THE BRAVE MAN

A bright little girl, aged 4, and her brother, aged 6, were spending the night with their aunt asked how they said their prayers. The little girl answered:
 "Sometimes I say them on mummy's knees and sometimes to the side of the bed."
 "And how about you, little boy?"
 "Oh, I don't need to pray, I sleep with daddy." —Exchange.

PLEASANT HOMES

THE AMERICAN WAY OF CHRISTMAS GIVING

Gifts of Beauty, Entertainment, Time, Music and Hospitality—Expressed in Tangible Ways.

No grander gift is there for the home at Christmas time than an electric organ—for carol singing during the holidays as well as for music the year 'round. Consider this for the big family gift this year.

We have a few reproving remarks for those who regard gift-giving as a painful duty. For gifts are not only symbolic of the day, but they are symbolic particularly of the privilege of being an American. We live in a land of plenty, and so it is fitting that our Christmas should be an occasion of sharing this abundance. For the American Christmas is much more than a matter of charming customs—more even than simply a religious festival, since Americans of all faiths, many of them non-Christians, join in the golden egg! But don't give things—give ideas and good wishes... give beauty and time and graciousness and fun... expressed in the tangible objects. Suggestions for such gifts we make here—but we hope we will accomplish more than that. We hope we will help inspire you to share in some of the old dear glamour of the Christmas season in that most affectionately American institution, the department store. For it was developed in the new world—the big stores of the other countries glittering crystal girandoles, the poised and aristocratic Williamsburg furniture, the frivolous looking yet curiously useful porcelain inkstands, the sparkling heavy crystal ash trays, the scintillating big mirrors, the elegant leather portfolios and book ends.

Gifts of Entertainment
 New games are included here—circle gammon seems to be making the biggest hit because it's a version of backgammon that more than two can play. Tris-Trac is a new notion, while dominoes are so old that they're new again. Backgammon and Chinese checkers continue to while away pleasant hours, though bridge remains the official national pastime. All of these favorite games are available in gift editions, to say nothing of the game accessories they suggest for Christmas giving—tables, lamps, smoking things, refreshment covers, score pad books and card boxes. The most ingenious of the smoking novelties is a cigarette valet—a box that you plug into the electric socket; when you open the box it produces a lighted cigarette ready to smoke.

Pictured here is a grouping of several gifts that would be very welcome indeed to the home-maker—a handsome screen, one or a pair of upholstered armless chairs, a spacious low table, a fine lamp.

the celebration and capture some of its special beauty. Our Christmas, like our race, has been blended from many sources until it is now something essentially native, a part of our culture and as closely woven into our national philosophy as democracy and freedom. Like them it involves social responsibility and our relationships with others. In a broader sense, it becomes almost sacrilege to speak disparagingly of gift-giving and of the mad orgy of buying. For not only are we buying things to give but, more important even, we are making work, putting our money in circulation. The American way of gift-giving becomes then a social privilege, an obligation we'd do well to assume with humility. It is probably the only way we will be able to keep the good things of this new world—by giving them away.

patterned after ours, for both Europe and Asia are traditionally lands of small shops.)

Gifts of Music
 For pure delight, probably no home gift could compete with a gift of music, whether it's a hand-picked package of records or an electric organ. Think also of a portable victrola or a traveling radio, as well as that magnificent Beautiful silver is a classic gift for Christmas giving. Pictured here are a pair of candelabra and an urn that any home-maker would bless you for.

Santa Says...

YOU NEED YOUR DAILY QUOTA OF MILK MORE THAN EVER NOW!

Under the strain of Christmas shopping you're easily liable to forget meals or just skip one in the rush. That's why it's important that you drink MORE milk at every meal and get that extra energy milk can give you and the protection that you need in this trying time.

instrument that combines radio and phonograph. The perfect family gift is a piano, especially one of the new smaller pianos that fit so easily into modern homes.

Red Cross funds are not audited. The truth is that the Red Cross is the most thoroughly audited society in the Dominion.

Gifts of Hospitality
 We're putting a truly sumptuous casserole first on this list—for special party dishes. And next a large silver server with a well-and-tree platter in the centre and two vegetable compartments on either side—so that the entire main course can be graciously served from one platter. A double entrée dish of silver with a hot water compartment below will be a joy forever—for bright breakfasts or amusing buffets. A silver coffee service is an elegance, though a glass coffee server costs less and probably will serve a finer cup of coffee. This year a gift of fine English china is a gallant gesture, partly because it patronizes a worthy industry, partly because it may not always be available. Fine linens may be very scarce in months to come and so such a gift would be doubly welcome—whether it's a regal set of table damask or a dozen sociable napkins for tea or lunch. Lovely laces for the table may also be rare if the war continues to spread, and so doilies sets of hand lace have great gift importance this year. Luxurious household linens, such as monogrammed sheets and towels, in gay wall papered boxes, are fastidious gifts.

Falsehoods about the Red Cross are invented by malicious enemies to shut the gates of mercy and impede the war effort.

Effective Reply to the Slanders on Red Cross
 (Editorial reprinted from The Globe and Mail.)
 Few organizations in Canada have been more severely criticized by whisperers than the Canadian Red Cross Society. No sooner is one lie exposed than a second is invented and given wings. The latest fiction about this patriotic organization is that the chairman and the secretary are drawing fabulous salaries. The sole purpose of these untruths is to hamper the Red Cross in its humanitarian work.
 It has been whispered around that Dr. Routley receives a salary of $17,000 or more per annum. The Globe and Mail has reason to know that this is utterly false; the fact is that the combined salaries of the national commissioner (Dr. Routley), the assistant national commissioner and their secretaries (both highly trained young women) total only $13,600. Moreover, Dr. Routley gave up a private practice which yielded him more than double his present salary to take on the Red Cross work.
 Neither the chairman nor any other person on the national executive receives any remuneration. The same applies to the patriotic and distinguished men and women who are devoting time and talents to the direction of this great organization.
 It has been said in criticism that

Spode's
 Billingsley Rose

The lucky daintiness of the jewel shape has a special appeal. Arabesque in style—the rose painted in centre gives it an English feeling.
 Combined with the rich, creamy colour of the ware, the whole is a pattern of rare beauty.
 As a gift it will long be treasured. Can always be added to or filled in. A Spode pattern is never discontinued. See other charming Spode patterns at—
