Premier Hepburn

Invasion of Canada

"I Think He's Crazy," Says

Acting Minister of De-

Premier Hepburn rose from a sickbed yesterday to broadcast a warning against the danger of Nazi and Italian agents in the United States making raids on Canadian border towns. He said he had information about plans to this effect. "I think he's crazy."

Acting Defence Minister Power is quoted as replying at Ottawa. Thoughtful cpinion will be inclined to support Premier Hepburn. It is true that the United States will do all possible to prevent such raids, but it will be remembered that the Fenian raids occurred despite government disapproval.

The way to assure safety from such raids is to be ready for them. The Nazi and Fascist organizations in the U.S.A.

are quite strong, and considerable damage could be done before the two governments could deal fully with them without preparation. If prepared, the trouble would not be serious. Indeed, if prepared, the raiders would likely defer their gangster tricks. Premier

Many Prizes for Gardens in Timmins and the District

Buffalo-Ankerite, Schumacher, Gold Centre, Timmins and Hollinger Townsite Gardens to be Judged.

In past years there has been much interest in the garden competition sponsored by the Timmins Horticultural Society. This competition has been of marked value in leading to improved appearance of the town and homes and it has grown to considerable proportions to-day, including not only Timmins and the Hollinger townsite, but also having classes for Schumacher, Gold Centre, the Buffalo-Ankerite.

This year's garden competition summarized by the Timmins Horticultural Society as follows:-

In announcing the competition this year the Timmins Horticultural Society says that owing to larger membership and to encourage new members the Hollinger townsite has been placed under a separate heading. This eliminates the possibility of two prizes being awarded to one garden and so extends the prize list, but it does not alter the possibility of a Townsite garden being the best garden of its size in town.

Not Well to Pay Too Much Attention to Rumours To-day

Restrictions Make it Impossible to Deny or Confirm Stories.

The entry of Italy into the war started a new relay of rumours and reports going. At ordinary times the newspapers can do much to offset false rumours and exaggerated reports, but at present censorship requirements make this service difficult. Credit should be given to the board of censors for their very evident desire to give the news papers as fair a deal as possible, but for state reasons it is often impossible to leave the newspapers free to give the facts. As soon as Italy had declared war, the censors informed all newspapers that the R.C.M.P. desired that no mention should be made of internments of Italians or Italian sympathizers or agents. This, no doubt was to facilitate the work throughout Canada of the R.C.M.P. in rounding up suspects from the Fifth Column. Later, however, the censors wired the newspapers to the effect that mention might be made of the cases, but that neither names nor the exact numbers of those taken in the activities of the police against subversive or suspected agencies. These facts explain why names are not used, and even the exact number of arrests not stated.

While all this gives more or less headway to rumours, it has to be accepted as part of the conditions necessary in a state of war. The public are given enough facts to know that the authorities are earnestly at work, while the enemy is kept from easy access to facts that might be depended upon and would show the enemy the extent to Hepburn's broadcast leaves no possible which his plans were being interferred excuse if full preparedness is not carwith. As it is, the enemy has to guess, ried out. or take doubtful information. The public also, in the same position, should not accept rumours too readily, but wait until the facts may be given.
