Red Cross Official Well Pleased With Work Of Porcupine Branches

Dr. Caldwell Explains to Timmins Red Cross Executive Why the Red Cross Desires to Conduct Separate Campaign for Funds. Work of Red Cross for Prisoners in Germany.

When Dr. Caldwell, of Toronto, visited the Camp last week he met and interviewed the executive of the three Red Cross Branches in the Porcupine district. In speaking to the executive of the Timmins branch Dr. Caldwell dwelt on certain points and phases of Red Cross work. One of the principal points which he discussed was the recent decision of the officials of the Canadian Red Cross Society with regard to the National War Charities Fund. Red Cross is essentially an organization to take care of emergencies in peace time as well as in war time. It serves as an auxiliary to the government, and it holds itself ready to give immediate assistance whenever and in whatever way the government may ask it to do so. This may be in time of earthquakes, fire, flood, general epidemic or during the greatest of all national disasters. Since it is impossible to foresee what the needs are to be or how extensive they might prove, the Red Cross cannot arrange a budget for any given time. Because of its very nature and its purpose the Canadian Red Cross felt that it could serve more effectively and promptly if it were allowed to hold its campaign for funds separately from other organizations.

This year at the request of the British Government some of these funds will go to the purchase of the 10,000 boxes of food to be sent weekly to the British and Canadian prisoners of war in Germany. In each of these boxes is an acknowledgement card which the men are allowed to sign and which is returned to the Red Cross headquarters. Ninety per cent of these cards do come back, and thousands of the signatures have been identified by friends or relatives. Aside from this proof an attaché of the American Embassy in Germany stands guard for us. He is allowed to visit and inspect the

Saturday Poppy Day In Timmins

Taggers to Meet at Legion Hall To-morrow Night.

Saturday of this week, Nov. 9th, is Poppy Day in Timmins, and it is hoped that everyone will buy and wear a poppy on Saturday and on Monday, Nov. 11th, Remembrance Day.

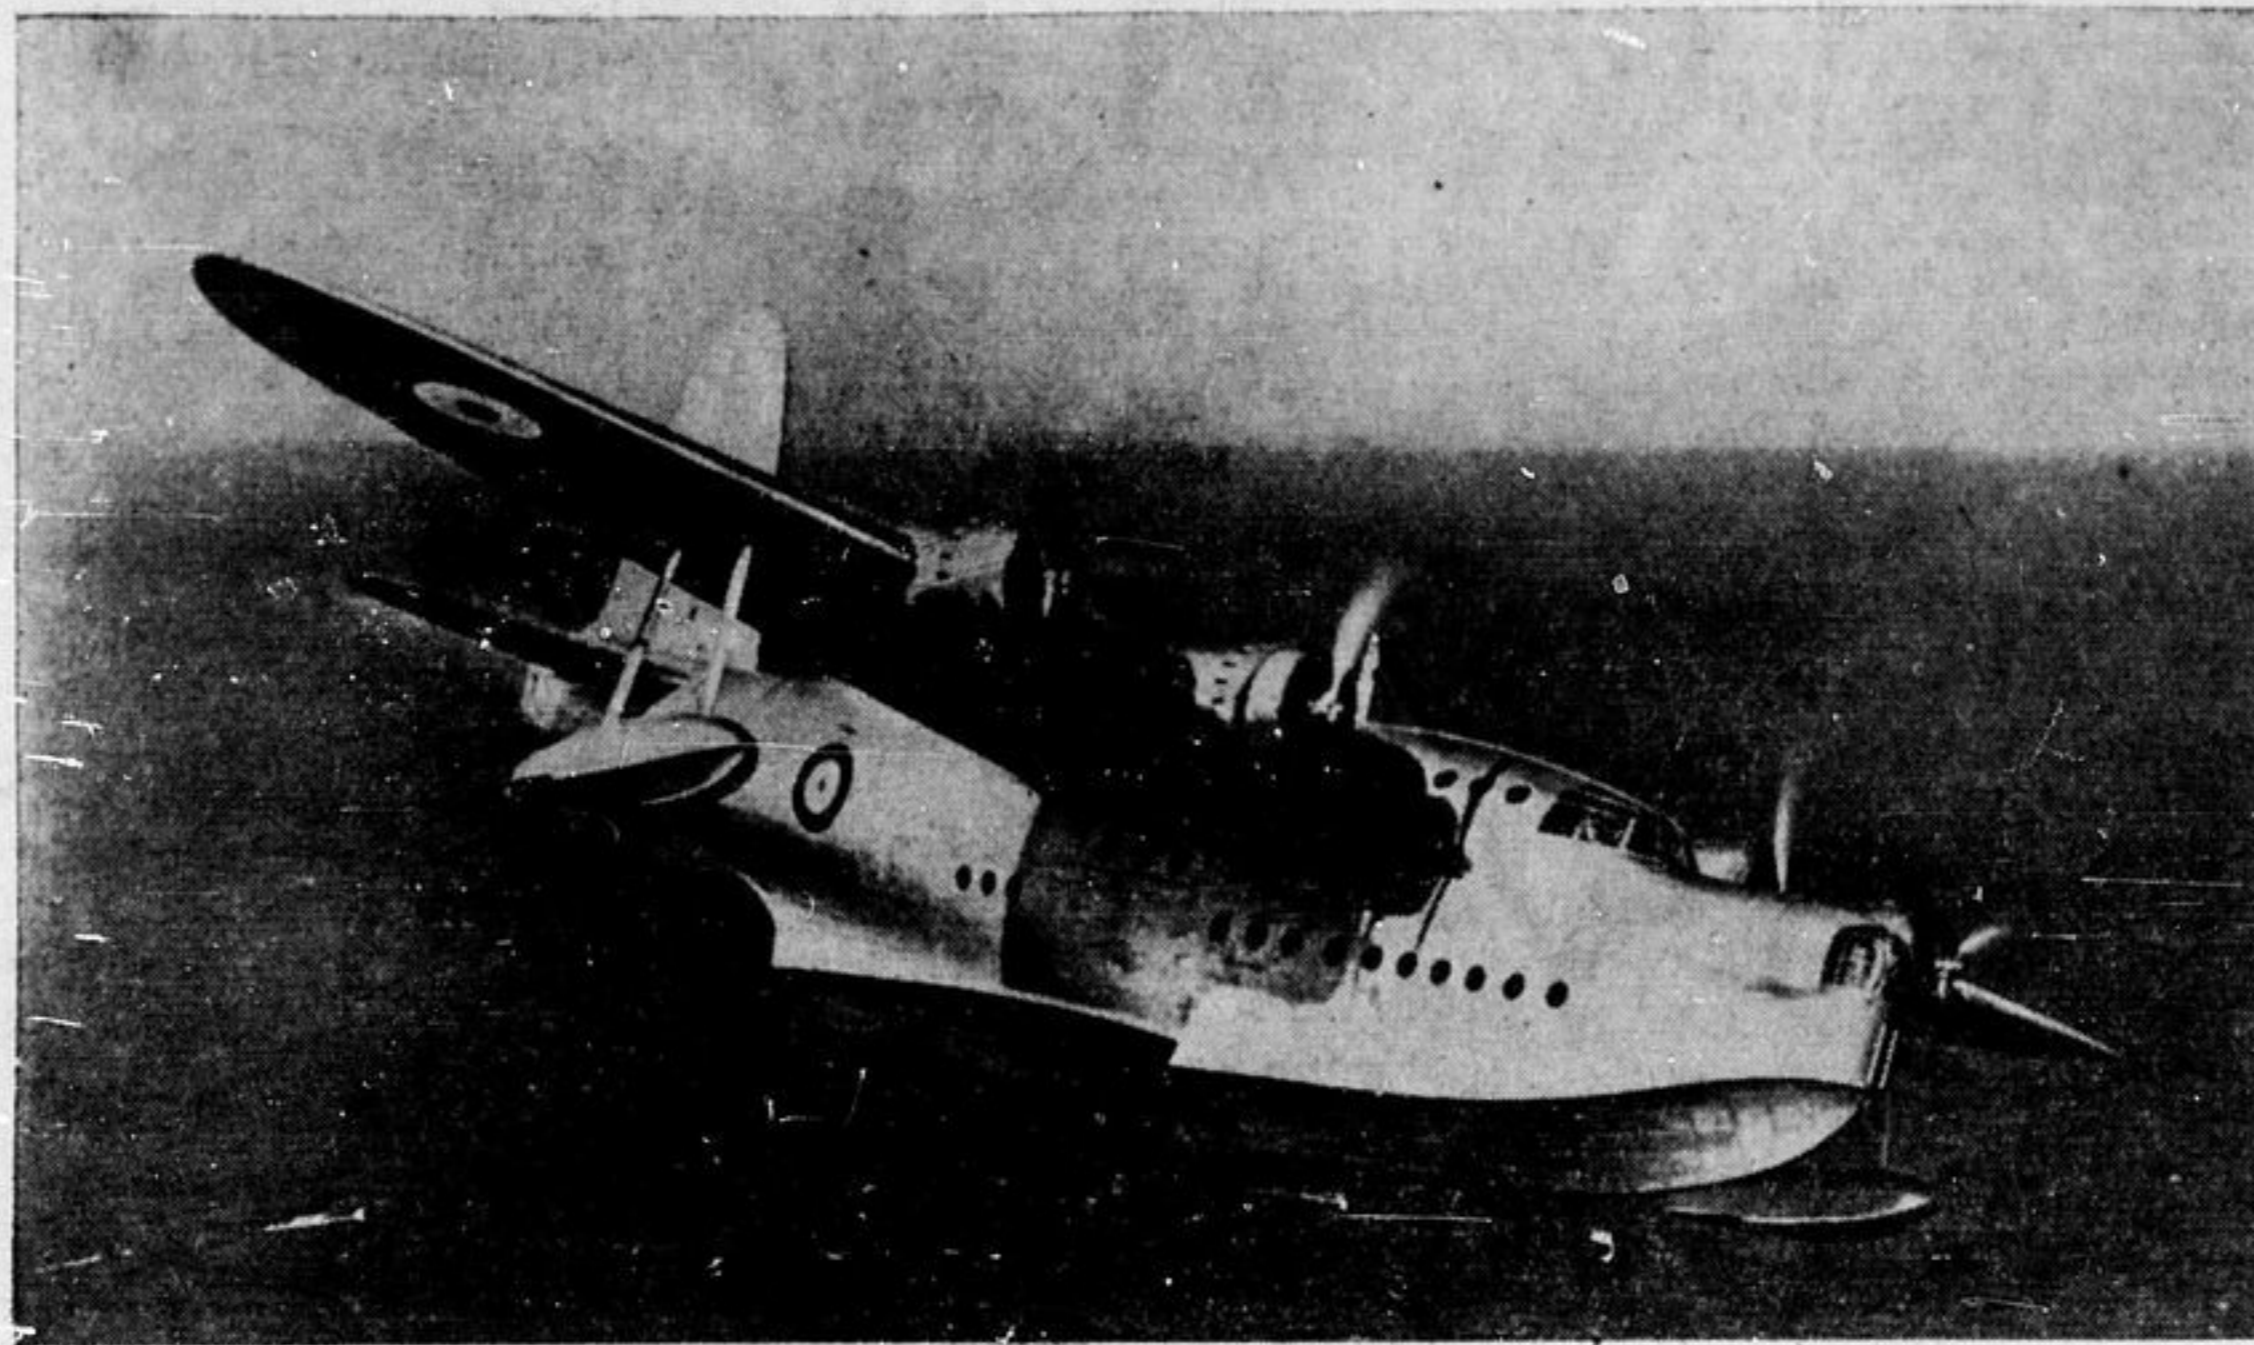

The profits from the sale of poppies goes to the Legion relief fund to help not only the soldiers of the last war and their dependents when in need but also those of the present war, the Legion having taken over the assistance of the soldiers of to-day, as well as those of the conflict of 1914-1918. It is easy to see that the calls upon the Legion now are greater than ever, so it is hoped, and expected, that there will be a record sale of poppies. To this end more people will have to buy more poppies and pay more for them. The poppies will be on sale here on Saturday and on Monday morning. Watch for the taggers! Buy a Poppy! Wear a poppy!

The Advance understands that the young ladies of the Junior Red Cross will be among the groups of taggers for the sale of poppies this year. All those volunteering to assist in the selling of the poppies are asked to meet at the Legion hall on Friday evening at 7.30.

Timmins Would be A Good Name for One of The New Canadian Ships

Plan That Honours Cobalt Might be Extended to This Gold Camp.

In view of the fact that one of the new ships built for the Royal Canadian Navy is to be named "Cobalt" in honour of "the best old town," The Advance asked Mayor Emile Brunette if any word had been received from the Government suggesting any similar honour for Timmins.

"No! We have heard nothing about it," replied the mayor, "but it looks like a good idea. I'm in favour of it. There are a number of Timmins boys serving in the Canadian Navy and the people of Timmins have always taken great interest in the Navy. Like other gold camps, Timmins has done its part—and a very important part—in Canada's war effort. I am sure that the people of Timmins would feel honoured in having one of the new ships bear the name of this town and its founder, and the people here would be greatly interested in the comfort and welfare of the crew of any ship that bore the honoured name of Timmins."

As Mayor Brunette suggests, it is a good idea all around. If the naval authorities need a distinctive name for one of the new vessels, "Timmins" would be a good one for the purpose. Mr. Jos. A. Bradette, M.P., might make a note of the suggestion.

Corvette of Canadian Navy to be Named in Honour of Cobalt

Cobalt Red Cross Plans to "Adopt" Crew.

Some days ago the council of the town of Cobalt received word that one of the new ships being constructed for the Canadian Navy and soon to be launched will be named "Cobalt" in honour of the famous Northern town or that name—"the best old town". Lieutenant Commander R. B. Campbell, R. C. N. R., invited the council to visit and inspect the ship. The municipality of Cobalt is planning for some form of presentation to the ship. In addition the Cobalt Red Cross has under consideration the thought of taking the crew of H. M. C. S. Cobalt under their particular care.

It is understood that the naval vessel is on e of the corvette type, many of which are being constructed for the Royal Canadian Navy to be used as submarine chasers and mine sweepers.

Epidemic of Pipe and Chimney Fires Follows Snowfall

House Proprietor Leaves Pan Grease on Hot Stove. Fire Follows.

The arrival of snow must have convinced Timmins people that they had to fire in earnest. In any event there were four pipe and chimney fires yesterday within a short space of time.

First was at 120 Commercial at 6.50 a.m. Next call came at 9.37 a.m. and was to 107 Mountjoy Street for a pipe fire. At 9.45 a.m. there was a call to the corner of Pine and Third Avenue and at 12.50 p.m. another chimney fire drew firemen out.

On Tuesday at 2.40 p.m. the most serious fire of the week occurred at the home of Michael Kovick, 453 Spruce Street south. A pan of grease was left on an electric stove. The proprietor of the house forgot to turn off the element in the stove and before long the pan was flaming. Damage was not great and the fire was extinguished with chemicals.

At 12.55 p.m. the house at 44 Toke Street was filled with smoke from a chimney fire but damage was otherwise slight. On Monday at 5.54 p.m. firemen were called to 206 Elm Street south, to a chimney fire.

157 Miles Trans-Canada Highway to be Completed

At the present time there is only the small strip of 157 miles to be completed to provide for a continuous highway from one coast to another, all through Canadian territory. At the present time the value of a completely Canadian highway from one end of Canada is much to be desired. War-time is ideal time to complete public works as important as the Trans-Canada highway. Consequently, very strong representations are being made to the Canadian and Provincial governments to speed up the completion of the proposed all-Canada highway. The highway still to be completed is between Geraldton and Lisias.
