will you ever grow down little like I am?
What do mosquitoes eat?
What do monkeys say?
Do you walk when you're shot dead?
Why did God stay up to make it rain to-night? Doesn't He have to go to bed?
Do my bones make my eyes wink?

SIFTING THE NEWS

By Hugh Murphy

A lover of paradox, the late G. K. Chesterton for example, would find the fact that Hitler has invited Russia to open a propaganda bureau in Germany, extremely amusing.

Not only has the Comintern, which used to be the Russian bureau for the dissemination of propaganda for the world-wide spread of Communism and which now is headquarters for Russian espionage both inside and outside the Soviet, been permitted to open a central office under Nazi protection, but a special wireless station has been allocated for the spread of its defeatist propaganda to the Allied Nations.

Another interesting angle and one which illustrates the vacillation of Russo-German relations over the past few years, is that Georgi Dimitroff is in charge of the bureau in Germany. Dimitroff, a few years ago, was one of the Communists in Germany who were accused of starting the Reichstag fire. His bold accusations at his trial to the effect that it was Hitler's men themselves who started the fire, nearly gave Goering apoplexy.

Thus has the Comintern, which Germany fought so long and so hard not so long ago, been enrolled to serve the ends of Germany.

Two Finns arrived in New York last week-end. They will probably do as much while abroad to defeat Russia as two army divisions would do at home on the battle front. They are Taisto Maki, greatest runner of the present day, and his manager, Paavo Nurmi, greatest runner ten years ago. These two phlegmatic Finns will run on tracks across the continent. The money they make—and it will be plenty, will be used for Finnish relief.

Since November Maki has been fighting actively. Nurmi has been busy trucking refugees out of Helsinki. Good work but not as good as they will do in America.

Maki holds world's records at 2,000 miles, three miles, 3,000 metres, 5,000 metres and 10,000 metres. Nurmi, in his day, held all those records. Fifteen years ago, he packed sporting arenas and turned them away at the gate. There are many stories about him which approach the legendary. In the days of his grand American tour of 1925-26, for example, he ran against another Finn, Willie Ritola. Nurmi would go out and break Ritola's world record for the mile and then Ritola would promptly break Nurmi's record for the two miles.
"Ritola, Ritola, all the time Ritola," Nurmi would mutter. He would then enter the two miles and break Ritola's record. And so it went all across the continent.
Like the Finns who have used plain ordinary, common-sense to beat the Russians this far in their struggle, Nurmi learned to run in a common-sense way. He developed his high stride and his sense of pace by holding to the coupling of the local train as it went out of town and running behind or on the road bed, lifting his feet high to avoid stubbing his toes on the ties.
Nurmi had no sense of humour. He was a plain, man with a single-mindedness of purpose. That was to run faster than any other man in the world. For years he did just that.
These two men are typical of the Finns who are belabouring the Russian bear. They have very little sense of humour. They learned to run the hard way. One has beaten the world's best runners and the other is determined to—and very probably will. This time, however, when Maki runs, he will have more incentive than Nurmi ever had. Nurmi, after all, was running for a charity by the name of Nurmi. Maki is running in the name of ordinary humanity.

New Hollinger Orchestra to be Feature at Recital

Outstanding Programme is Promised for Event on Tuesday Evening Next.

One of the unusual musical treats of the year will be the recital to be given in the Timmins United Church on Tuesday evening next by the Porcupine Music Teachers. Recitals by music pupils are not uncommon, but programmes given by the teachers, instead of the pupils, suggest a very pleasing novelty, and especially so in the case of the Porcupine Music Teachers' Association, the membership of which includes so many talented musicians.

One special feature of the Porcupine Music Teachers' Recital will be the fact that it will be the first public appearance of the new Hollinger orchestra. This orchestra has been organized and directed by Mr. Michael Rose and its part on the programme will be one of the highlights of the evening. However, this is only one of the many features of the programme that is confidently expected to make a special hit with the audience.
Tickets for the Porcupine Music Teachers' Recital are now on sale and may be obtained from any of the members of the Porcupine Music Teachers' Association. The event is one that few will care to miss, so it would appear of the Porcupine Music Teachers' early. In the meantime all lovers of music should remember the event, the place and the date—Porcupine Music Teachers' Recital, in the United Church, Timmins, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 13th, commencing at 8.15 p.m.

Government Official Says New Bridge Needed Over River

Chief Bridge Engineer Says New Mattagami Bridge Would Cost $100,000.

Possibility of a new bridge across the Mattagami River became greater yesterday with receipt of a letter from Arthur Sedgewick, Chief Bridge Engineer for the Ontario Department of Highways. The letter, addressed to Mayor J. Emilie Brunette, pointed out that the Deputy Minister of Highways, R. M. Smith, believes that the present bridge is obsolete and should be replaced by a modern structure.

The letter was as follows: "Following my visit and inspection of the present bridge I secured from Mr. Hamer, Division Engineer, a copy of the estimate that his staff prepared for the rehabilitation of the present bridge. This estimate calls for an expenditure of $18,500 instead of the figure of $18,000 mentioned by Mr. MacLean.

"As promised you I consulted with the Deputy Minister as to what should be done with regard to this problem. Mr. Smith was associated with the earliest history of the Town of Timmins and he expresses a sentimental interest in seeing that the town is properly developed. He agrees with me that the present bridge is obsolete as far as present and future needs of the town are concerned. He is, therefore, not sympathetic towards spending large recurring sums to maintain the structure. He is, on the contrary, of the opinion that a new up-to-date bridge of adequate width should be built on Fourth Street. He realizes that money is hard to obtain at the present time but that something must be done soon. He put forth the suggestion, therefore, that the abutments and piers for a new bridge could be built and financed this year and the superstructure built next year.

"By building a new bridge on Fourth Street traffic could be maintained over the present bridge and thus the expense of building a temporary bridge during construction would be eliminated.

"Mr. Smith has expressed himself of the opinion that a bridge with a 40-ft. roadway, plus sidewalks, should be provided. For your information, therefore, I would advise that this scheme would entail an expenditure of around $100,000."

Death of John Berry Former Well-Known Citizen of North

Father of Mrs. P. H. Carson, Timmins, Dies in 81st Year.

John Berry, well-known citizen of North Bay for the past nine years, and previously a pioneer businessman of the North, died on Tuesday morning in Toronto General hospital where he had been for several days. The late Mr. Berry was the father of Mrs. P. H. Carson, of 38 Sixth Avenue, Timmins, and she went down to Toronto last week on receipt of word of his serious illness.

The late John Berry was well-known and highly regarded in Halleybury and through the North which he had helped to pioneer. He was born near Lindsay, Ont., the son of the late Alexander and Mrs. Berry. He married the former Margaret Maxwell at Deseronto in 1885, afterwards moving to the State of Wisconsin, U.S.A. Mr. Berry's business as building contractor kept him in Wisconsin for several years. In 1908 he returned to Canada, taking up residence at Halleybury, remaining in that town until nine years ago, when he moved to North Bay. His wife predeceased him in 1935.

Mr. Berry is survived by two sons, H. C. Berry, of Salem, N.J., and H. N. Berry, of North Bay; and one daughter, Mrs. P. H. Carson, of Timmins. H. C. Berry of Salem, and Mrs. P. H. Carson are in North Bay to attend the funeral.

The funeral is being conducted this afternoon (Thursday) at North Bay, with service being held at the residence, 236 Kleck avenue, by Rev. Peter Webster. Interment is to be made in Terrace Lawn cemetery.

To Change Date of Assizes on Account of Election Date

Citizens of Temiskaming Not to Lose Their Votes.

Halleybury, Feb. 8.—(Special to The Advance)—Citizens of Temiskaming and others from outside the district whose duties will require them to attend the forthcoming Assizes here in sundry capacities will not lose their votes at the Dominion general election, as the sittings of the court, arranged to open on the same day as the ballots will be cast, will be re-arranged to avoid this conflict of dates. Announcement to this effect was made here by J. A. Legris, K.C., president of the Temiskaming Law Association, following receipt by him of a letter from Chief Justice Hugh Rose, and written in reply to a request from Mr. Legris to have the change made. Mr. Legris told The Advance he had been advised by the Chief Justice of the High Court that a new date would be assigned to the Assizes, instead of March 26 for the opening as originally scheduled, and that the change would be announced after Mr. Justice Chevrier, who will preside at the court, has been consulted and his Lordship's other engagements considered.
