Marked

A Tiger Standish Adventure

Down for Killing

by Sydney Horler

CHAPTER XV

SIR HARKER IS TROUBLED afternoon. Whilst he knew that it He had done the best thing possible. Meanwhile, Benny, looking some like his admiration for Standish, had a straits, this might be very useful. whole series of misgivings. The last | That done, he was forced temporarily ance of a workmanlike job. tional gain achieved. And, as Chief be adduced from his manner.

He had another reason for worry. He ed. knew exactly how he stood with Sonia of Britain's latest super-bomber-Sonia to it!" had humbled her pride and had appealed to him.

You seem to forget that he is a married his life. man! One would also imagine that Tiger was the only agent you had in Platz, and you, Seltzmann, will do derer. strain-you must see what I mean?"

He had nodded. dear, and-even if you do not believe behind their masks. It had been gall best he could achieve this, that Belall this anxiety."

tered.

This time he did not nod. How out into the open. could he explain to a woman- and a how, when certain sudden emergencies mission. arose, he was bound to call on the one man in whom, more than in any other, work required would be done?

Instead, he had compromised. himself-rely upon me to do the best I surprise. can. That means, in turn, that I had to call upon the best available material -and I need scarcely tell you, I suppose, that by that term, I refer to your husband?"

She gave a cry.

"But it isn't fair. You call on him too often. I know how keen he is say to the contrary, but there is a limit and I want you to observe that limit now. Tiger has worked brilliantly, ungrudgingly for you for years-" It had touched his heart to watch her distress.

And so this time, he had done a little more than compromise. He had determined to take the field himself; to share what risks there might be in this adventure equally with his agent.

He had been actuated by more than one reason in coming to this resolve; his pride had been touched by what Sonia Standish had said to him in that interview; she had inferred that, whilst he skulked in his office, her husband had had to face perils all by himself. Well, he might be decrepit in years compared with Standish, but there was life in the old dog yet. And that night he would show it.

"THE MOLE" BURROWS

Unknown to anybody he had gone to the house at Wambledon, equipped with a telescopic ladder, a knife, a revolver, and a flashlight. An old campaigner, he had been able to elude the guard, the members of which he had seen scattered about, and, fixing his ladder, he had nipped up it with an agility that even Tiger Standish would have I . . ?" envied.

Once in the grounds he knew he must be cautious; there might be any numable to reach the house without any night for taking chances." mishap. It was whilst he was lying flat | This done, the two returned quickly shots come from inside the cellar, outon his stomach practically overlooking to their former prison. the barred window of what might once have been a wine cellar, that he was hurled himself straight at the first man. Mr. Standish's servant speaking from startled to hear the unmistakable tones If there had been any illumination in there some time back, I naturally con-

of Benny Bannister's voice. So Tiger had lived up to his word- been quite so satisfactory, but, natur- ish and Bannister had been taken what a fool he would have been had he ally enough, anybody expecting to walk prisoners and placed in that hole. Am doubted him. He had gone to this in upon two bound figures, might rea- I right?" house, as promised, had taken Benny sonably be surprised if one of the figures with him-and now, it seemed, both suddenly grabbed him about the knees "You are right in one respect, Sir make his presence known, but many been even more surprised, perhaps, to years exercise of rigid self-restraint find the life being choked out of his Sir Harker Bellamy could not keep had stopped him from talking. There throat with a pair of hands, the fingers his mind on his routine duties that might be guards in that prison-house. of which seemed to be made of steel.

would be a mere waste of time to try taking the Ewedish knife from his a human badger, had been busy on his to prevent his favourite agent, Tiger | pocket, fixing, the blade, and letting it own account. He had used the knife Standish, from carrying out the plans slip through the barred window. If . . . . Now the handle could be seen he had outlined, Bellamy, in spite of Tiger and Benny were in desperate sticking out of the throat of the Second thing he wanted was to lose the ser- to leave his post, for close behind him "Very neat, Benny!" whispered Stanvices of the man who had brought off he heard the slithering steps of a night dish. "Very neat indeed! Now what so many brilliant coups for him, and he prowler. It must be one of the guards. I want you to do is to put on that regretted that this Carlimero-Standish | Back in the Council Chamber, Car- fellow's mask and cloak. We are bound vendetta had resolved into such a per- limero lived up to his word. Somewhat for the higher regions again." sonal affair. It was a sheer waste, he to his surprise, he was allowed to go, Bannister, whose nerve had been considered, to have Tiger risking so Greisner raising no objection to his slightly upset by the thought that, for much in this particular instance. Even departure. Greisner evidently had so the first time in his life, he had killed if he got the better of Carlimero as he much contempt for the Caronian that a fellow being, hesitated. would in the end, without a doubt-still, it did not matter to him what the man "You heard what I said Benny," he of Q.I. Department, it was the national But directly the man who had seen After that, of course, there was interests that he always had to con- Carlimero leave by the back door re- nothing more to be said turned, his attitude completely chang-

"Now that that swine has gone," he Standish; he knew that, much as she declared, with brutal frankness, "I don't Using all the guile of a Red Indian Nash Motors to Enter the might admire the work he did for the mind saying that what I told him just scout, Bellamy, who had learned most nation, the very mention of his name now was a lie! I have had no fresh of the tricks whilst on active service as was anothema to her because of the orders from Strassber; I said that I a spy in various parts of Europe, waited tasks he gave her husband from time had received instructions to take Stand- until the prowler had vanished - it to time. After the last brush with ish to Menke because I was determined seemed for good-and then returned to Rahusen-when Tiger had nipped in to show my superior authority. I know his former post. the bud a very daring attempt on the that Carlimero has sworn to kill Stand- As he did so, he heard the sound of part of his old enemy to steal the plans ish himself, but I am going to beat him two revolver shots. They came from

"It's time you gave Tiger a rest, hearers; and if Carlimero could have prostrating. Especially after what re-Sir Harker," she had said, standing in heard those voices, he would have been cent talk with Sonia Standish. What that very room; "for years now, you convinced he had been correct in his on earth could he tell the girl? What have exposed him to all sorts of risks, surmise that the longer he stayed in excuse could be possibly give? Even if and I'm getting more than tired of it. that room, the shorter might have been he explained that her husband had your Department. If this sort of thing the job!" he ordered. "Go down into The inside of the cellar was as black doesn't stop-and I feel I can no longer the cellar, shoot Standish and his ser- as his hat; the moon, which had been stand the strain-then I shall have to vant, and then report back to me. I a danger to him before, had now disgo to the Secretary of State himself will decide later what is to be done appeared-and he cursed its coyness. and put the case to him. It's not a with the bodies; probably their heads But this much was certain; somehow question of being a coward, or of being will be cut off, the carcasses divided- or other, he would have to get into that unpatriotic; it's a question of living and the whole lot burned. In any case, house and find out the worst. continuously under an intolerable neither of them must be traced; that Tiger had been killed, he would have shot . .! Sparisti!" he broke off, "it a sign over it which read; "Young and very full flared skirt. A wide sash the Pembroke visit of "Fourteen of the would be too stupid."

Greisner wasted no further time.

"I appreciate everything you say, my been selected for this grim task smiled It was whilst he was debating how

ORDERS TO SHOOT ON SIGHT

"Benny, my lad," said Tiger in an He sprang quickly to his feet. to our cellar cool!'

"I have my jobs to do, Mrs. Standish, the gagged butler with the same close stomach. and those who have put me in charge interest that a chef might have taken of this Department - and the men in in a turkey that he was about to put question include the Secretary of State in the oven, almost gave a cry in his manded hoarsely.

"You 'aven't gone nuts, 'ave you, have heard it." was the answer. guy'nor?" he managed to send back To "The Mole's" complete surprise,

"Certainly not! I never felt more present belligerent attitude, completely sane. That's why I'm telling you changed. we've got to get back to our beautiful "The very person I wanted to see! on working for you, whatever he may the door of the Council Chamber, "I your friend, Mr. Standish, and his ser- without attracting any notice. La- roll on their shoulders since the last groom's parents, where Mrs. Sorjonen mation that two murderers are being there," pointing towards the house.

"Blimey, it is, Benny. But you see intending to reserve judgment. "Due the point, I feel sure; if we aren't in to you, no doubt?" that cellar, then general confusion will The other shook his head. arise; nasty questions will be asked, a "No, Sir Harker," was his reply. rigorous search started and, as we don't admit that I had no good feelings toknow any way out of this hole except wards Mr. Standish-in fact, I'll go by doors which are guarded by electric further and say that in my own time, I rays, then the obvious course is to go intend to get my revenge on him for dog that has just come out of the wat- later proceedings. Believe me or not, ther demur. He had no wish to be shot tone, "but unless Standish is rescued either in a cellar or above ground, but from-" he shrugged, "well, perhaps he had sufficient faith in Tiger to I had better not mention any names, he know, now that he had recovered some- will very quickly be a dead man-" what from the first violent surprise, that Standish must have had a very his listener. good purpose in saying that he had?

just before the procession started out, the older man by the shoulder. pointing to the gagged butler. "Shall Tiger shook his head.

"Shoot a sitting bird, Benny?-for shame!" he expostulated. "No, put him he warned, "because this gun is quite ber of death-traps lying about. But, behind that screen -it's a chance, of likely to go off-and without any furagain exercising caution, he had been course, but then this seems to be our ther warning. As for your question, I the cellar, the results might not have cluded that by some mischance Stand-

Assassin and presenting every appear-

CHAPTER XVI

TWO SHOTS THEN SILENCE

inside the cellar.

A chorus of voices told him that the "The Mole" felt his heart threaten to manoeuvre was popular with his stop. Tiger dead! The thought was come to this house of his own free will. she would still condemn him as a mur-

The two Ronstadtian agents who had and charged jointly with the crime. | ed me!"

me—I can only tell you in reply that I and wormwood to them to have to take lamy's abnormally keen ears caught a torted the Caronian fiercely; "he told I saw an officer and I wondered if I am extremely sorry to have caused you orders from Carlimero; and, although suspicious sound. Still flat on his me back there just before I left that he they had been discreet at earlier meet-stomach, he turned to his left - and had had instructions to take Standish "It's easy enough for you to save ings in this house, they had longed there, coming round a corner of the over to Menke, and that he would start me that in the future," she had coun- passionately for the time when Herr house, he saw a man. The latter was his flight at midnight to-night. He's Greisner, their real chief, would come evidently intending to pass through the a liar! Directly my back was turned,

Giving the Ronstadtian national As the man drew nearer to him, Now you have the truth, Bellamy!" he woman who was happily married- salute, they started on their grisly com- Bellamy, in spite of the gloom, was able wound up. to recognize him. Carlimero!

he had complete confidence that the urgent whisper, "it's time we got back "Put your hands up, my friend!" he told. Certainly it bore some resemblsaid, urgently, thrusting the revolver he ance to it. Bannister, who had been watching held in the direction of the other's "Why did you allow Greisner to beat

> The Caronian started back. "Who the devil are you?" he de-

"My name is Bellamy - you may the other, instead of maintaining his cellar home. As the result of a further he said astoundingly. "I haven't time spell of listening-in," motioning towards now to tell you the whole story, but have just learned the interesting infor- vant, are being kept prisoners back blonde is a famous Egyptologist."

that same cellar, shoot us on sight, and could a fellow like Carlimero be exthen report back for further instruc- pected to play straight with a man he truth out of the speaker's lips. knew to be an enemy?

"Is that so?" Bellamy commented, having killed my father-but that time It was a severe test for Benny's loyal- is not yet. The reason I left that house ty, but, although he started shaking his a few minutes ago was becaus I absohead again much after the fashion of a lutely refused to take any part in the er following a swim, he raised no fur- Bellamy," he went on in a more urgent

Carlimero, even at the risk of being "But wot about 'im?" he inquired, shot, reached out a hand and caught

Bellamy shook himself free.

"Keep your hands off me, my friend, meant exactly what I said-I heard two side of which I have been watching for As the door swung inwards, Tiger some time, and, as I heard the voice of and brought him to the stone floor with Harker," replied Carlimero, whose eyes peated. His first impulse, of course, was to a resounding thud. He would have were gleaming like a cat's in the dark-

FRIENDS FOR A DAY

Bid Farewell to Departing Members of the Lions Club

Lieutenants Maurice Belanger and Ray Hughes Expect to be Called Soon .

Frank Boisvert and Colin Watkins. of the Schubert Choral Society, spoke to the Lions Club regarding an operetta the society intends to stage this fall, at the regular meeting of the serice organization in the Empire Hotel on Thursday evening. The support of F. H. Ball spoke on behalf of the members and said farewell to two members of the club, Lieutenants Maurice Belanger and Ray Hughes. Lieut. Belanger expects to be leaving ing Timmins when orders are received for the permanent company of the Algonquin Regiment to move to a central base Dr. Hughes has been accepted for the C. A. S F. Dental Corps and expects to be celled to report about the first of December.

Both Dr. Hughes and Lieutenant Be- Planning Farewell Party langer have long been active in the work of the Lions Club. Both men were among the original members of the club in Timmins and both have held offices in the club. Mr Bell said that the members of the club would there would be no outstanding interna- did; at any rate, that was what could said, "put on that man's mask and miss both men and miss the good work they had done.

several piano selections.

Vice-President Charles Yates.

Motors of Canada Limited intimated to day that their preparations to enter into the lower priced automobile field in the Fall are practically completed. Claus Anderson, General Sales Manager, confirmed reports that the Company has prepared a car for sale in the Ford, Chevrolet, and Plymouth price class. The new Nash will be larger than any of its rivals. When new car Canada, it will be accompanied by a heavy newspaper advertising cam-

Sudbury Star: A noted Sudbury gagame. The future of late has loomed so darkly in the crystal, she thought it a soldier." was an egg plant.

If ness: "but if they have already been every swine in the place rounded up means that Greisner had double-cross-

"Greisner! H'm!" "Yes, Greisner, the barbarian." re-

Bellamy did not reply for some seconds. He was busy thinking. this, after all, the truth that he had you in this way?" he probed. The other almost shrieked in his rage.

full of Ronstadtian agents-yes, you and took our photos. All the boys were dainty junior bridesmaid, making a ner and his men. There is a fool eall- our P. T. Instructor. ed Lablonde living there; he is crazymadness. He wants to become a mod- as we got our uniforms we never lost ern Pharaoh—the absurdity of it. And, a step. The sound of the boots coming cupine, acted as groomsman. as I have said, Greisner has humoured down together was good.

specially instructed to pay a visit to Was this a trick? It must be! How Bellamy, now convinced that, if through There are about 30 of us here from difno other cause, jealousy had forced the ferent places and we get along well roses. Later in the evening, a recep-

"So you were one against a crowd, eh?" he went on.

"Yes," with a fresh oath, "I stood alone! It may amuse you, Sir Harker, to know a little more of the truththere is not the harmony between my country and Ronstadt that the world thinks exists."

"Really! You surprise me," came the dry comment, "judging by what I read in your Press, you and Greisner should be in each other's arms. But now," breaking off and speaking seriously. "I have to get into this houseand it is you who will show me the

"Do you wish me killed?"

"No, I'm not exactly wanting you to be put away just yet," was the reply "but I'm certainly not going to permit "I'm afraid he's that now," broke in that chance to stop me doing my duty. Look here, Carlimero, I believe you've been telling me the truth--"

"I swear it!"

"Never mind about swearing it; what week:more or less convinces me is that I "Roy White, son of Percy White, and Eva Sorjonen, and Miss Mamie "Shot!" he retorted. "What do you already knew you and Greisner to be at Rouyn is one of Canada's new airmen Pellinen. logger-heads. Now, I have a suggestion | who made military headlines in Toronto make; will you for tonight only be a to this week by completing his 20-hour friend instead of an enemy?"

an attitude.

it!" he returned, "but for tonight only, at Dominion Skyways as an air engin You and I, Bellamy, can never be any- eer and having operated a private thing but enemies, because of the blood craft here for a couple of years. On that has been shed."

at the moment. It is an old British cuing several persons in the Albert's custom, Carlimero, and you, in your hotel fire here in November, 1938. superior way, may laugh at it-but we Shown with him in a news photo in will shake hands on it." And he held the Toronto Star this week was another out his hand.

'(To be Continued) '

BRIG.-GEN. C. H. MacLAREN

Brig.-General Charles Henry Mac-Laren, C.M.G., D.S.O., B.A., IT.B., of Ottawa, has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Bank of Nova Scotia, succeeding the late Mr Albert MacLaren.

this week for training quarters at Karl Sorjonen, son of Mr. and Mrs. North Bay, or elsewhere. At present Karl Sorjonen, of 78 Hollinger avenue, plans are under way for a farewell Timmins. The Rev. W. M. Mustard A guest was Billy Brown He played dance party for the company. The officiated. event will likely be held in the Hol- The fair bride, who was given in The chair was occupied by Second linger hall and will give friends oppor- marriage by her father, was very lovetunity to spend a pleasant evening with ly in a bridal gown of white silk net the soldiers before they leave.

Lower-Priced Auto Field Enjoying Life With Windsor, Ont., Aug. 17, 1940—Nash the Veterans' Home Guard at North Bay

Adapt Themselves to Life in the Army.

North Bay, Aug. 14th, 1940 To the Editor of

The Advance, Timmins. Dear Sir:-Captain Stirling asked us fellows when we left Timmins last Friday, not to let the old town down. We matching accessories. Her bouquet was sible help to eliminate Fifth column haven't. The boys were no sooner in uniform than they showed the truth of that old saying: "Once a soldier always Eva Sorjonen, sisters of the groom, and pressed their satisfaction (even to the Shaw, Laundry." I know Chinamen think that is Chinese.

my hand smartly to the salute; then I ies were in white, and her corsage was only Timmins newspaper read by my grounds and leave by the front gate. he told his men to murder Standish. discovered it was a policeman, so to made up of red roses.

> what was wron. He was as new at accessories, and a corsage of Talisman the game as we were. We had our neighbours visit us on Little Miss Merilyn Demmick, cousin may as well know it; this house has tickled. One big fellow in civilian pretty picture in a gown identical to been used as a meeting place for Greis- clothes sat down with us. He looks like that worn by the bride. She also wore We all march to town for meals and carried a colonial bouquet of mixed and they have taken advantage of his at first we could not keep step. As soon sweet peas.

war, but as soon as they are in the received the guests in a becoming en-"You needn't say any more," replied ranks they are as straight as ramrods.

Some of the drills are new but we are picking them up. There were three or four mistakes today and what did the Sergeant Major say? Not a word. He didn't get a chance. The boys jumped on the offenders right away. Do you know what that means? It means that the boys morning to honeymoon at points south are trying to have this platoon the smartest in the Vets Home Guards.

That is the spirit of the army. That men flocking back to the old flag. I remain

Yours most sincerely

A. J. DOLING

Young Men Pass Flying

The following of special local interest Kirkland Lake. is from the Rouyn-Noranda Press last flying test in three weeks of instruc-Thus appealed to, the Caronian struck tion at Brantford, Ont. Roy was by no means green at the game when he join-"On my mother's honour, I promise ed the R.C.A.F., having been employed leaving Skyways, he went to Mic-Mac "Very well! we're enemies-but not Mines in Bousquet. Roy figured in resformer northerner, E. L. (Ted) Archer, The Caronian immediately seized it. formerly of Hollinger Consolidated, "On my mother's honour," he re- Timmins. Without previous experience in the air, he had passed his 20-hour test in three weeks."

The Perfect Thirst Quencher

ICED TEA

Timmins United Church Manse the Scene of Lovely Wedding Saturday

Miss Ruth Clarice Koski and Mr. Karl Sorjonen Married. Buffet Lunch After Ceremony. Reception in Finnish Hall in the Evening. Couple Will Reside in Timmins.

was the scene of a lovely wedding on Timmins, having won the Lions Club Saturday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, Beauty Contest here in 1938; and takfor the Algonquin Regt. when Miss Ruth Clarice Koski, daugh- ing part at many musical presentations ter of Mr. Alfred Koski, of Sudbury, with contributions of vocal selections. It is expected that the Algonquin and Mrs. Mabel Baltimore, of Sault Regiment Active Service unit will leave Ste. Marie, became the bride of Mr. The Advance Has Always with silk cord, over taffeta. The gown puffed sleeves, and a full bodice falling mins Town Council (and Council's cur, charmingly attired in pale pink the proposed meeting.

I had a queer experience to-night, a corsage of red roses.

Miss Eva Sorjonen chose white crcould salute properly after all these gandy, with flowered motif, fashioned Editor informed me he would not pubwith short sleeves, shirred bodice and lish my second epistle because: it was This officer was talking to a civilian flared skirt, and featuring a shortand the civilian partly hid him. I raised sleeved bolero jacket. Here accessorcover my confusion I scratched my Miss Mamie Pellinen was attractively attired in pink taffeta, floor-length, Later all five of us were together and made on princess lines, with matching an officer came along and we all sal- bolero jacket, quaintly gathered at the uted together. He returned our salute waistline with wide quilted taffeta. She but he seemed quite confused. We knew wore a white picture hat and white

"Had I any choice? The place was Sunday and they came back on Monday of the bride, of Kirkland Lake, was the a veil similar to that of the bride, and Mr. George Nummela, of South Por-

Following the ceremony, a buffet Some of the boys have developed a lunch was served at the home of the semble of mauve crepe, with white tion was held at the Finnish hall, Fourth avenue, where the bride and groom received their numerous friends, and were the recipients of many lovely gifts and the best wishes of all who attended. A wedding supper was serv-

The bride and groom left on Sunday travelling by motor. For travel, the bride chose powder blue crepe, with white hat and accessories, and a white is the spirit which has brought the old three-quarter length coat. Upon their return they will take up residence in Timmins.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included the bride's father, Mr. Alfred Koski, of Haileybury; the groom's sister, Miss Kay Sorjonen, of Sudbury; the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Demmick, and daughter. Tests in Three Weeks little Miss Merilyn Demmick, all of Kirkland Lake, and Miss Toini Saari, of

> Prior to her marriage the popular bride was entertained by Misses Ann

The Timmins United Church manse | The bride is very well known in

Fair Deal for Loyal Men

104 Elm Street North, Timmins

The Editor of The Advance, Timmins. Dear Sir: Arising from the ash of featured a sweetheart neckline, short the application recently made to Tim-in folds to the long girdle waistline, rebuff to it) seeking use of council The skirt was full and flared, and the chambers, for a public meeting, the bride wore a long veil of embroidered writer desires to convey further appresilk net, caught to the head with a ciation to The Advance and you, Mr. coronet of orange blossoms. Long Editor. This added thanks is for the white lace gloves and white shoes com- generous use of valuable space given in pleted the ensemble, and she carried a The Advance for my "open" letter Old Soldiers Soon Learn to bouquet of red roses and Bouvardia. about the fickle attitude adopted by Miss Kay Sorjonen, sister of the the town clerk and the Council against groom, of Sudbury, was maid-of-hon- permitting use of council chambers for net over taffeta, flattered with rows of Some hundreds of loyal British Timblue print in the fitted bodice and full mins citizens hold the belief that such skirt. The neckline was square, the a meeting-had it been permittedsleeves were short and full, and she could have served mainfold patriotic wore a matching flowered hat and purposes. Not forgetting that of posmade up of sweet peas and red roses. elements (in the modern vocabulary) Bridesmaids were Misses Ann and from Canada's life. Many have ex-Miss Mamie Pellinen. Miss Ann Sor- writer) because The Advance afforded We are beginning to learn to know jonen wore a floor-length flowered en- space to publish the "open" letter. On North Bay pretty well and after supper semble, with white base and red and the other hand the Timmins Daily to-night I was wandering around and green flowers, fashioned with fitted Press refused to publish an "open" let-I dropped across a laundry which had bodice, puffed sleeves, round neckline, ter commenting on its news covering was caught in a large bow at the front, most prominent citizens" of Timmins. have funny names, but somehow I can't and tiny matching bows adorned the The Press Editor told me of contents in gown. She wore white accessories and my letter that would require censoring. After re-writing the subject-matter and deleting the objectionable contents the

"on the same subject." Now, the "Net Profit and Loss:" the relatives and friends—even beyond Timmins-is The Porcupine Advance. All say they appreciate so much your Editor's "open" letter column. And the other exchange of correspondence recently published on behalf of a Tim-min's organization. Let's not forget the extensive meaning in the divine application of British

> Yours very sincerely WILLIAM STEWART

Toronto Telegram: Oh, for the good old days when Public Enemy No. 1 wasn't trying to conquer the world.

Don't Delay

your close work without strain-then you should at once have an eye-sight examination, to find what you need in order to give you normal comfortable vision once more.

Let us help you.

REMUS OPTICAL DEPT.

J. M. WATERMAN, R.O.-Eyesight Specialist 17 PINE STREET NORTH

PHONE 190