Red Cross: -THE JUNIOR RED CROSS

The idea of Junior Red Cross sprang in'o life following the first Great War, and now it has the endorsation in Canada of educational officials, public health authorities, teachers, parents, and the public generally. Junior Red Stag in Lions and the public generally. Junior Red Cross in a school, whether it be branch in a secondary school, or primary grade, provides an inspiring motive and opens up practical channels for Gino Marescatto Treats the follows:the expression of its ideas.

At the end of the school year 1940-41 there were 9,484 branches in Ontario with a membership of 294,032 school girls and boys of all ages. Junior Red Cross has three main objectives:

1. Health 2. Service

3. Good Citizenship. The unit of organization in element ary schools is the classroom, with the teacher as local director. In secondary sphools the classroom is considered the most desirable unit of organization, but this is no obligatory. When the enrolment form is filled out and returned to the provincial Junior Red Cross headquarters, individual membership buttons and health cards, a monthly copy of the "Canadian Red Cross Junior" magazine, wall posters and other supplies for carrying on a branch of the Junior Red Cross are promotly sent Apant from the small class enrolment fee, all money donated by branches of the Junior Red Cross goes directly into designated funds. Not one cent of Juniors' donations is spent on administration.

In time of peace, but especially i time of war, health is one of the nation's greatest assets. Through the observance of the essential rules of health Juniors are helping to prevent vast amount of unnecessary illness.

The four men, Stan Hass, Nap. Barrette, Bill Welsh and Adrien Maurice, were highly complimentary in their remarks about hunting in the Sudbury district. Reports previous to the arrival of the men from their trip were that deer were numerous in the district but from the remarks that these men passed about the hunting, it would appear that the Sudbury district is a real hunter's paradise.

"There were so many deer around that we had to hide behind the trees for fear of being run over," said one of the hunters. All of the men said that they didn't have to travel far from camp to find the deer. They reported that the deer were comparatively tame in the district.

The four mean left at the end of last month and spent ten days hunting in the district surrounding the Pickerel River, a river that flows into the

McIntyre Concert Band Performs in Aid of War Victims

Concert Given Under Auspices of Schumacher Lions at McIntyre Gymnasium

Extra seating accommodation was arranged in the gymnasium of the Mc-Intyre Community Building on Sunday evening, to accommodate the large number of music-lovers who gathered to enjoy the music of the McIntyre Concert Band, as presented under the auspices of the Schumacher Lions Club, with proceeds for the British Bombed Victims' Fund. This, the first concert in the series, was one of the most popular indoor band events to be presented here this year, and the band. directed by Lieutenant J. W. S. Lomas, chose a variety programme that brought enthusiastic demand for encores from the audience.

Opening with "O Canada," the band played "Entry of the Gladiators" and "Hungarian Fantasia", with an encore selection, "By Heck." Bandsman J Frattura was featured in the coronet solo, "Atlantic Zephyrs," which was so efficiently performed that Mr. Frattura had to respond with the encore, "Trees." The band continued the programme with "Casino Tanze Waltzes" and "Wings Over the Navy," and ther. the audience was introduced to Mrs. C. G. Armitage, featured vocalist, who rendered excerpts from the "Pirates of Penzance," and in response to insistent applause, sang the beautiful "Desert

"Wish Me Luck" proved as pepular as it has been since it was first introduced in Canada, while "Drummers' Delight," showed the talent of Bandmen Lauri Salo and Fred Forzan. Mrs. Armitage returned to delight the listeners with excerpts from "The Firefly" and the band closed with "Abide With Me," "Songs of England," and 'God Save
