

TEN YEARS AGO IN TIMMINS

From data in the Porcupine Advance Files

"The whole North Land will be interested in the formal inauguration of Sudbury as a city on Monday of this week," said The Advance in its issue of August 7th, 1930. "There were literally thousands of the citizens of Sudbury gathered for the occasion, while hundreds from other towns in the North and beyond added to the number. The main feature of the program was a monster parade of decorated floats, together with organizations, bands, etc. A feature of the parade that roused very special attention was a troop of about sixty Manitowaning Indians, men, women and children, garbed in full regalia, carrying bows and arrows and marching to the music of their own Indian band. The Indians of whom Hon. Chas. McCrear is honorary chief, belong to the Ojibway and Ottawa tribes. Their chief (Chief Pelletier) carried with him during the parade the pipes of peace on which are carved the symbols of the tribe. The parade was led by the Algonquin Regiment bugle band, with the mayor and aldermen of the new city at the head of the procession. A float that roused special attention was that of the Rotary Club. Sixty pretty girls were on this float to represent by costume and otherwise the sixty different countries in which Rotary clubs are active to-day. A band preceding this float played the various national anthems of the countries concerned. The program for the day had been arranged by the Sudbury Rotary Club."

Wide circles of friends and acquaintances in Timmins and district learned with very sincere regret of the death ten years ago at Detroit, Mich., of Miss Iris Budd, formerly a popular resident of this town. For about three years the late Miss Budd was on the staff of the town hall here, being first in the tax collector's office and later in the office of the clerk-treasurer. About five years previous to her death, she left here to take up residence with her father in Detroit, Mich. For some years she was employed as a stenographer with a Detroit firm. She came to Timmins from her home in Arnprior and lived here first with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Orr.

There was a good attendance at the Kiwanis Club ten years ago, the attendance being unusually good in view of the holiday season. The luncheon was held on Tuesday as Monday was Civic holiday. Kiwanian Louis Halperin was acting president for the occasion and filled the office with efficiency and good humour. The speaker for the day was Dr. H. H. Moore, medical health officer for Timmins, and his address was a valuable and informative one. He spoke on the necessity and desirability of measures for the prevention of disease touching especially on tuberculosis. He showed how many diseases could be curbed greatly in their spread by the proper precautions.

Although the attendance was not very large, the T.B.A.A. felt that the day of sports put on for the Civic holiday in Timmins ten years ago was a successful and satisfactory one because it provided entertainment for those remaining in town for the day. The program presented was a worthy one and deserved more patronage than it received. However, as the Timmins Boys' Athletic Association lost no money by the event, and as they were not anxious to make money, but desired rather to provide sport for the holiday in town, the management of the event were quite contented with the results.

In The Advance ten years ago: "A story current in town this week that the six-year-old boy lost near Kapuskasing had been found alive" can not be confirmed and is evidently one of those mistaken stories that most people would like to believe but unfortunately fall to be beyond the probable."

Yuhio Annola, single, 27 years of age, met death at the DeSantis Mine near the Hollinger Reserve Property, on Friday, August 1st, 1930, being overcome by gas in the shaft. An inquest was held to enquire into the death and jury made very thorough investigation with a view to the prevention, if possible, of similar accidents in the future. The acting mining inspector, Mr. Cooper, was called upon for evidence and advice. After securing all possible information in regard to the accident, the coroner's jury returned verdict to the effect that death was due to misadventure and attaching no blame or responsibility to anyone for the fatality.

In The Advance ten years ago: "On Monday morning just before six o'clock, C.N.R. passenger train No. 47 from Toronto to Timmins left the rails near Hill siding about 16 miles south of North Bay and Engineer William Hill, of Allandale, was so badly burned that he died while en route to North Bay by special train. Harry Tomlin, also of Allandale, the fireman on the train, is in North Bay hospital, suffering from severe burns, particularly of the lower limbs. It is understood, however, that he will recover. In the accident, which is believed to have been caused by a broken rail, the day coaches left the track after the engine but the Pullman held to the rails. No passengers were injured. Passengers in the sleeping cars say there was little shock caused by the derailment. Instead, while one of the train crew was going through the cars to see if there were any nurses on board he found a lady who did not know there had been a wreck."

Among the local and personal items in The Advance ten years ago were: "Miss Clair Godin was a visitor to Haileybury over the week-end." "Messrs. David and Gerald Martin are on a holiday visit to the south." "Mr. and Mrs. P. Maltais are Toronto visitors this week." "Mrs. P. Godin was a visitor to Cochrane and Iroquois Falls last week." "Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burwell were Cochrane visitors last week-end." "Mrs. Mason, of Lake Shore Road, has been visiting her brother at Kewatin." "Mrs. D. All Services Free in Eastern Porcupine Red Cross Society

Flat and Decisive Denial to Rumour that Anyone Paid Anything for Work.

There have been some of those foolish and unfounded rumours that some of the workers in connection with the Eastern Porcupine Red Cross are being paid and the president of the branch, Mr. J. H. Stovel, gives very vigorous denial to these unwarranted stories. Last fall when the Eastern Porcupine branch commenced operations the direct promise was made that no official would receive any remuneration whatever for his or her services, and this promise has been kept to the very letter. Not one cent has been paid in salary or in any other way to any individual connected with the Eastern Porcupine District Branch of the Red Cross.

Jack Miner's Great Work in Conserving Waterfowl

(From The Telegraph-Journal, St. John)

It is a well known fact that the waterfowl of the North American continent, both ducks and geese, nest in the Canadian north where their young are hatched and reared, and whence they first take flight. Yet by far the greater proportion of these birds are shot in the United States where the number of bird hunters is said to exceed the total population of the Dominion of Canada.

With these facts in mind United States sportsmen have come to the realization that, to maintain a sufficient supply of birds for their guns, they must do something to promote and conserve the supply at its source, which is in Canada. Accordingly they are supporting an organization which, under the name of Ducks Unlimited, has been instituted in Western Canada, with an office in Winnipeg, and which is spreading large sums of money each year on a restoration program.

It might be of interest to these sportsmen to know that, since 1904, there has been operating at Kingsville, Ont., a project which has been accomplishing the very thing for which the new institution has been set up in the west. It is the Jack Miner bird sanctuary which, for thirty-six years, has been conserving bird life and producing a nest-egg supply of game for hunters all up and down the continent. Since 1909 Jack Miner has banded approximately 50,000 ducks and has been studying their migration routes. In the last twenty-five years he has banded some 23,000 Canada Geese, and indisputable evidence has been collected as to their flight lanes. It has been definitely established by records that fully ninety-nine per cent of the birds fully migrate and roost at the Jack Miner preserve keep to their flight lane east of the Mississippi, along the Atlantic coast, the Ohio and Illinois rivers.

During the last three years Ducks Unlimited has spent an average of about $120,000 a year in its work; it is well known that the Miner project is operated at a cost of about $15,000 yearly because there is no expense for wages or salaries and the land on which it is located has been donated to the cause. These are facts which deserve to be brought to the attention of United States sportsmen who depend upon Canada for their supply of game waterfowl.

Ginger Rogers and Noel McCrea in Romance at Cartier

"Primrose Path" Sparkles with Romance and Originality.

Sparkling with originality and an engrossing down-to-earth treatment of its motivating romance, "Primrose Path", at the Cartier theatre Sunday midnight to Thursday, August 12th to 15th, proves once more that Ginger Rogers is one of our finest dramatic actresses, and that few can touch Noel McCrea for robust and likable manliness on the screen.

The two favorites are co-starred in this absorbing and sympathetic story of a girl who disowned her dissolute family and of a boy who didn't know what real love was until he lost it. Hungry for affection, the girl meets a young man who runs a hamburger stand and marries him without letting him know the ugly truth about her parents and her home.

Their brief happiness is shattered when the girl, aware that her husband will learn the facts for himself sooner or later, brings the boy and the family together. Feeling that she tricked him into marrying into a group of parasites, the boy tries to put her out of his life, but he learns that it isn't so easy to do. The conflict of their hurt pride with their very real need for one another makes for the taut drama of the conclusion.

The two stars turn in brilliant and sympathetic performances which serve to make "Primrose Path" one of the year's very best offerings. And they

Show at the Palace Makes You Laugh the Blues Away

Olivia de Havilland and Jeffrey Lynn are Stars in New Comedy.

There's a sure cure for your blues waiting for you at the Palace theatre Friday midnight and Saturday, August 9th and 10th, where Olivia de Havilland, Jeffrey Lynn, and a host of other delightful people are cavorting through the most refreshing comedy of many seasons. "My Love Came Back" is the title, and it's a laugh-getter!

To the syncopated tempo of music of the masters played in pitter-put-put, the madcap antics of a music student and her racy cohorts—Eddie are aided by the splendid work of a fine cast headed by Marjorie Rambeau, Henry Travers, Miles Mander, Queenie Vassar and little Joan Carroll, as well as by the sensitive and telling direction of Gregory La Cava, who also produced the picture and collaborated on the screen play.

La Cava, famous for his handling of films with social significance has done a remarkable job of bringing the daily loves of the Adams and the Wallace families to the screen in unforgettable fashion, and of lifting the picture's romance far above its drab surroundings. See this offering by all means. It's definitely a "must" production.

Albert, Jane Wyman, Charles Winninger and Spring Byington—keep a terrific pace.

Miss deHavilland is the violin student, Amelia Cornell, who is as talented as she is broke. Winninger is the industrial magnate, Julius Mallette, who turns his factory over to Tony Baldwin, played by Jeffrey Lynn, that he might have more time to devote to Amelia's career.

Amelia doesn't know her patron's identity when she gets a scholarship, but learns soon enough when the town learns he is none other than Mr. Mallette, and the girl becomes the butt of scandal. She thinks this can be straightened out by returning the check in question, and this she thinks she does. But swingers Joy and Dusty, played by Jane Wyman and Eddie Albert, cash the check to help put over their classical swing band.

Amelia is starred in the band's first performance, an important event for the organization. She faints when she appears and discovers it to be taking place in the Mallette home. A big session between Mrs. Mallette, played by Spring Byington, the Mallette children, and all parties concerned, ends with understanding. The band is a success. And Amelia is the biggest success of all—with Tony.
