

School and Home Must Act Together for the Best Progress in Education

Mrs. Silcox, Ontario President of Canadian National Federation of Home and School Outlines to Timmins Audience the Aims and Purposes of the Association.

"It has been found that the school cannot operate alone unrelated to the home from which the child comes or the community into which the child must fit himself in later life," said Mrs. A. B. Silcox, Ontario president of the Canadian National Federation of Home and School, in addressing an interested gathering of teachers and parents at the Central School on Monday evening.

Mrs. Silcox has been associated with the work of the Federation since 1925, and has been very active on the Educational Committee.

In her talk, Mrs. Silcox outlined the organization of the Home and School Clubs. She said that the Canadian National Federation heads, unites and unifies the work of all provincial federations; that the provincial federations unify all local units in each province; and that the local federation is a unit made up of parents and teachers. In Ontario, there are four hundred and thirty Home and School Clubs, with a membership of 27,000 citizens.

The International Federation is made up of all national organizations, and represents twenty-three countries. The Canadian Federation is closely allied with the Parent-Teacher Association in the United States.

The Canadian National Federation prescribes a course which must be followed by the local clubs, in order that they may adapt their methods to that of the senior club. The Home and School Federation has four major aims: to promote co-operation with the school; to promote understanding of the systems of education; to promote parent education; and the creation of public opinion to favour education.

The seven-point programme consists of: (1) Health—health and nutrition; (2) Home—relationships, conditions; (3) Living together in a family—the study of education in the home; (4) Citizenship; (5) Recreation; (6) Vocational Effectiveness; (7) Character study.

There must be co-operation of home, school, and community, said Mrs. Silcox, and to meet this need no organization is better adapted than the Home and School Federation. She stressed the fact that it is important to remember that any organization will be of value only as it meets the needs of its particular community, and attacks the problems of vital interest to the children of local schools and of the neighbourhood.

Another important point mentioned by Mrs. Silcox was that the child must lead a normal life, even in times of stress like the present.

Mrs. A. A. Rose acted as chairman and introduced the speaker, emphasizing the fact that the parents of to-day face a great responsibility in training their children to lead useful and successful lives, when the parents cannot anticipate what life will demand of their children.

Following the address by the guest speaker, a committee was formed to study the material which had been presented by Mrs. Silcox. Mrs. A. A. Rose was elected chairman, and other members were Mrs. Roy Dunbar, Mrs. F. Burt, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Redder, Mr. Transom (principal), and three members of the Central Public School staff. A general meeting will be held in the near future, the committee meanwhile meeting to discuss plans.

GROWING CORVETTE FLEET IS CANADA'S ANSWER TO U-BOAT WAR

Britain hopes the corvette will supply the answer to Hitler's fleet of U-Boats. Small, and very quick to build, the vessel is deadly with depth charges which submarines dread most. Upsetting to a landsman would be these seamen's choice of a place to rest (Left). There's not much space for movement aboard these compact little vessels, so they're relaxing on a row of depth charges. A vessel on the convoy's flank reports a glimpse of what might be a submarine's periscope. The corvette dashes to the suspected area while crewman rush to man this four-inch gun (Right)

Gets Year in Jail for Illegal Possession of Gold Watch and Knife

Joseph Lawrence Grenier Gets Sentences of Six Months Each on Two Counts. Number of Remands.

Joseph Lawrence Grenier 69 Fifth Avenue, pleaded not guilty to two charges of being in possession of stolen goods knowing them to be stolen, but after hearing the evidence in police court on Tuesday, Magistrate Atkinson sent him down for six months on each charge, the terms to run consecutively.

He was charged with being in possession of a gold watch, the property of Nick Sarafinchen, and a pearl-handled knife, the property of Bill Stefanuk.

Sarafinchen said that he had left his watch in his room and that some person had entered his room and taken it. When he noticed that it was gone he had notified the landlord and the landlord told him to tell the police about it.

Constable Thompson said that he had searched the room occupied by Grenier and had found the watch and a knife. The knife had later been identified as belonging to Bill Stefanuk.

In his own defence Grenier said that he had found the watch on top of the dresser in his room and had found the knife in the hallway. He had intended to keep them, he said, if no one showed up to claim them. His record was then read by the Magistrate and he said that some of it was right.

Bill Stefanuk then identified the knife as his and said that he had lost it on the previous Sunday.

Magistrate Atkinson then sentenced Grenier to six months on each charge with the terms to run consecutively.

R. Bannino, who was charged with having failed to re-register two revolvers in 1939, had his case adjourned till called upon. The two revolvers were ordered held till after the war.

Constable Guolla said that he had called on Bannino and had found two revolvers that had been registered in 1934 but that had not been re-registered. He then had the charges laid.

Bannino in his own defence said that he had registered the revolvers in 1934 and that in 1939 he had registered two hunting rifles. Had he understood that he had to re-register the revolvers he could have just as easily done that again. He had the registration slips in court and explained that he thought he had done nothing wrong. The magistrate asked him when he had been naturalized and he told him that he had taken out his naturalization papers in 1912.

Illegal Possession of Gold Refining Tools Brings Heavy Sentence

Luigi Anfuso Convicted and Assessed $500 or Three Months. Equipment Ordered Confiscated.

Luigi Anfuso was fined $500 and stayed there for some time though and it was not till last year that he was convicted of illegally being in possession of gold refining equipment. The charge was laid by the provincial police "Gold Squad" and was heard before Magistrate S. Atkinson.

A large quantity of evidence was introduced in court as to the illegal equipment which consisted of several crucibles, some small weights, and scales. Mr. Mason, Dome assayer, had examined the crucibles and swore that scrapings taken from them indicated the presence of gold and that they had been used recently. A small screen that was among them had been used to screen borax, he said, and a bottle that had been given to him had contained nitric acid. Mr. Mason explained that nitric acid was very often used by anyone testing gold to see if it was pure. The diamond scales were in fair condition and they were fairly accurate.

Constable H. L. Thompson of the provincial police "gold squad" testified that he had found all that equipment in a raid on a shack in Ogden township on February 3rd. He had been accompanied on the raid by Constable Brancy of the "gold squad" and Constable Stromberg of the provincial police. The equipment, he said, had been hidden in the wall of the attic in the shack.

The shack had been under observation for several months before that and on a previous trip he had found a forge and some leather gloves and a set of tongs.

Constable Brancy gave similar evidence, adding that he had found a couple of bags of coke down in the basement, and that Anfuso had admitted ownership of them. He also said that Anfuso had met him on the street one day and had given him a lot of deeds and papers trying to prove that he owned the property.

Constable Stromberg said that he had been out to the place and had taken away a rifle that he found loaded under the mattress of a bed. Some time later he said he went out again when Anfuso had asked him to put a man off the property. Anfuso claimed that the man was supposed to be working for him but that he would do no work and was just staying there and eating Anfuso's food.

Anfuso gave his evidence through an interpreter and said that he had held no interest in the property since a charge of attempted forgery and was remanded till next week. Chief of Police Leo H. Gagnon said that an investigation is going on in that case and he wanted a remand.

May Bazinet alias May Henri was charged with wilful damage, breaking a mail box that belonged to her neighbour and was convicted. The mail box was only worth 85 cents but the magistrate imposed a fine of $5 with eleven dollars costs and also eighty-five cents to replace the broken box, making it an expensive mail box for the defendant.

Thomas Charron and Mary Durocher accused of distributing illegal pamphlets, were remanded till next week. The pamphlets were said to be in connection with the "Witnesses of Jehovah."

George A. Cote, charged under the Medical Act with having signs not according to law in his business establishment, was remanded for a week.

Nick Pedoruk and Donat Moncion, both charged with illegal possession of gold ore were also remanded for a week. Peter Pelletier pleaded not guilty to

$100 and Costs for Illegal Possession

John Dubeau, Bannerman Avenue, Fined and House Declared Public for One Year.

John Dubeau, 5 Bannerman avenue, was convicted in police court on Tuesday of illegal possession of beer and was fined $100 and costs or 30 days. The house at 5 Bannerman was declared public for one year.

Constable Gariepy said that he had conducted a raid on the place on Monday night and found two people in there drinking. During the search he found a part case of beer and an almost full bottle of liquor. He then asked Dubeau if there was any more to drink in the house and Dubeau said that there wasn't. He continued to search and found a couple more cases of a different brand of beer.

Brewery Warehouse receipts were produced showing that the beer had been bought in other people's names. Constable Gariepy said that the place had a reputation as a "blindpig."

Magistrate Atkinson then passed sentence and declared the place public for one year.

Two common, ordinary drunks were given the usual ten and costs or thirty days and two more were remanded till next week.
