The funeral was held this morning at ten o'clock at the S. T. Walker Funeral Parlours on Elm Street North, of the late G. M. Wilson, who was killed at the Hollinger Mine on Monday afternoon when he was struck by a large piece of loose. The late Mr. Wilson was very well known and well liked in Timmins where he was a popular member of the Timmins Citizens' band. Firemen are Still Investigating a Series of Fires Here

Inspector Saville, of the Ontario Fire Marshall's office, is in Timmins investigating a series of fires that broke out at 9 Tamarack Street, Timmins, in the past two weeks. The first time that the firemen were called was on Friday when the cellar was filled with smoke and the firemen found that fire had broken out in one place in the basement. There was little damage.

The second time that the firemen were called was on the following Sunday when they found that the fire had broken out in the basement again but this time it was in two different places. On Tuesday of this week they were again called to the same place and found a fire in progress, blazing from three different places. The fire chief could not understand how the fires could start at they had, and got in touch with the Fire Marshall's office. The investigation is still in progress.

The damage in the last fire amounts to three or four hundred dollars. There is no insurance on the contents. The house is one of the Hollinger house.

A stovepipe fire at the home of Peter Chapman at 72 Wilson Avenue, was extinguished by the firemen on Monday with very little damage. On Tuesday the firemen were called to 1 Bannerman Avenue. S. Smith, the occupant, had put a cigarette butt in his pocket, thinking it to be out, and had then put the shirt away in the dresser drawer. Shortly afterwards the dresser started to burn and the firemen were called. Damage to the dresser and some clothes amounted to about ten dollars.

A chimney fire at 37 Montgomery Avenue, at the house of J. Tilton, was quickly extinguished and a fire that started when the belt in a washing machine at 15 Way Avenue, started to blaze was also looked after.

Last night someone broke into a house at 109 Cedar Street South, and shortly afterwards a fire broke out in the basement. A number of cigarettes were scattered about and it is thought that the fire started from a cigarette butt. A Phillips is the owner and the occupant was E. Legare. The call came in at 12:36 this morning and 300 feet of hose was used besides gas masks and the master hose. The contents were all covered by insurance.

Still Unconscious Two Weeks After Accident

Nellie Robson, of Schumacher, the girl who was seriously injured two weeks ago when a truck in which she was riding to Gold Centre, overturned at the side of the road, has not yet regained consciousness, although there is said to be some improvement in her condition. Dan O'Callaghan, the driver of the truck, who was reported as having suffered broken ribs and a broken nose in the accident escaped with minor injuries, chiefly cuts and bruises. The other occupant of the truck at the time of the accident, Celia Johnson, suffered a broken leg and some face lacerations, but is making excellent progress to recovery.

More Men Leave Timmins to Join the Canadian Army

Twelve more men have left Timmins this week to join the Canadian Active Army. They were recruited in Timmins at the local armories and were sent to Military District No. 2 headquarters in Toronto Monday and Tuesday nights. There were no men leaving last night but before the week is out it is expected that the amount will be doubled.

All of the men except one were from Timmins. Orville Whitney Rivers, of Swastika, Andrew Oliver Deeks, Jean Baptiste Lacourse, William George McMillan, John Everett Sandburg, Dullio Romolo Sartoreto, Benoit A. Velleto, and Victor Francis Wainman were the men from Timmins who left Monday night. J. M. Wadsworth, K. J. Singleton, T. W. Roberts and G. E. Fairbanks left on Tuesday night.

It was announced at the recruiting office that medical boards are being held three times a week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings and any recruit wanting to join the Army can have his medical examination here and be transferred to the regiment that he wants to join immediately.

It was also announced that the Company Algonquin Regiment, second battalion, will leave for Camp Niagara on June 22nd. Two parades will be held next week for the company and it is important that all who are going to camp should make a special point to get out to the parade on Friday. It is expected that the "fatigue" dress will be in by that time and it will be distributed to the men who are going to camp.

Any of the members of the company who want to go to camp should get their names in to the officer commanding as soon as possible. There are only a limited number of men going down this year so it is important that the names of any desiring to make the trip should be in.

Noranda and Rouyn Kiwanis at Interclub Meeting Here

Rouyn and Noranda Kiwanis paid an inter-club visit to Timmins on Monday and also attended the regular meeting at South Porcupine. Among those here from Noranda was Mr. D. A. Jones, publisher of The Rouyn-Noranda Press, who was a visitor here from the Pembroke club as sponsor when the Kiwanis club opened in Timmins. The visitors were taken round the camp and also enjoyed a very interesting Kiwanis meeting here on Monday.

Miner at Rouyn Dies as Result of Fall from Bucket

Thomas Chevrier, a miner at the Noranda Mines, is dead as the result of a fall from a mine bucket. Chevrier was working underground at the Noranda Mines, and it is alleged that he was riding in a small bucket in one of the raises of the mine. This practice is contrary to the mine regulation, as it is considered dangerous. There are times, however, when miners take this chance. In this case Chevrier's death emphasizes the necessity for regulations forbidding the practice of riding small buckets underground. Chevrier, in any event, fell from the bucket and sustained injuries to his head, death following as a result.

The accident took place on Tuesday morning about eight o'clock. An inquest into the death of Chevrier was opened Tuesday afternoon at Rouyn and after the hearing of some evidence the inquiry was adjourned until yesterday when the rest of the evidence was heard.

Chevrier, who was 30 years of age, was a miner of experience and talent. He is survived by a widow and three children in Noranda, and by his parents at Port Coulonge, Que.

Port Arthur Liked Algonquin Regiment

Tribute Paid to Soldiers from the North.

Reference was made in a recent issue of The Advance to the transfer of the Algonquin Regiment from Port Arthur to Shilo, Manitoba. Many of the Algonquins at Port Arthur were Timmins men, and most of them were from what is known sometimes as the "T. & N. O. section of the North." Because of this there will be general interest here in the fact that the members of the regiment were specially popular in Port Arthur. The Port Arthur newspaper in an editorial article tells of the appreciation in which the Algonquins were held.

Tribute to Algonquins
(From Port Arthur News-Chronicle)
On the cold and rainy morning of October 10 last, a train pulled into Port Arthur yards from the east.

Its coming was unannounced. No one among the citizens at large knew anything about it, who was on it or where they were bound. No one cared much at that particular moment, for nearly everyone in the city had been engaged in saying farewell to the men of the First Lake Superior Regiment, made up of Port Arthur, Port William and district boys who had enlisted here and had the preliminary training which meant they were ready for transfer to another military camp for more advanced work.

Consequently, little attention was given to these newcomers. There were no bands to greet them, no welcoming handclaps, no cheers as they detrained and marched off to the military camp at the North End.

The reporters made some inquiries and when the evening papers appeared on the streets people learned that their new guests were the Algonquin Regiment, recruited largely in the mining district north of North Bay, their personnel being made up of men from that city, Timmins, Kirkland Lake and surrounding points. By picture Lieut. Col. J. B. Stewart was introduced to the people of Port Arthur.

It was not long, however, before the Algonquins were made to feel at home. As soon as the cheers for the Lake Superior Regiment had died away people began thinking about doing something for the newcomers.

The discovery was soon made that they were a fine bunch of men. Their stature, for one thing, has been the admiration of all citizens ever since. Numberless times the remark has been passed that the Algonquins average as the largest men ever to be seen in training here. That was not all. Many of the officers and men come from the professions and the more skilled trades and occupations, so that their intelligence also rated high as their conduct has since been found to be.

Although they were all strangers, the people quickly took the Algonquins into their hearts and before long the men of the battalion were remarking that this was like a second home. Officers and men were received into the homes of the city. Entertainment and theatre parties were arranged, motorists always stopped to pick up and give a khaki clad lad a lift, sandwich lunches were given and everything possible was done to make the boys feel that they were appreciated.

These kindnesses have been reciprocated. The Algonquins have conducted themselves like the gentlemen they are. They have provided some entertainment on their own account. Artists among their numbers have given freely of their services to local entertainments and concerts. Altogether a remarkable spirit of camaraderie has been built up between the military and the civil population.

But military life does not permit soldiers to remain where they wish or prefer. There is abundant evidence that the Algonquins would like to stay in Port Arthur. The battalion of more than 900 men has reached that point in its training where new facilities are required and before long the boys will be marching again toward the depot from where they first looked at Port Arthur nearly nine months ago. They will board train for another camp.

Thousands who never knew they existed on that October morning last year will be there to cheer them on their way and wish them good luck. There may even be a few tears for life is like that and there is a job to be done and women, too, must suffer if only in the partings that are a part of war.

But wherever they go and whatever they are called on to do, the Algonquins, the men and the lads who came as strangers a few months ago, carry the good wishes and the confidence of people in Port Arthur who know that every man among them will do his duty, whatever it is and wherever the call.

May they soon come back again to better and happier days.

More Taxes Collected at Kirkland Lake This Year

It will be noted by an article elsewhere in this issue that Timmins this year collected over $44,000 more in taxes than for the same period last year. A somewhat similar experience has been the case in Kirkland Lake, though the proportion of taxes collected is not as great as in Timmins. Kirkland Lake's tax collectors this year to date are $4,000 more than in the same period last year.

Three Men Arrested Last Night Face Serious Charges

Drunk Driving, Dangerous Driving and One "Jehovah's Witness" are Locked Up Here.

One man was picked up by the Timmins police last night and charged with being drunk in charge of a car, another was stopped and charged with dangerous driving, another man was picked up and after he was searched he was lodged in the local jail, charged with being a member of the illegal "Jehovah's Witnesses" sect, and a couple of drunks were picked up to round out the police activities last night.

John Ciechomski, 154 Spruce street, south, was picked up by the police on the Schumacher highway. His car was stuck in the sand near McDowell's Garage where it had run into the ditch. When the police arrived they said that the man was very drunk so he was brought in. Ciechomski is a miner and is 38 years old.

Squire Olliver Ticknor, 183 Twelfth Avenue, Cochrane, Ontario, is facing a charge in Timmins of dangerous driving. Police say that they followed him on the Hollinger flats and that he narrowly avoided being involved in several accidents as his car swerved from one side of the road to the other. At one time he narrowly missed running into two girls on bicycles.

Albert MacPherson, 46 years old, 4 Lincoln avenue, Timmins, is facing a charge laid under the Defence of Canada Regulations. He was stopped at the corner of Seventh Avenue and Elm Street last night and after he was searched he was brought in to the local jail and locked up. Bail has been set for the man at $500 cash or $1,000 property but he was still in the cells this morning. The charge against him is that he did continue to be a member of the "Jehovah's Witnesses," which organization was by order in council, dated July 4th, 1940, declared illegal, contrary to the Defence of Canada Regulations.

Two ordinary drunks were locked up last night.
