War Services Fund At $3,414,253 in First Twelve Days

No Doubt of Going Over the Top if All Continue Their Efforts.

Toronto, April 9.—I wish to address a renewed earnest appeal to the Canadian people and to the working members and canvassers belonging to our organization all over Canada," declared General A. D. McRae, National Chairman of the Canadian War Services Fund in a statement at noon today. "On March 24th after a period of intensive preparation we asked Canadians to subscribe $5,500,000 for this Fund," he continued.

"As of Saturday noon, April 5th, we had collected in money and firm pledges, $3,414,253. These, it should be made plain, are the audited figures reported to headquarters.

"This is a marvellous showing for a period of twelve days' actual canvassing. In drives of this sort the audited figures do not represent the full extent of contributions and pledges made. Inevitably it means that there are many more thousands of dollars pledged to or in the hands of local and provincial committees and not yet nationally reported. Our showing is so very encouraging that now I ask our canvassers to renew their efforts, that they go forward with redoubled vigour, because all we need to push our great enterprise over the top is a whirlwind finish.

"The average dollar-amount of individual subscriptions is high; the number of people actually canvassed in many areas is mighty far from 100 per cent. There are very few people who do not actually want to contribute to this Fund. In many areas, by reason of weather and snow-bound roads, canvassing has not been developed to the full. Given a complete canvass this Fund will go well over its objective. I wish to make this final appeal. There will be no difficulty in reaching the objective if our canvassers will take a new toe-hold and go again to work. This is no reflection on the great work they have done; but with the goal so short a distance ahead and so easy of attainment if everybody does his and her part, I say to each canvasser who has not yet called on every household and every individual in his territory, 'Let us get busy and finish the work.'

"Wherever canvassers have called they have found that through our newspaper publicity and the radio, the motion pictures and posters and through the great effort of the churches, Canadians have been well informed and are exceptionally responsive to this Fund and its purposes. "As Mr. Churchill has said: 'Let us then to the task.' The goal is only a little distance ahead—come on and let's put it over."

Very Rev. S. W. Sawshuk, Head of the Ukrainian Church in Canada, Guest Speaker.

The guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon on Monday was the Very Rev. S. W. Sawshuk, B.A., head of the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church in Canada. He was introduced by Dr. Peter Wenger and thanked on behalf of the club by Kiwanian Dan Masgloff. His address was so important that a more extended report will be given in Monday's Advance.

Jack Miner, Noted Canadian Naturalist, Marks 76th Birthday

Poor in Money, but Rich in Friends, Jack Miner Carries On.

Kingsville, Ont., April 10—Sitting in his home at Kingsville, Ontario today, Jack Miner is and has been receiving congratulatory messages for the last week as today is his seventy-sixth birthday.

Surrounded by several newspaper reporters and photographers, he said: "The biggest bank account I ever had was an overdrawn one. The bankers have carried me all my life so no doubt they would like to be my pallbearers and be glad to carry me the rest of the way."

He said four things constituted his life: Children, flowers, birds and music, the greatest being children. "Were it not for these four things about me, I would have no desire to carry on," he stated.

"When I die I will die a poor man financially, but rich in friends. Some men can count their money, but I cannot count my friends."

Pays Tribute to Friends
"Were it not for my friends I could not have carried on and my bird sanctuary would not have been such a success. I am now referring to my wealthy friends who have helped me

Net earnings $2,398,390.19
12 months ending February 29, 1941

There have been no major developments nor additions of Mining customers during the past quarter, conditions at the Mines having become stabilized, though at a number of properties additional equipment is being installed, increasing the power demand.

Receipts from the sale of current, for domestic and commercial customers have also increased, but the gain in these earnings has been more than offset by the sharp rise in taxation. The transformer capacity at Malartic Substation in Northern Quebec is being increased by the installation of three 1,000 k.v.a. transformers, which have been transferred from other points.

financially, the newspaper editors who have so whole-heartedly backed me up and caused others to create bird sanctuaries, and the radio that equally has given me its support in making the needs of this place known."

"My best friends are those who know my faults and still love me."

Speaking of the bird sanctuary system of protecting birds, he said: "A bird sanctuary takes nothing from any one. On the contrary, it increases the chances of the 90 per cent. who do not shoot, of seeing a bird alive. It increases the hunter's chances of getting a full game bag, not only for his generation, but for generations to come."

Among the honors to come to Jack Miner in 1941 is the one he pres of the land having proclaimed him "the best known citizen in Canada and the fifth best known in the U.S.A."

Mr. D. Leo Dolan, chairman of the Dominion Publicity Bureau has proclaimed him a "National Benefactor."

Although he is celebrating his 76th birthday today, yet he was recently made president of the Essex County Tourist Association. In this capacity he is giving his time and influence in trying to bring citizens of the United States into Canada with their United States money at a time when this Dominion so badly needs it.
