Defence of Canada Case before Court at South Porcupine

Case Dismissed but Warning Given to Guard the Tongue. Other Court Cases.

South Porcupine, July 24—(Special to The Advance)—The Defence of Canada Act figured largely in a case against Victor Papaiz, of Schumacher, who was accused in Magistrate Atkinson's court at South Porcupine on Tuesday of uttering statements which were likely to cause disaffection of His Majesty's subjects. The remarks objected to were alleged to have been made on or about June 18th. Papaiz pleaded not guilty. Mr. Sutherland, who works at the McIntyre Mine gave evidence of conversations between Papaiz and other workmen. Among other remarks was one of derision concerning the "British fleet tied up in the Mediterranean," and "French-Canadian's not much good" after France had fallen. He was against the British, according to his attitude and conversation, and the men did not want to work with him "in case of a row," the witness said. W. Lyon also witnessed against Papaiz but could not definitely state the dates when utterances were made. His statement that Papaiz had criticized the Canadian army as "sloppy" called forth an indignant "No, no!" from defendant.

His attitude was not pro-British, went on the witness, and he also stated that Italy was "gypped" at the end of the last war.

Called to the stand, Papaiz produced his naturalization papers (issued in 1935) and protested that the conversations referred to were merely discussions of daily world events. His reference to the French-Canadians, he said, had bearing on remarks made by his "boss," who said that the Frenchmen were the best fighters and had the best army in the world. His comment after the French gave in was "What do French-Canadians think now, after 'bes' army in worl' capitulate?"

"Sure, I'm for British" was his reply to the magistrates question. "Has Mussolini any control over you?" he was asked. "No, I'm a free man," was the reply.

In summing up the case his worship's comments were: "There is nothing definitely bad, but it is plainly shown that these witnesses did not come to their conclusions for nothing.

"I warn you as an enemy alien," said the Magistrate, "be very careful how you talk. Keep your mouth shut."

There was not quite enough evidence to convict, so the case was dismissed with a warning, to an evidently much-relieved defendant.

Gregorio Prustaglio, on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Louis Actis, asked for adjournment as his lawyer did not appear. "If you can't get your lawyer, get somebody else," said his worship, "for next week."

Two men were each fined $10 and costs both pleading guilty, to "passing on a hill," with no accident involved in either case.

Another motorist pleaded guilty to speeding. He declared that he was probably going at "more than twenty miles per hour, over a railway crossing, but," said he, "my goodness, who doesn't?" "Some do," said the magistrate, "and some don't come out of it." $10 and costs.

Two cases were heard in closed court.

Wm. McKay, of Schumacher, an elderly man, was sentenced to six months hard labour in a case of indecent assault involving two little girls who both gave evidence. The fact that Crown Attorney Caldwell informed the bench that this man had a previous record of the same thing, had bearing on the sentence inflicted.

Ernest Talbot came up for hearing on two charges, one of gross indecency, and one of supplying beer to a minor. He was acquitted of the first charge on account of insufficient evidence, but was sentenced to three months on the second count.

For having a dog at large one citizen paid $1 and costs.

A case of causing a disturbance was withdrawn.

M. Lauder pleaded guilty to being in illegal possession of beer, and was fined $100 and costs. Another charge

No Fooling About Sentry Duty in Old Country To-day

South Porcupine, July 24th—Special to The Advance.

This is no fooling or sentiment about sentry duty in the Old Country these days. They know there is a war on and duty is carried out accordingly. This is proven by stories reaching this continent to the effect that even His Majesty the King was halted by the sentry when he strolled by a guarded spot. His Majesty promptly heeded the call to halt and acted as a soldier and a citizen should do in such a case. The King made it plain that the sentry should not have done other than he did—follow his orders, irrespective. Other well-known and important people have been equally checked up by those on sentry duty. Of course, all of them halt on the command and everything is all right. "But, supposing they don't halt?" you may ask. Well, then there is the case of three men of a Canadian Highland Regiment two of whom either didn't heed the call of the sentry, or didn't heed it, at a camp "somewhere in England." One of the three did stop, but the other two kept on going—for a second only—for the sentry used his rifle, the bullet hitting the standing man and bowling him over. The injured Canadian is the first to receive a wound not blameable on the Nazis. The bullet struck his arm just a few inches from his heart. He is making favourable progress to recovery.

Rain Said to be Cause of Crash on Hollinger Highway

One Man Receives Strained Back as Result of the Impact.

The extremely heavy rain storm which followed Tuesday's heat wave was said to be responsible for an accident which occurred on the Hollinger road.

Hans Holmberg, 33, 29 Fourth Avenue, who was a passenger in the car driven by Theodore Ouellette, 24, of 119 Sixth Avenue, was the only person injured. He strained the muscles of his back as the result of the impact.

Driver of the second car, which is alleged to have crashed into the rear of the first auto, was Joseph H. Stovel, 28, Hallnor Mine.

It was raining very hard at the time of the accident. Ouellette told police that he was sitting on the highway when he was struck from the rear by another car and driven forward about 25 feet.
