

Churchill Blanks Hollinger Bombers 7-0

McIntyre Beats Hollinger Badly in Friday's Game at the Hollinger Ball Park

Macs Give Churchill Seven Run Lead and the Lanky McIntyre Hurler Holds the Bombers Scoreless. Hollinger Uses Three Hurlers in Desperate Effort to Stop Macs.

Behind the solid four-hit pitching of lanky Bob Churchill, the McIntyre baseball club, cut Barton's bombers all into ribbons and scattered the remnants to the four winds, on Friday afternoon when they met in the scheduled third game at the Hollinger Park. The win by a convincing 7-0 count, sent the Macs to the top of the heap.

McIntyre fielded one of the strongest clubs that they have had for some time on Friday. The McIntyre club backed up Bobby Churchill's fine hurling with an errorless game and smashed out nine hits to get their seven runs. Hollinger was handcuffed all the way through the game and only in one inning did they give the Macs a scare. That was in the seventh when they loaded the sacks with one out and then folded up.

Claude Zachary's long home run in the second inning was enough margin for Churchill to work on, but the Macs went out and gave him four more runs in the next stanza. Two more outfielders in the seventh spelled disaster for the Hollinger.

First Inning
McIntyre started out strong right at the start of the game when Oulmet batting lead-off got on first when Barton handled the throw badly. Babe Laplante sacrificed Oulmet to second and Eddie Dunn fanned. Wilson was hit by Avery and was sent to first and on a passed ball Oulmet advanced to third while Wilson went to second. Richardson was thrown out short to first to choke off the McIntyre threat.

First two Hollinger men up were thrown out at first then Chase was given first base when he was hit by Churchill. Barton singled to right field and Chase scampered down to third on the play. Tennant filed out to Dunn in deep centre.

Second Inning
Thayer fanned to start the inning and then Claude Zachary pulled out a long homer between centre and left field. The ball just seemed to keep soaring up till it got past both fielders and then settled down near the bleachers. Schledewitz singled to left field and on a wild pitch he went to second. Bob Churchill fanned and then Oulmet hurled the pill to second base but there was nobody there to catch it. As the ball rolled towards the outfield the McIntyre catcher advanced to third.

short. Zachary took a long lead off first and was trapped between the bases and while the whole Hollinger team was trying to tag him out Richardson scored another run. Zachary was finally tagged with the entire infield in on the play.

Oleatn singled to left field for the bombers and was then forced at second when Cherevaty hit weakly to third. Karahan singled to right field and sent Cherevaty to third. Romualdi was walked to fill the bases. Chase fanned to make it two out and Barton was thrown out at first to finish the session.

Eighth Inning
Three fly balls retired the Macs fast in the eighth inning. Schledewitz flied out to second base, Churchill poled out a long fly to centre and Oulmet flied out to right field.

Tennant was thrown out at first to start the Hollinger half of the inning. Baker, replacing Lawton, fanned. Cookson flied out to centre field.

Ninth Inning
Oleatn went into the box to pitch the last inning and McKay went in to catch. Laplante first man up, flied out to short stop. Oleatn walked three men in a row to fill the bags and then went on to strike out Thayer. Zachary flied out to deep centre to finish the game for the Macs.

Only three men faced Churchill in the Hollinger half of the inning. Oleatn struck out, McKay was thrown out at first and Karahan fanned to finish the game.

Al Todd Once Was in Fight With the Great Dizzy Dean

The signing of catcher Al Todd by the Toronto Maple Leafs recalls a memorable incident ten years ago when Todd was catching for Dallas and Dizzy Dean was pitching for Houston in the Texas League. In an early inning Todd came to bat and it looked as though Dean was trying to dust him off. After the second pitch broke close to his head. Al warned Dizzy that he'd go get him if he threw another bean ball at him.

Dean, accidentally or otherwise, came right back with another one. Al made good his threat. He went right after Dean and they started a scrap out on the hill. Todd, a six-foot two-hundred pounder, knocked Dean colder than a herring. For some reason neither player was ejected from the game, and Dean quickly revived and went right on pitching.

When the ninth inning rolled around Houston was winning 3 to 1. Dean got out the first two men to face him, and then looked over at the Dallas bench. He knew that Todd would be the fourth man to face him, if the game lasted that long. But there were two out already, so Dean deliberately passed the next three batters just to get at Todd. Diz then shouted at the top of his voice to Al that he was going to show him up, and that's just what he did. He blew three strikes past Al so fast that the big catcher never even saw them.

Leafs Come Home Next Monday Night From Road Trip

The Leafs will return to Toronto on June 16 after a back-breaking road trip in which they will have visited Rochester, Newark, Jersey City, Syracuse and Baltimore. Manager Lena Blackburne has been tinkering with his line-up, getting rid of worn-out cogs and fitting in new parts, and if the players are not too Pullman-punchy from their seventeen-day jaunt they may start to click in their own ball yard.

From now until the end of the season all games in Toronto will be night games, except those played on Saturdays and holidays; and every night will be Ladies Night, with the women folks being admitted to the park for a nominal sum. Newark Bears open the Leafs home stay with games on June 16, 17 and 18; Syracuse Chiefs follow on June 19, 20 and 21; Rochester Red Wings come in on June 25 and 26; Montreal Royals arrive for games on June 27 and 29; and Rochester returns for the holiday double-header on July 1. Games on June 17, 21 and 28 are also scheduled double-headers.

Castilloux to Meet Berger in Toronto Next Monday Night

Maple Leaf Gardens Will be the Scene of Slug-Fest That is Promoted by Jack Corcoran.

Maxie Berger and Dave Castilloux, both of Montreal, and without doubt Canada's two foremost fighters, have been signed by Matchmaker Jack Corcoran of the Queensbury, A.C. for a ten-round battle at Maple Leaf Gardens, in Toronto, Monday, June 16.

This fight has been mooted for considerable time, but neither principal was overly anxious to accept the match. Castilloux, Canadian middle-weight titlist, balked at giving away weight to the more rugged Berger, and Maxie just as steadily refused to make Castilloux's weight. Matchmaker Corcoran arrived at a happy medium which was satisfactory to both champs.

Both fighters have proved their worth in Toronto rings, although the customers are more familiar with Castilloux because he has fought some of the best and some of the worst in Toronto for about three years. Both are leading contenders for world crowns, Berger ranking well up among the welterweights, and Castilloux right near the top in the 135-pound class.

TOO FUNNY

"I don't want to complain, cook," said his mistress, "but that friend who comes to see you stays much too late. I couldn't get to sleep last night because of her laughter."

"I'm sorry, ma'am," replied the cook. "I was telling her about that time you tried to make a cake. — Toledo Blade.

Frank Colman Very Unorthodox Player Used to be Pitcher

Hits Bad Balls and Has Proved A Tremendous Crowd Pleaser.

The surprise of the spring batting statistics in the International League is Frank Colman, youthful Toronto outfielder. As this is written he is sharing the top run with Newark's Ken Sears and Buffalo's Bob Patrick, hitting a robust 350. Nearly all the Canadian lads who have made the grade in the majors or top minors in recent years have been pitchers. Colman, who was born in London, Ont., is the first outfielder to show since Goody Rosen and Bobby Porter broke in some five or six years ago, and he is a more promising player than either of them.

At that, if he hadn't hurt his arm while toiling for the Wilmington Blue Rocks in the Inter-State League last summer, Frank right now would be listed as a pitcher. He had won 11 games and lost only 4 when he got the miseries in his pitching arm. Then Billy Southworth, hard-hitting young outfielder, sprained an ankle and Charlie Berry, manager of the Blue Rocks, having noticed how pitcher Colman moved his legs in batting practice, took a chance by sending Frank to the outfield in Southworth's place.

Frank straight-away started hitting the ball so hard and so often that Southworth never did get his job back again. He finished the season with a batting average of .361, which made him runner-up for the league hitting honours, on top of which he was voted the league's most valuable player.

In the south this spring Colman hit everything that was thrown at him, but some of the experts figured it would be a different story when the pitchers started curving them. Manager Lena Blackburne himself was a bit dubious and didn't include the London youngster in his starting line-up. But when Johnny Tyler failed to hit, Colman got his chance and now it's Tyler who rides the bench. Frank has been handicapped by a charley horse and a wrenched ankle, but Blackburne doesn't dare rest him because he packs so much of the club's power.

Frank bats and throws left-handed and has a loose, almost slap-dash, style at the plate. Opposing pitchers say he's a hard man to pitch to because he's a bad ball hitter. They can't figure him, because he is hitting the pitch they don't want him to hit. This makes him especially dangerous with men on base. Sometimes he hits pitches that are obviously intended to be waste balls, and as often as not hits them safe. In the last series with Newark in Maple Leaf Stadium, with men on second and third and the count three balls and no strikes on him, he teed off on the next pitch, a low inside curve that would have taken his knee-cap off if he hadn't hit it. He pulled it down the right field foul line for a double and both runners scored.

Johnny Neun, manager of the Newark Club, was fit to be tied. "What are you going to do about guys like that?" he moaned. "They play crazy baseball but they always hurt you."

Frank is a big favourite with Maple Leaf fans. Deservedly so, too, because he has provided them with most of their opportunities to cheer. The Canadian youngster has already been spotted by Larry MacPhail, Brooklyn's major domo. Some weeks back when the Leafs were seeking Joe Becker, Brooklyn chatted then with Montreal, MacPhail was willing to do business if the Leafs would part with Colman. When the Leafs' management said no soap, the deal fell through.

Sudbury Star—Hon. T. A. Crerar describes the man who carelessly starts a forest fire as a saboteur. The term leans to politeness.

Hollinger will probably throw Bill Tennant.

The game is scheduled to get under way at five o'clock.

Porter Vaughan of Leafs Carbon Copy of Penneck

Connie Mack, venerable manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, thinks that Porter Vaughan, youthful left-hander new on option with Toronto, is going to be a carbon copy of the great Hobbie Penneck. Like Penneck, Vaughan went to the A's without minor league experience. He was lifted right off the campus of the University of Richmond and got $3,000 for signing. In his first start as a major leaguer, facing Bob Feller, he gave up only two hits in seven innings; before being lifted for a pinch-hitter. Also like the early Penneck, wildness is his only handicap.

Toronto Forced to Drop Three Players To Stay Within Limit

Sign Two Players and Have to Drop Three to Stay Within Salary Limit.

With the acquisition of George Jumboville, rookie shortstop, and the veteran catcher, Al Todd, the Toronto Leafs were forced to lop off three players to keep within the International League salary limit. Outfielder Johnny Tyler, pitcher Jim Walkup and infielder Bill Lillard were the three to go.

Tyler, because of his failure to hit in the first quarter of the schedule, was sent to the San Antonio Club in the Texas League. Walkup is strictly a warm weather pitcher and the Leafs couldn't wait for him to come around. He went to the Memphis Chicks in the Southern Association where the torrid weather may loosen the tightness in his arm. Lillard was returned to Philadelphia.

George Jumboville, the new shortstop, looks as though he is going to plug the gap at shortstop, where Bill Lillard has been giving an erratic display since the campaign opened. Jumboville, on option from the Philadelphia Phillies, was a standout with Ottawa in the Canadian-American League in 1940, finishing with a batting mark of .332.

The Leafs have also been suffering from lack of experience behind the plate, but they have this commodity in ample measure with the acquisition of Al Todd from the Chicago Cubs. Al has been in the National League since 1934 and knows what it's all about. He should be a great help to the young pitchers.

Track Meet Today

Postponed from Saturday on Account of Rain but is Going Ahead To-day.

Athletic representatives from five different Northern Ontario schools will take part in a track and field meet today at the Hollinger Park. The meet was originally scheduled to have been held at the Hollinger Park on Saturday of last week but it was postponed because of rain.

Kirkland Lake, Iroquois Falls, Cochrane, South Porcupine and Timmins will be represented by the best athletes in their schools today as the monster meet gets under way. Qualifying meets have been held in all the schools for the past week or so and the cream of the school athletes will compete.

The field has been narrowed down to one or two representatives from each school in the different events. Coach Ted Jarvis, of the Timmins High and Vocational School, is confident that his charges will repeat their previous victories and run away with the meet.

Complete results of the track and field meet will be carried in Thursday's issue of The Advance.
