Expect Decision Soon in Bartleman Townsite Case

It is expected that the decision of the Judge in the arbitration case relative to the Bartleman Townsite case will be announced at an early date. The town and Mr. Bartleman both received notice from Judge R. Danis that each were to pay half the arbitrator's costs and that after that the Judge's decision would be released. This will mean a matter of a few days, as the Judge's certificate that the costs are paid has to be sent to Toronto before the decision is made public.

There Was a War On

"Wah ah did you get dat knob on yo' haid, Sam?" "In de war." "De war?" "De boudoir."—"1000 Jokes". TORONTO MAN IN MINT The journalist had returned from a trip to Ottawa and was describing it.

Clutch vs. Brake

Judge—"Now tell the court how this accident happened." Sailor—"Well, I dimmed my lights and moved over to hug the curve."

Hardly Complimentary

"Cheer up," said the doctor, "I've had exactly the same complaint myself." "Yes," replied the patient, doubtfully, "but you didn't have the same doctor!"—Globe and Mail.

Particular Private

A sergeant-major stopped a recruit who was walking out in battle dress and brown shoes. S.M. "Where did you get those shoes?" R. "I had them in private life, sir." S.M. "Whate were you in private life?" R. "On the Stock Exchange, sir." S.M. "Did you have a silk hat as well?" R. "Yes sir." S.M. "Then why don't you wear that?" R. "I don't care for a silk hat with brown shoes, sir."—Exchange.

Mutt Defined

A Canadian soldier on a Leeds tram fondly patted a dog at his heels, says the Leeds Yorkshire Post. "What breed is he?" he asked the owner. "Hardly a thoroughbred, I'm afraid," came the reply. "No, I suppose not. Do you have any mutt shows in these parts?" "Mutt...?" The dog owner looked mystified.

Life in Hollywood Dept.

The younger generation in the film capital seem to take family life with a grain of salt. This little discussion was overheard by our Hollywood correspondent on a bus. It was obvious between two children of film stars. "How do you like your new father?" asked the first little one. "Oh, he's very nice," said the second, carefully. "Yes, isn't he?" said the first, "we had him last year."—"1000 Jokes". Exchange:—Simile: As remote as a pleasure drive in an auto.

Good Answer

Life was very hard, thought the sergeant as he went round inspecting the rifles of a very raw lot of recruits. As he gazed down the muzzle of one weapon he could hardly believe his eyes. "And what's that oil in barrel for, me lad?" he belted. "The guilty one was scared, but replied hopefully: "Well, sergeant, I thought it would help to make the bullet come out faster."—Answers.

Almost Succeeded

Hearing a crash on the platform, the stationmaster dashed out of his room. He was just in time to see the tail of the train vanish from sight, while a very dishevelled young man lay flat on his face, surrounded by upset milk cans and the contents of his suitcase. "What he trying to catch the train?" the official asked a small boy. "He did catch it," replied the lad, cheerfully, "but it got away again!"—Exchange.

HOLD HIGH THE TORCH OF FREEDOM OUR Fighting WORKERS GIVE WINGS TO VICTORY Production of modern war machines is Canada's duty and opportunity—serving now the cause of freedom and developing new giants of industry for Canada's future. Under the stress of war's necessity our manufacturing facilities are multiplied, our production is manifolded. It is no military secret that Canada has become a major source of supply for planes, as well as tanks, guns and ammunition. Workers and management, heroically speeding up the number of bombers, fighters and pursuit planes, are playing their part in the battle of production to bring victory. May the flow of war machines keep ever mounting until the United Nations have achieved victory over international banditry. Throughout the war, in many forms of special war service, the Bank of Montreal will continue to serve and, when victory brings peace, the Bank—through its hundreds of branches—will give Canada's workers and business its same dependable service...the outcome of 125 years' successful operation.
