

AT THE LOCAL THEATRES

IT'S TRUE! By Wiley Padan

SPENCER TRACY
REFUSED TO ACCEPT THE EDICT THAT HE WAS "THROUGH" ONLY A FEW YEARS AGO. THEN CAME "SAN FRANCISCO"... "CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS" (THE ACADEMY AWARD)... "BOYS TOWN"... AND NOW HE IS TEAMED WITH THE EXOTIC HEDY LAMARR... M-G-M'S "I TAKE THIS WOMAN."

HEDY LAMARR
OWNED 17 DOGS WHEN SHE LIVED IN EUROPE! SHE IS AN EXCELLENT RIFLE MARKSMAN!

VERREE TEASDALE (Mrs. ADOLPHE MENJOU) WAS BORN IN SPOKANE, WASHINGTON.

LEO

New York, N.Y.—"IT'S TRUE!" that Spencer Tracy sent his first fan letter recently from the "I Take This Woman" set at Metro-Goldwyn Mayer studios," says Wiley Padan. "The letter, a cable, was addressed to Robert Benat in London, Eng., congratulating him on his performance in "The Citadel." "I Take This Woman" is playing at the Palace Theatre on Sunday Midnight, Monday and Tuesday, August 25, 26 and 27.

When the production department received copies of the script. Within five minutes, the phones in the office of Ruth Burch, Roach's production assistant, began ringing madly.

"Where," the costume department demanded, "are we going to find opera pumps for Sally, size 11?" Sally is the wife, and in her last picture, Carole Landis' shoes had been no larger than size 4 1/2.

Before Ruth could compose an answer, "wee" Mary Bernard, the bantam Scotchwoman who was speaking for the entire, frantic wardrobe department got on the phone.

"Listen, pardner," said "Wee" Mary. (Everyone on the lot, from Roach down to "pardner" to Mary). "Accordin' to my calculations, and your script, Carole has grown eight inches in six weeks. Is this one of your Hollywood rrrribs?"

Roach, who was directing the picture, stepped into the breach. "It's all very simple," he explained. "You see when Tim turns into Sally, he's still Tim, but he's really Sally. . . . What I mean is, when Sally changes into Tim, she's still Sally but she's really John Hubbard."

The veteran of over 300 pictures began to get a hunted look in his eye. Tearing open his collar, and making one last determined effort to sound sane, he shouted, "Tim is Sally and Sally is Tim, but in the script, Sally is still Sally and. . . ."
