Macmen Outhit Hargreaves In Dominion Day Feature But Lose Second Ennis Cup Game

Macmen Get Seven Hits Compared to Hargreaves' Three But Lose Two to One. Fingertip Catch in Last of Ninth Cheats Macmen. Sherwood Does Hurling for Visitors and George McShane Pitches for the Macmen.

A fingertip snatch by Jerry Deschamps, in right field, cheated the McIntyre out of a win in the second Ennis cup game of the season played between the Macmen and Wright Hargreaves at McIntyre field on Dominion Day. With two out in the last of the ninth the Macmen, who were one run down, loaded the bases. Bougie hit a long fly to the right of first base and fielder Deschamps came out from right field to take it and end the game. Victory went to the visitors by a 2 to 1 score.

The Macmen overthrew the Hargreaves men. They got seven bingles off Jimmy Sherwood. The same Sherwood, although he allowed seven hits, always managed to pull himself out when he got in a hole with men on bases. He was hurling against McIntyre's McShane who did a nice job for his team allowing only three hits.

Kirkland Lake Union Accepts Report of Conciliation Board

Wage Increase Not Urged. Board Divided on Union Recognition.

The Conciliation Board considering the dispute between Teck-Hughes Mines and union employees has given out its findings. The report does not endorse the union request for increase of pay of 15 cents per hour, noting that miners are well paid and that increase in the cost of living does not at present justify the increase. The suggestion is made that in six months or so further consideration might be given to the question by Dominion authorities, in case there is sharp advance in living costs. In the matter of recognition of the union, the chairman, Mr. Justice Marten, and the union representative, J. L. Cohen, see no reason why the union should not be recognized, but the minority report of J. L. Cohen, representative of the mines on the board, says that the mines and union officials are so far apart in their attitude and so lacking in confidence in each other that recognition does not appear practical. At a meeting of the Kirkland Local of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union, the report was accepted, the men feeling that "at this time of stress and national emergency" it was their patriotic duty to do so.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Porcupine Advance Files

The ninth annual meeting of the Dome Mines Company was held in Toronto on June 28th, 1920. The president and all the directors were re-elected for the year. President Baache was enthusiastic regarding the outlook classing results for the first six months of the year 1920 as extraordinary in view of the shortage of men. Even the labour situation, he said, was improved. A short time previously only four drills were available, while at the time of the meeting there were 20. Ore was being broken at the rate of 1600 tons per day or about twice what was required for the mill. President Baache expressed the view that the future depended largely on the labour supply. It was said that if sufficient labour should be available it would be probable that in addition to the dividend then obtaining the company would be able to apply earnings to the redemption of capital. Mr. Baache said that it was the intention to continue operations on as large a scale as possible. A dividend of $1000,000 was declared payable on July 20th, 1920. A resolution expressing the confidence and appreciation of the shareholders regarding the directors and their policies was passed at the meeting.

The Advance twenty years ago said: "Notices published in some outside newspapers show that the Iroquois-Porcupine Mining Co. is being wound up. That is the difference between a mining company and an ordinary clock; you wind up the clock to make it go, but you wind up the company to make it stop."

Twenty years ago the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines appealed against their assessment for the year and secured material reductions. The assessment for 1920 on mine buildings amounted to $88,000.00 as against $57,000.00 the previous year. J. B. Holden, solicitor for the company, who was present from Toronto, and A. F. Brigham, general manager, both pointed out to the court of revision that there was nothing to warrant such an increase. Indeed, several million dollars had been written off plant and building up to date, against the life of the mine. Unlike commercial buildings mine buildings have not value apart from the mine.

The members of the council sitting as a court of revision realized the justice of the claims of the Hollinger, and the assessments were reduced to the standard of the previous year. The buildings were found to be assessable under the decision of the Railway and Municipal Board, announced shortly before, were adjusted to an assessment of $86,000.00. The assessment on the mine's hospital was reduced from $79,200.00 to $22,000.00. The court of revision took the stand that the new hospital would be of the greatest value to the town and district and they realized that it would be maintained only at a direct loss to the company each year. One member of the court of revision suggested that if the hospital could be assured as a fully public and open hospital he would be in favour of exemption altogether from assessment of the hospital as it would be so great a public benefit. In commenting on the appeals, The Advance at the time said: "Throughout the hearing of the appeals, as members of the court of revision remarked afterwards, it was evident that the Hollinger was ready to bear its full share of taxation, and was not endeavouring to evade any fair cost but simply seeking by its appeals to secure an amicable and equitable adjustment of what appeared to be over-assessments in view of all the conditions and circumstances."

The Advance twenty years ago made mention of the fact that the Lakeview Company owning some claims near the Bourkes Mines, about three miles east of Bourkes Station, were installing a small mining plant and would commence an active development programme at once. Another mining note read as follows: "G. J. Miller, of the Miller-Independence Mine, at Boston Creek, was in the camp last week. He is interested in the Miracle Mine here, and a diamond drilling campaign for that property has been considered and those on the inside would not be surprised to see this form of testing-up started at the Miracle Mine at an early date."

There were about 200 present on Sunday, June 20th, 1920, at the dedication of the new Timmins cemetery, and at the burial service for those whose bodies have been reposing in the vaults awaiting burial until the new cemetery should be properly prepared. Rev. R. S. Cushing, rector of St. Matthew's church, and Rev. J. D. Parks, minister of the Presbyterian church, conducted the services of dedication of the ground for its sad and sacred purpose. The Timmins Citizens' Band was present for the occasion and furnished a number of selections appropriate for the event. "Rock of Ages" and other hymn selections were very effectively rendered by the band, some of the hymns also being sung by the relatives and friends gathered for the occasion, the band in these cases playing the accompaniments.

"A special general meeting of the shareholders of the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines," said The Advance twenty years ago, "is announced to be held in Toronto on Tuesday next, June 29th, 1920, to consider and if found acceptable to ratify a by-law passed 63 by the directors to move the head office of the company from Toronto to Timmins. The result of this meeting will be watched with special interest in Timmins, as the removal of the head office of the company to this town

Hollinger Taken in Own Park by Blues of the Dome

Two of the Goals Scored by McMahon on Awarded Free Kicks.

Feeling was high but the brand of soccer was good at the Hollinger park on Tuesday night, when the Dome Blues opened up on the Hollinger after the home team was a goal in the lead, swamped the margin and went on to hand out a 3 to 1 goal trimming. Two of the Dome goals were scored on penalty shots. Both came from the toe of McMahon. One of the good efforts of the evening was turned in by McMorland, in the Hollinger goal. His dexterity and agility prevented the count from mounting to proportions higher than it was when the game was ended.

McClusker led the play which caught the Dome backs napping. He put the sphere into position and Mearon finished off with a boot which landed it between the bars.

Only a few minutes elapsed when Fraser took a pass from Galbraith, raced around two backs and booted one into the Hollinger goal to even the count. Galbraith pulled McMorland to one side before he let go into the empty side of the goal.

When Art Scholes fouled Fraser the Blues were awarded a free kick. McMahon took it and got it by McMorland.

In the second half a Hollinger player got his hand in the way of what looked like a sure goal and the Dome was awarded another free kick. McMahon made it a two goal lead. Feeling ran high and for a time in the second half it looked as though a free-for-all was pending. However Dick Mitchell, referee, stepped in, and with fierce words and threatening gestures, brought peace and quiet.

The teams: Dome Blues: Baxter, Bruce, Foster, McMahon, Painter, Gray, Chambers, Home Fraser, Fulton, Galbraith; Pickup: Hollinger: McMorland, Hampton, Scholes, Williams, Findlay, Faso, Mearon, Hancock, McClusker, Syme, Parkington Miller.

Children's Aid Receiving Applications for Evacuees

The placing of children to be evacuated from Britain will be looked after in Ontario by the Children's Aid Society as a special branch of patriotic effort. The District of Cochrane Children's Aid is now receiving applications for prospective free foster homes for the duration of the war. Applications have to be made on the ordinary C. A. S. application form, the chief point of difference between the evacuated children and ordinary wards is that all homes for the children from overseas must be free and for the duration of the war only. ### Lawton's Homer and Kosick's Triple Feature Good Contest

South Porcupine Shows Surprising Strength to Hold Hard Hitting Hollinger Squad. Cox, South End Hurler Allows Eleven Hits. Zalba Holds Porcupine to Five. Rodney Has Good Day With Three for Five.

Had yesterday's ball game at South Porcupine been another of the marathons the local fans have grown accustomed to seeing when the team of the east end of the camp meets either the Hollinger or the McIntyre, interest in the Porcupiners would have been close to a natural death. However, it was not. True the South End squad did not come through with its first win of the season, but it did manage to hold the hard-hitting Hollinger squad to a 5 to 3 score.

Hollinger got eleven hits against Cox of the five runs came when Lawton smasher a terrific drive deep into right field for a home run. Savoie and Ramuaidi, each with a double, were the only other Hollinger men who got past second base on a hit. Rodney had a good day though with three singles for five times at bat.

Leading Porcupine hitter, against Zalba, who allowed five bingles in the nine innings, was youthful Kosick who smashed a triple and a single. Vic Copps hit a double in the first.

Blid Gunz, who started behind the bat for South End, twisted his ankle going after a foul fly—the same ankle that he broke in a game last year. Tony Delmonte replaced him in the sixth.

Fast work on the part of the Porcupiners on an attempted double steal in the seventh inning, saw the only double play of the game. Rodney was on third and Savoie on first. When they left their bags Delmonte hurled to third base and Savoie to second. He threw back in time to get Rodney at home. Delmonte threw to Kosick on third to catch Savoie.

With one out in the first Savoie doubled to left field. He scored when Ramuaidi, who followed him to bat, banged out another double. Ramuaidi was caught on third by the throw-in from the out field when he tried to stretch his double into a triple.

In the last half of the inning, Copps lead-off South End batter, doubled to center field. He took third on a throw-out at first and scored on Kosick's single.

Next three innings were uneventful, and in the last part of the fifth, with one out, Zalba singled and crowded Rodney's single hard enough to make home.

Lawton's homer started off the sixth for the Hollinger. Chase got on base on an error at short, stole second, made third when Cookson was thrown out at first, and scored on Rudel's single.

Porcupine came to life in the eighth. Labag walked and scored on Kosick's triple. Kosick scored on a throw-in from Dominus's outfield fly.

In the ninth Rudel struck out and Oltman singled. He made two bases when Zalba was thrown out at first and scored and Rodney singled.
