"Kap" the Only Stop
in 935 Miles on Air
Route Across Canada

Paper Mill at Kapuskasing Produces Newspaper for Three Big U.S. Dailies.

Montreal, April 24—Kapuskasing, Ont., the regular stop on the Trans-Canada Air Lines route between North Bay and Winnipeg—935 miles—is the centre of an important pulp and paper industry. The Spruce Falls Paper and Paper Company was formed in 1926 and work was begun on a paper mill at Kapuskasing and on a hydro plant at Smoky Falls, 50 miles north. Two years later, the operation was in full swing and since that time the company has spent about $2,500,000 in the community, which now has a population of 4,000. The output of the Spruce Falls mill is about 750 tons of newsprint daily. Fifty per cent of it goes to the New York Times and the remainder to the Washington Star and the Philadelphia Ledger. The mill employs 900, and 700 men work in the bush supplying it with wood. A company railroad operates to the bush camps and to Smokey Falls.

"Kap," as it is familiarly known, is 268 miles from North Bay and 667 miles from Winnipeg by the T.C.A. The name is Cree and means "branch river," the Kapuskasing being a branch of the Mattagami which runs into the Moose and so out into James Bay.

of John D. MacFarlane

Brighton, Ont., April 22nd—(Special to The Advance)—In the death on Thursday, April 18th, of John D. MacFarlane at his home in Orland, Ont., the North loses another of its outstanding pioneer citizens.

The late Mr. MacFarlane was born June 3rd, 1862, on a farm near Kingston, Ont. When a very young man he went to Colorado and worked for three years for the late Duncan Chisholm. In 1891 he returned to Canada and for fourteen years was in business in Buckingham, Que. In 1905 he moved to Cobalt and from then on his interests and heart were in the North Land.

Under Duncan Chisholm and later on for the Mattagami Pulp and Paper Co., he cruised many of the timber limits of the North.

About ten years ago he retired, and moved to Orland, Ont., where he died. The late Mr. MacFarlane is survived by his second wife, Rhoda White, five children, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The children are Wallace of Noranda, Thomas and Kenneth of Detroit, Mrs. W. J. Donaldson and Mrs. J. W. Keenan, of Kirkland Lake, Ont.

Funeral Yesterday of Late Alexander Gauthier

Sudbury, April 24—The funeral of the late Alexander Gauthier was held this (Wednesday) morning at 9 o'clock from St. Anne's church to the Roman Catholic cemetery in Sudbury.

Another link with the early history of Sudbury was broken this morning in the death of Alexander Gauthier, of 20 Durham St., who died at St. Joseph's Hospital in his 63rd year. The late Mr. Gauthier was born in Papineauville, Que., where he received his education, coming to Sudbury in 1898. Here he set up a blacksmith shop on the site of the present Laforest block. For 23 years the late Mr. Gauthier was employed by the Evans Lumber Company, and for the past nine years has been retired. He was a member of St. Anne's Church, and of the Sacred Heart League in Sudbury. Surviving are his wife, the former Euphrasie Bazinet, of Copper Cliff, whom he married in 1900; and ten children, Mrs. Forest, J. L. Gauthier, O. Gauthier, Miss Jeannette Gauthier, Miss Evelyn Gauthier, Mrs. L. McGillis, Romeo and Henri, all of Sudbury, Fernando, of Timmins, and Alexander, Jr., Noranda.

SIFTING THE NEWS
By Hugh Murphy

In this war we yet may see troops clanking forth to battle clad in the armour plate of a former day. That perhaps is an exaggerated inference to draw from the contention of Kenneth Walker, a Harley Street surgeon and captain in the R.A.M.C. during World War number 1, but Dr. Walker would at least have soldiers provided with armoured chest plates.

Large numbers of men died during 1914-18 as the result of being hit by tiny fragments of grenades or shell, he said recently in an article in the British Medical Journal. Sixty per cent of the wounded during the last war were put out of action by projectiles other than bullets. Light armour would not necessarily protect a man from bomb splinters but "many would be saved from dying as the result of a splinter of low penetrating power entering a vital area."

Arguing that it took two years to convince authorities to accept the steel helmet, Walker said: "Having accepted the principle that it is worth while protecting the head from projectiles of low penetrating power, is it not advisable to extend this principle to other and even more vulnerable areas of the body?"

German troops were reported to be using duralumin suits at the beginning of this war. British military authorities said at that time that the suggestion that troops should be armoured plated had been considered but it was not regarded as feasible because of the weight, and penetrating power of modern weapons.

"I can't stand this world's madness any longer," wrote Kid McCoy in a little hotel room in Detroit. Then he swallowed enough sleeping pills to relieve him of that painful necessity. He passed on to see if after life could offer him more excitement than the one he left.

Norman Selby, for that was his name, was married nine times, three times to the same woman; killed a divorcee with whom he had been living, and spent seven and a half years in jail of the twenty year term he was given as the result; won 196 of the 200 bouts he fought; spent a fortune, went bankrupt, lived in Riviera villas and in flophouses; served in the Great War and all but cracked mentally while serving as the keeper of a great jockey who was a dipsomaniac; finished up as a nightwatchman in a factory. He decided that he couldn't stand this world's madness any longer and that the world was madder than he. Perhaps he was right.

Joachim von Ribbentrop got an exceedingly chilly reception when he visited the Vatican last month. As an aftermath of his call, this little story is said to be circulating through the dignified corridors of St. Peter's. According to the story, Hitler, dissatisfied with the result of Ribbentrop's visit, sent Goering to pay a call. He received a telegraph message from Hermann. "Have placed the Holy See under German protection," it read. "All prelates in concentration camp. Pope has fled. Vatican in flames. Cardinal's robe suits me beautifully."

Kirkland Lady Had Purse Back Before She Missed It

The Northern News on Tuesday tells the following interesting incident in the life of Mrs. Roza Brown, one of Kirkland Lake best-known residents:—

"While doing her shopping on Government Road Saturday night, Mrs. Roza Brown left her purse containing $17.50 in cash on a display counter. She went up and down the main street without missing it.

"Although scores of people passed by the display table in the Saturday night shopping crowd, it remained apparently unnoticed until a clerk, Miss K. Lawson, picked it up and turned it in to the office.

"A messenger was sent by the manager of the store with the purse, which was readily identified, to Mrs. Brown's residence. He had to make three trips before he located her and she still did not know of her loss until the purse and money were safely back in her hands again."

Large Attendance at Funeral of the Late
Hugh McEachen

Many Beautiful Floral Tributes. Funeral With Legion Honours.

A large number of friends gathered at the Church of Nativity on Wednesday morning, to pay a last sad tribute to the late Mr. Hugh McEachen, who passed away at St. Mary's Hospital on Sunday. Friends were assembled from various points throughout the North Land where the late Mr. McEachen was known to every old-timer as one of the first stagers in this district.

Legion honours were given at the funeral, and members of the Legion acted as pall-bearers: Kenneth MacLeod, M. Sullivan, J. Leaman, Major Comthwaite, S.A., H. Gillan, L. Dimmock. The service was a high mass, and numerous spiritual and floral offerings were given by the sorrowing friends.

The late Mr. McEachen had been well-known in the North Land since 1900, coming to the Porcupine area when the first gold was discovered here. He served with the 87th Grenadier Guards during the Great War, and was decorated by General Lord Byng with the military medal for distinguished service.

End of One of the Biggest Old Land Sweepstakes

(London Sunday Times)

A notable event here has been the collapse of the Hospitals' Sweepstakes. The company which ran them—Hospitals Trust, Ltd.—has gone into voluntary liquidation as a result of war conditions, and, although it has been announced by the management that a new company will be formed for the promotion of sweepstakes and "other activities", its operations must necessarily be on a much smaller scale.

Since 1930 twenty-nine sweepstakes have been held for the benefit of the Irish hospitals, and a sum exceeding fourteen million pounds has thus been provided, of which the larger part has still to be spent.

It is not so much the hospitals that will immediately suffer as the 2,000 persons who were permanently employed by the Trust, and the further 2,000 or thereabouts who obtained temporary employment during some three months of the year. There will be a direct loss of perhaps £550,000 a year to the Exchequer from stamp duties, broadcasting revenue, and charges for postage.

telegraph and telephone, and the stoppage will also be reflected in the income tax receipts and otherwise.

Pioneer of North Has Been Voting Since Year 1878

Mr. Robt. Holmes, who recently observed his 83rd birthday, has probably cast more honest votes in Dominion and provincial elections than any other man in the town of Timmins. About only way to beat his record in the line of voting would be to have voted more than once in the same election. Mr. Holmes cast his first vote in 1878 and since that time has only missed three possible votes—one Dominion election and two provincial ones. When he started his career as a voter in 1878 there was no secret ballot as to-day, the voting being done by the old "open vote" plan. This open voting often led to trouble of one kind or another, and though Mr. Holmes did not have the ill-fortune to encounter any difficulty in casting his vote, he has many accounts that he was told about by others where serious situations arose through gangs attempting to prevent groups from getting into the polling places. It was not uncommon in those days to use force to stop voters from exercising their franchise.

Mr. Holmes has a phenomenal memory, but he would not venture even a guess as to how many votes he has had in provincial and Dominion elections in his record career of sixty-two years as a voter. "I suppose if I took the time to sit down and go back through the years and remember the different places where I was entitled to vote, I could figure it out, but I'm not sure it would be worth the trouble," he said.

BUT HE HAD A PLAN FOR FINANCIAL SECURITY!

This is the true story of a Canadian doctor, who realized the value of actually planning his future while he was YOUNG! In 1908 he bought his first Mutual Life policy—$4,000 on the 20-Pay Life plan. The premium averaged only $2.44 a week.

representative, or write direct to The Mutual Life of Canada, Waterloo, Ontario. 165,000 policyholders own The Mutual Life... all the profits go to policyholders.

His first investment in the future cost only $2.44 a week

Here's what happened to that investment:
The doctor's annual premium was $126.60
20 years' premiums totalled..... $2,532.00
Dividends paid in 32 years..... 1,836.31
Net outlay..... $ 695.69
Total cash value of policy in 1940 $2,676.00

Plan your own security!
What he and thousands of others have built, you can build too! All you need is the right plan for you! Perhaps, starting young, it's the combined protection and savings of the 20-Pay plan you need? Or an endowment policy... for yourself, for your family, or to help your boy through college? Then be sure to talk it over with a Mutual Life

The above is a definite case history. We do not guarantee you exactly the same results, for dividends must be commensurate with changing conditions. But in any event all Mutual's profits go to its policyholders—the only owners of the company.
