Arrest on Warrant Issued Nearly Three Years Ago

Tuesday night Timmins police picked up Roy Anderson, 155 Pine street, south, on a warrant issued in July, 1940. In 1940 the accused had been convicted on a disorderly conduct charge and was fined $10.00 and costs, or an alternative of a term in jail. The police were unable to locate him after his conviction, but they did not forget him. In the meantime, however, the fine and costs were paid, but even this did not leave Anderson free as there was a warrant issued for him in November, 1940, charging him with wife desertion. On this latter charge he will likely be held until next week's court for hearing.

Another Lad Pays for Damage to Star Cafe Juke Box

No Important Cases at Tuesday's Session of Police Court.

At police court on Tuesday Paul Emile Roberge and Albert Cardinal were charged with wilful damage to property, the said property being the juke-box at the Star Cafe. Every night there is a crowd at the Star Cafe and they have a happy time in general playing the juke box, dancing and with the occasional step dance by some lumberjack or miner. It appears to be a place to gather and quite a number appear to find it a convenient and pleasant place to while away the odd hour. There seem to be a few, however, who want to spoil it all by fighting or smashing stuff up. More than once this year the juke box has been damaged and at least one other man has paid for this unsportsmanlike kind of damage. Paul Emile Roberge was cleared of blame in the matter of the damaged juke box, but Cardinal was convicted. Magistrate Atkinson fined him $5.00 and costs, with the addition of $5 for the damage done.

Jean Pearson faced two charges of passing what are scientifically known as bum cheques. One was for $5, and the other for $10, and they were paid out in exchange for goods at local stores. When the cheques were turned in to the bank, the bank turned them out again with the notation that there was no account under the name signed to the cheques. The young lady was given thirty days on each charge, the terms to run concurrently.

The charges against Bruno Carnovale and M. Kushnir of permitting minors in their poolrooms were withdrawn. At the same time the parents of the young men under age said to have been frequenting the poolrooms were advised to see that their boys did not loiter in such places.

A gentleman charged with allowing his young boy to be out after curfew explained that he was at work on the occasion when the boy was out late. The boy he said was a good lad and had not been in the habit of staying out late. The case was remanded until called.

On a charge of having defective brakes on his car, W. Ferguson was fined $20.00 and costs. The case arose from the fact that his car almost hit a parade of the air cadets, and only the agility of the boys saved them as the car went through the parade. At a previous court the accused was charged with dangerous driving but was acquitted when he explained that his brakes would not work. He left the previous court thinking he had heard the last of the matter but this week he had to face a charge of driving a car with defective brakes. The fact that he drove the car around town after the parade incident was taken as proof that he needed to have it impressed on him that he should not drive a car with brakes so defective that he did not have proper control of the car.

John Karpel was remanded a week on a hit and run charge that followed the case of a youngster knocked down and injured. He is out on $400.00 bail. Remand was also given in the cases against Remi Robinson, Marcel Labelle and Joseph Gerard Chouard, charged with carnal knowledge of a girl between the ages of 14 and 16 years.

There was also a remand for M. Saxe, charged by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board with offering prices for sale without having them accurately marked as required by the regulations.

There are also three charges against Gamble-Robinson Limited laid by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to come up at next week's court. The charges are in connection with alleged breaches of the regulations regarding ceiling prices and invoicing.

There were eight charged with ordinary everyday drunkenness. Six of them paid $10.00 and costs. One preferred to take the time in jail, and the other was withdrawn.

For passing a stop sign, one motorist paid $1.00 and costs.

Two dogs at large cost $1.00 and costs each.

The Two Bonds

(By Wilson Thomson, Timmins)
We grumble and grouse, As we work in the mine, But what of the boys Who are in the front line? They're waiting for guns Coming over the pond, And they'll get them if You'll buy a Victory Bond.

There's a shortage of coffee And no; enough tea, But if Hitler were here, Just where would we be? We'd eat all we wanted, And I'll tell you why, Schickelgruber would see That we ate humble pie.

We'd eat all we wanted, Yes. — Eat till we burst. So between the two bonds, Choose — Which is the worst? Bonds that will cut to The depths of your soul, Or bonds that will buy us The way to our goal?

There isn't much time. The time's running short. (To tell you the truth, pal, It's time that you bought) So don't stop to argue. Go take a wee flutter, Even if you eat your Bread without butter.

Just quit all your beefin' And reach in the sock. If you haven't enough Put the future in hock. See the salesman to-day And buy more and more. We can fight it out after We've won this dam war.
