Classes in "Emergencies in War" to be Organized Soon by Red Cross Here

Classes in Home Nursing Have Been in Progress in Post Office Basement for Several Weeks. Some Particulars About the Need and the Value of These Courses.

A four-day refresher course in Home Nursing, Emergencies of War, and Air Raid Precautions was conducted in Toronto, under the sponsorship of the University of Toronto Nursing School. This course was attended by 80 graduate nurses from Ontario.

Five graduate nurses from Porcupine district attended — Mrs. Harold Jones, Mrs. Robt. Goodings and Miss Florence Farr from Timmins; Miss Luella Wing, from Schumacher; and Miss Lillian Ross, from South Porcupine. This course reviewed the Red Cross Home Nursing Manual, and the supplementary manual on Emergencies of War. Lectures were given by Dr. Harold Couch, Dr. Wm. Boyd, Dr. Wright Young, Dr. Myles, Miss Emary and Miss Russel, with demonstrations by Miss Dulmage of the Toronto General Hospital.

For some years now the teaching of Home Nursing classes has been recognized as a major activity of the Red Cross Society. With the development of a war time situation in Canada, there has come an instant demand from those conducting such classes for supplementary material on emergencies which might arise at such a time. At the request of the Nursing Advisory Committee of the Ontario Division of the Red Cross Society, this supplement on Emergencies in War has been prepared.

Classes in Home Nursing have been in progress for several weeks, and are held in the rooms of the Post Office (basement) on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday each week.

Classes in Emergencies of War will be organized soon, and will be taught with the aid of graduate nurses and local doctors of the Porcupine District.

Attendance at the Local Army Parades Shows Improvement

Members of Local Company Can be Fined Five Dollars for Each Time They Fail to Attend.

Similar action to that taken in Kirkland Lake recently, when two members of the Algonquin Reserve Battalion were each fined five dollars and costs in magistrate's court for non-attendance at parades, has not been necessary to date in Timmins but the law will be enforced at any time officers here deem it necessary.

Attendance at parades in Timmins fell off badly after the company returned from their annual camp this summer but recently, when they were threatened with the enforcement of the Militia Act, the members started to attend more regularly. For the past two weeks members of the company have been asked to sign a prepared manuscript stating that parades were held every Monday evening and now the members have no excuse for not knowing that a parade has been called.

Any person unable to attend a parade must inform the orderly room before five o'clock on the day of the parade or he will be marked absent. Any person who happens to be working on Monday evening must attend a parade on Monday morning at ten o'clock in order to be marked as present.

The Militia Act, Section 115, states that every officer and man of the Militia who, without lawful excuse, neglects or refuses to attend any parade, drill or training at the place and hour appointed therefor, or who refuses or neglects to obey any lawful order or concerning such parade, drill or training, shall incur a penalty, if an officer, of $10 and if a man, of $5, for each offence.

Legion Asks for More Equitable Financing of Soldiers' Dependents

Suggests Extension of "Cost of Living Bonus" or Other Provision for Soldiers' Families at This Time. Other Business of Importance at Meeting of Legion Branch.

The members of Branch 88 of the Canadian Legion, have forwarded a strongly worded resolution to the government, calling upon the authorities to either increase dependants' allowances to all children in a family, or place the cost-of-living bonus upon all payments of allowances, pensions, etc. The matter came to a head when W. A. Devine, pension officer for the branch gave his monthly report. He told of the many cases handled in his spare time and conditions under which many are now handicapped, due in most part to the coming of winter in this part of the Dominion. One lady had already asked for the discharge of her husband to maintain adequate support for herself and family. President Walter Greaves and Major Cornthwaite, S.A., also spoke on the subject. The following is the text of the resolution: Proposed by W. A. Devine, seconded by A. Borland, Senior:

"In view of the fact that distress seems inevitable to those in receipt of dependants' allowances, etc., especially those with three or more children to support, and having in mind the recent Order-in-Council re Cost of Living Bonus, the members of Branch 88 of the Canadian Legion hereby resolve:

"That the attention of the government be brought to the unfairness of the order to these persons, and

"That an equitable adjustment be made to those in receipt of dependants' allowance, war veterans' allowance, and disability pensions of 50 p.c. or more, in order that they keep pace with the present 13.05 increase in cost of living.

"Also that the members assembled at the monthly general meeting of Timmins branch, Monday, October 27th, 1941, ask, that this receive most urgent consideration in view of the present wintry weather in Northern Ontario."

There was a very large attendance and the Legion spirit of help and remembrance was shown in all matters discussed.

Walter Greaves president, occupied the chair. The minutes and quarterly statements were read and adopted, the latter showing that finances are ample for present needs in all activities.

Charles Keates, chairman of war services committee, asked for another $200.00 for cigarettes for lads overseas. He stated that the Legion was now taking care of 360 men from Timmins and Schumacher in the matter of cigarettes. The bingo nights at the "K" Club hall were now practically meeting the cost of this special service to the troops, which is very gratifying. A little larger attendance was requested. The amount asked for was granted.

Plans were made for Poppy Day and the Remembrance Day service. Poppy Day will be Saturday, November 8th, and the morning of Nov. 11th. The usual parade and service will be held Remembrance Day, Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 11.00 a.m. with ceremony at the cenotaph. Major Cornthwaite is in charge of arrangements. A banquet of members and their wives will be held in the evening in the Legion hall. This will be carried along in the same manner as the one held last year. Fred Curtis is in charge of arrangements for this event.

President Walter Greaves read a very fine report on the work of the Citizens' Committee of this riding. It showed that a great deal of other work is being accomplished for those serving their country. The members were highly pleased with this special report.

Much discussion (all of a nature to strengthen the lead of the cemetery committee) in regard to Legion plots at Timmins cemetery took place. In the end a definite date was fixed for all future Decoration Day ceremonies. This will be the second Sunday in June of each succeeding year. An extra committee will be picked in January, their duty being the furtherance of the splendid work now accomplished. The present cemetery committee set-up is to be continued, the added one solely a working one. One member put its duty in Churchill's words: "Give us the tools and we'll finish the job." It has to be done!

A smoker was announced for this Saturday, November 1st. All members were asked to be present.

A letter from the Liquor Control Board was very interesting to the members and the new policy outlined will receive the closest co-operation of the members when put into operation. A letter of thanks has been forwarded in return.

Nominations were again carried out for the new officers for 1942. It looks as if there is to be a very competitive election, taking into consideration the number of nominees.

All members were asked by the president to keep up the work of securing new members and plans are under way for a big membership drive in the future.

After the meeting a happy impromptu concert was carried through, nearly all present taking a part in the proceedings. It was a birthday party to Fred Curtis and one he will remember in time to come. The meeting was brought to a close at midnight with the National Anthem.

Appeals to Kiwanis Club to Help in Sending Tea to Those in Air Raid Shelters

Cup of Tea a Great Comfort to the Gallant Folk in the Shelters. Quiz on Kiwanis Popular at Meeting. Kiwanian G. N. Ross Reviews Week's News. Blankets from Boys' Camp Given to Red Cross.

At Monday's Kiwanis luncheon a special feature was the appeal of Mr. Lawrence Isaacs, of Toronto, for help in sending tea bags to the people of Britain, and especially those in the air raid shelters. Mr. Isaacs said that last year he decided that if tea bags could be sent to the people of Britain it would be a great help, especially to those in air raid shelters. He pictured conditions that were inevitable in the shelters no matter how carefully conducted, the strain, the anxiety, the effect on health and spirits, and then he suggested that the people of Britain being so fond of tea, and tea scarce and expensive there now, it would be a great comfort and help to the people if there was a special supply of tea for them. He secured permission from Premier Churchill to ship the tea to Britain, principally for people in air raid shelters. Mr. Isaacs, told the Kiwanis that his appeal was to all clubs and organizations to help. During the past year he has succeeded in raising twenty-five to thirty thousand tea bags per month for shipment to England. He appealed to the Kiwanis Club to assist in this effort. To give point to his appeal he told of discussing the matter with a Canadian soldier back from England. The soldier spoke of the foul air people in air raid shelters are subjected to on some occasions. "What a welcome thing a cup tea would be in such a case!" Mr. Isaacs commented.

The review of the news of the week was very ably given by Kiwanian G. N. Ross. He quoted part of Lord Beaverbrook's talk on all-out assistance to Russia. Japan, he suggested, will keep out of the war until Russia shows a greater indication of weakening. He gave some excerpts from Hon. Anthony Eden's address in reference to public demands for more definite action. Anthony Eden said:—"If the public know what the government is planning, they would cease their demands." German attack on Moscow has slowed down, Mr. Ross commented, and Churchill has warned against any premature attempt at the invasion of Europe. Mr. Ross also mentioned the Canadian Prime Minister's announcement regarding price control to go into effect.

Kiwanian Phil Laporte, chairman of the Educational Committee, took over the meeting, the session then taking the form of an educational quiz in regard to Kiwanis. This proved intensely interesting and most informative. Some of the questions and answers were as follows:—

Q—In order to qualify, what percentage of time must be devoted to the business of the applicant?
A.—60 per cent. (Art. 3, sec. 2 (b) Club by-laws.)

Q—Should the individual's possible attendance record be considered before he is invited into membership?
A.—Yes. Kiwanis success is based on participation of individual. Need not be 100 per cent, but reasonable participation.

Q—Does a reserve member in a Kiwanis Club have the same privileges as a privileged member?
A.—No. Privileged can vote and hold office. Reserve cannot. (Art. 3, sec. 344, Club by-laws.)

Q—Is a little "horse play" objectionable in the reception of the new member?
A.—I think so. Types of men we get, come in on the appeal of Kiwanis, which, to most, is primarily serious.

Q—How can a new member be made to feel at home in the club?
A.—Use special badges for prompt identification. Assign old member to assist in introductions. Secure co-operation of all.

Q—Must an individual's membership be consecutive for ten years to qualify for privileged membership?
A.—No. By-laws do not require. (Art. 3, sec.)

Q—Does a member of another Kiwanis Club have to pay a membership fee when he moves to another city and joins the club in that community?
A.—Not usually. It's a matter of club policy. Few clubs require. Most do not, though by-laws would permit charge.

Q—When a member moves from one city to another is it mandatory that the club accept the individual as a member?
A.—No. He might qualify in Podunk but not in Chicago.

Q—Three members of our club drove 42 miles to attend a meeting in a neighbouring city. On arrival they found that the club meets on a different day than they thought it did. Are they entitled to credit, although they attended no meeting?
A.—No. They should have checked if I go down to catch streamliner (Continued on Page Two)

Three Convictions Made in Charges Under Liquor Act in Police Court Tuesday

One Man Goes to Jail for Three Months on Charge of Keeping for Sale. Woman Draws Two Month Term for Selling. Another Woman Fined Fifty Dollars on Charge of Permitting Drunkenness.

Magistrate Atkinson showed no mercy for illegal beverage room proprietors at this week's police court as he sentenced two of them to jail terms and fined another one fifty dollars and costs on a charge of permitting drunkenness. Two persons charged with keeping for sale and illegal possession of beer had the charges against them withdrawn when the evidence failed to tie them up with the case.

In one of the cases where a seventeen-year-old girl and an aged Italian were charged jointly, the magistrate sent the man to jail for three months and withdrew the charge against the girl, whom he described as nothing but a bar-tender. In another case the magistrate showed a bit of leniency toward a woman charged with keeping for sale and changed the charge to one of selling beer and sent her to jail for two months.

Pecile Forovante and Rose Morrison were facing charges of keeping beer for sale and at the conclusion of the evidence Forovante was convicted. Police said they had entered the establishment conducted by Forovante at 184 Balsam street north, on October 12th about half past eleven and they found six persons in the house with beer in front of them. None of the found-ins were able to name the proprietor and the proprietor was unable to name any of his "customers."

Rose Morrison was said to have admitted to the police that she had sold the beer to the six men who were found in the place and told police that she had been working there for the past two years and that selling beer was a part of her job. She was also the housekeeper at the house. She said she received $18.00 per month in wages. She said that Forovante was the occupant of the house.

Police further added that the house had all the markings of a bootlegging establishment. Men sat about the house with their hats and coats on and with beer in front of them. One man was found in the kitchen and the other five were in another room. Forty pints of beer were found in the basement besides two cases of empties. In the room of a roomer two more cases of the same brand of beer were found. In Forovante's room the police found a part bottle of rye whiskey and a part bottle of wine. Police also added that the girl had four empty beer bottles in her hands when she answered the door to admit them.

Defence counsel called the found-ins to the stand as part of his evidence and it was then that the case for the defence took a plunge. All of the witnesses asked for interpreters although they all admitted that they had resided in Canada for years. The first three witnesses for the defence were Finnish and they said that the previous Sunday they had taken Forovante to Connaught with them on a fishing trip and he had invited them to his house this Sunday for a spaghetti dinner. They had gone to the house about ten-thirty and the girl had given them a bottle of beer each. They swore that they had not paid for the beer.

Each of the witnesses swore that they knew the accused Forovante for years but none of them knew what the man's name was. The defence counsel, Dean Kester, K.C., told them that they were in the same boat as he was because he didn't know what the man's name was either and he had been consulting with the man for three weeks. The witnesses told of the nicknames that they called the man. One called him "Dad", another called him "Sally" and the third called him, "The Old Man."

Another one of the men who was found in the house when the police visited said that he had known the man for twelve years and he always called him "Tony". He had gone into the house to see the man's wife because he heard she was sick, he said, and was established. Men sat about the house with their hats and coats on (Continued on Page Four)
