Start To Recruit Here Today

Will Need Between Thirty and Thirty-Five Men to Bring Co., to Strength.

In order to bring the local unit of the Algonquin Rifles up to full strength recruiting will be started at the armouries here tonight.

Approximately twenty-five men from the Algonquins have enlisted in other service units since the war began and others have tried to enlist and been turned down. Officials think that from thirty to thirty-five men will be needed to bring the local unit to strength

Officers here are making an effort to have the men who are to be accepted medically examined under C.A.S.F. standard. They point out that often a man will be examined and pass under the medical standards of the non-permanent militia and fail when it comes to an examination under C.A.S.F. fern

Captain Keith Sterling, who has groomsman been made company commander here, will be in charge of recruiting. Courses will be held for non-commissioned officers and for men in the near future.

Notable Work Being Done to Help the Blind in Canada

Blind People Themselves the Earnest Workers. Many Benefits Given Timmins and North.

A report of addresses given this week by Mr. D. B. Lawley, supervisor of Ontario field services for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, was tial agricultural work. The men will received too late for this issue. Mr rejoin their units to-day or to-morrow. Lawley is here in charge of the campaign for support of the cause. His addresses show the notable work being carried on to help the blind to find happy place in life. In Timmins and district there are numerous cases where blind people have been educated, taught trades, set up in business and otherwise helped. The cause deserves the greatest support on this account. Even the cost of administration of the work helps the blind, because all of their paid officials and workers are themselves blind.
