South Porcupine High School Commencement Exercises on Monday

Proficiency and Other Prizes and Awards Presented. Notable Address by Mr. Ralph Taylor, a Real Northerner. Honour Roll of Those Serving King and Country from South Porcupine High School.

South Porcupine, Dec. 22nd. Special to The Advance.

South Porcupine High School commencement exercises took place on Monday before a large and appreciative audience of parents and friends.

The girl students looked very neat and trim in their school uniforms of yellow shirts with navy skirts, while all the boys wore their Cadet uniforms—either of the Army or the Air Force.

Mr. Ralph Ellis, principal, welcomed the gathering after the National Anthem had been sung. He spoke of the importance of work as a preparation for life, and by "Commencement" some felt that some epoch in life had been completed and a new one begun. He spoke in terms of praise of the war effort of the students. During the year $10 worth of war savings stamps had been bought and a $100 Victory Bond. Donations out of the school funds had been made to various war charitable works. Articles made for the Red Cross had numbered 165, and during the year 6 of the students had joined the Armed services. It is a record of which students and school may be proud.

After the school song had been sung, Mr. Charles Kemsley (School Board member) presented proficiency prizes to:—Grade 13, Evelyn Clark; Grade 12, Mary Connelly; Grade 11, Donald Eriden; Grade 10A, Joyce Allen; Grade 10B, Laura Rotondo; Grade 9A, Ada Mazzocoto; Grade 9B, Margaret Connelly.

The School Glee Club sang "Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life," and Christmas carols before the presentation of oratorical cups and medals (donated by the Kiwanis Club) by Archdeacon Woodall. He prefaced the presentation by a short address to the students. Among other things he extolled the gift of oratory as being the "power of eloquent words." Verbosity is not eloquence but oratory is true artistry, he said, quoting Churchill's radio speech after Dunkirk as a specimen.

The medals (and cups) were presented to:—

Senior: Mary Reshartarski; and Junior: Mary Harper and Nadyne Smith (equal).

Miss Evelyn (Bonnie) Clark was valedictorian and she gave a splendid address. She mentioned the boys who had gone into the armed forces, and spoke of the advantages she and her classmates had had in this school:—a competent staff of teachers, a grand library, and the extra curricula which helped to bring out all the powers of the individual which is what true education means. "Make the most of every opportunity and live up to the school motto 'Potest fieri' which means 'It can be done,'" was the theme of the valedictory.

Father LaSalle presented the Debating Cup and medals donated by Pearce and Cross. He spoke to the students on the duty of giving thanks to God for honours received and for the channels through which these blessings come to us, to the parents for their sacrifices made and to the teachers for their devotion to the work of educating the young.

The debating medals were won by:—(1) Senior, Mary Reshartarski and Jean Carruthers; Junior: by Ann Barliko and Mary Courtyman.

Rev. J. C. Thompson presented the verse reading medals donated by the Literary Society to:—Senior, Jean Carruthers and Junior Barbara Raymer. Mr. Charles Brown presented the Strathcona Medal for rifle-shooting (Cadet) to John Raymer; and the Dominion Canada Rifle Association Medal to Stanley Barabas.

Mr. Gus McManus (High School Board) presented Girls' Track and Field Trophy (Porcupine Hardware) to: Senior, Mary Connelly; Intermediate, Shirley Knutson; Junior, Barbara Lang.

The Todd Trophy—Boys' Track and Field to:—Senior, George York; Intermediate, Anthony Fasan; Junior, Intermediate, Leo Kausela; Junior, William Andrew.

The Fairhurst Trophy (Boys' Basketball) to George Aro (Captain), George York, Leonard Harper, Jack Jay, William Chevrier, Louis Campagnola, James McDonnell, John Ursulak.

The girls of Grade 9A sang a Bohemian carol "Yuletide Night," and Christmas carols.

Mr. R. E. Dye then introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Ralph Taylor, a real northerner man, known to most of the older generation who had lived any length of time in this North Country.

Mr. Taylor held his audience with an address which, while full of advisory notes for the students, was also interspersed with anecdotes and incidents calculated to drive home his points.

He praised those who had succeeded in distinguishing themselves by their application to study, or by innate cleverness. But—on the other hand—he stressed that there was hope for those who were not academically brilliant. Churchill, he said, failed three times to pass his entrance examinations. Roosevelt ran away to join the Navy; and Stalin's early record was not perfect. — Yet — these men were the three greatest men in the world today. The students are facing a future which will be exactly what they make it. Parents exert pressure during school days, but as the young face the world from school they are on their own.

Not all successful men were born rich or clever. Many were poor and some got through school "by the skin of their teeth."

"Some people think this war is going to change everything. I do not hold with the pessimists," said the speaker. "There is a glorious future ahead of you. I envy you your youth and opportunities. Men and women haven't changed at all. Those who are determined to get some place will get there."

Mr. Taylor spoke eloquently of the rapid changes and improvements and inventions made within the past 49 years—radio, television, medicine, clipper travel, and the wonder beam "Radar." He told of what wonders we may yet expect, and said that even the most fantastic ideas might become realities during the lives of these youngsters and that they might even be the instruments through which they came.

One or two of the anecdotes will be remembered by the students. For instance he told of a father who told his son he should get out and work. "When I was your age," he said "I was working in a store for $3 a week and in five years I owned the place!" "Yes," replied the son, "but we have cash registers now!"

In apologizing for attempting a "speech," Mr. Taylor told them "I have never been gifted nor displayed flights of oratory. I do quite well recollect, a speech in Cobalt in 1903. I was to stand as candidate in a municipal election but when the time came for me to speak I stood up, looked around, blushed a fiery red and—sat down. The chairman—Milton Carr—then made a characteristic remark:—"The speaker was eloquent in his silence. He also serves who only stands and looks." That, said Mr. Taylor, was a critical audience but no more critical than this youthful one I am facing now."

In summing up, the speaker emphasized—"Earn and deserve what you get. A world of 'hand-outs' can't survive. You can't play all the time and still make good. Your determination will see you through. It can be done!"

Boys Dye, Junior, thanked the speaker for his address.

An impressive finale to the commencement was the presentation to the school by the Student's Council (Leonard Harper) of a Roll of Honour beautifully illuminated, with many names upon it, (and with room for more), to be hung within the school.

South Porcupine's Fire Chief's Annual Christmas Message

No Fire Hall Christmas Tree or New Year's Eve Dance on Account of the War.

South Porcupine, Dec. 22nd, 1943. The Fire Demon has already started on the rampage again this Christmas Season in many towns in Canada.

Here in the Porcupine Camp we can, and should do our utmost to prevent fires this year at this time.

Just stop and think before you fill up the furnace with all the Christmas gift wrappings, which will cause a roar of fire in the chimney. Keep all naked lights away from Christmas trees—candles, matches, cigarettes—and be sure the wiring of coloured lights is in order. We have checked the business places and stores for flimsy fire-trap decorations, cotton-wool, improvised lighting fixtures. Will you do the same in your homes?

Be more fire-conscious at this time! This year we are very sorry that we can have no Fire Hall Christmas tree. It is impossible to carry out this function this year—no lights, no supplies to be had in the quantity required.

Circumstances beyond our control have caused us, too, to cancel the New Year's Eve Dance.

But our motto still stands: "Are we downhearted? No!"

The South Porcupine Fire Department thank you for co-operation, and wish you all "A Merry Christmas and bright New Year," M. Smith.

Charming Christmas Concert by Dome School Pupils

South Porcupine, Dec. 22nd. Special to The Advance.

The children of the Dome Public School held a charming Christmas concert on Friday afternoon in the school, and gave a return performance in the evening, for the School's War Funds. It was a short programme but packed full of the Christmas spirit and marked with the easy happiness of children doing their best in an atmosphere of friendly attention. Everywhere were the signs of Christmas—in this room where the concert was held the walls were frescoed with Santa and his chariot, poinsettias, Christmas trees, and on one wall a very nice picture of the Family in the Stable. Mothers and little sisters and brothers and friends looked on and applauded as the little programme was unrolled.

First—very sweetly sung—were Christmas Songs by the Junior Choir: "The First Nowell"; "Little Son of Mary"; "Who is Coming on Christmas Night?"

Then the boys held the floor with a gymnastic exhibition—pyramids, tumbling, etc. Boys taking part in this were Willie Bingham, George McDonnell, Ewart Stanlake, Dick Williams, Girvan Chevrier, Gary Crawford, Lauri Kangas, Jimmy McGinn, Teddy Mitchell, Brian Scott, Donald Woon, Harvey Davis, Kenneth Mitchell, Gordon McGinn, Norman Harper, Peter Douglas and George Blair.

Following the boys came the girls exhibition of dancing. The Highland Fling—nicely done by four little girls in Highland kilts—Frances Brooks, Ledia Zardo, Jacqueline Longworth and Jennette Kellow; and the Sailor's Hornpipe also nicely performed by Lilybell Kellow, Dorothy Lang, Iris Zardo, June Allen, Clara Hocking and Joan Mitchell—all appropriately attired in navy with white caps.

Following carols by the Senior choir, "O Little Town of Bethlehem"; "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear"; "O Come all ye Faithful" and "Holy Night"—came the operetta, "An Hour in Fairyland."

The highlights of this little production were the costumes of the players. The mothers did an excellent job of the flower costumes—the little Daisies, Violets, Bluebells, Buttercups and Roses in particular being very flowerlike and they made the ensemble a work of art. The little players too were very confident, and knew their parts well. It was as pretty a small operetta as we have seen, and worthy of being produced on a larger stage to a more extensive audience.

The singing too was excellent, the tunes catchy and the voices soft and sweet. The Fairy Queen was Patricia Andrews. The two mortals who fell asleep and woke in Fairyland, and who could only cause the queen to be happy by assuring her that they would tell all the other children that there were fairies and that "If you believe in Fairies, the Fairies believe in you"—were Irde Zardo and George Mitchell.

The Fairy Messenger (who spoke very clearly, and did her part surprisingly well) was Diane Dunne. Attendants to the Queen—Janet LaRonde and Olive Chevrier.

Gerald Proulx was the Chariot Attendant, and the Fairies—Hilda Grant, Jeannette Kellow, Phyllis Kellow, Janet Proulx, Ledia Zardo, Jacqueline Longworth, Mary Ann Mawhinney, Sabino Gatto, Sheila Robinson.

Evening Breezes (costumed in green with rustling paper streamers which gave the sound of breezes as they danced)—Dorothy Lang, Iris Zardo, Magdalene Smith, Joan Mitchell.

Daisies—Dorla Crawford, Helen Lively, Margaret Robson, Corinne Collins, Kathia Davis, Gwendolyn Mitchell, Marie Warne, Jean Mawhinney.

Buttercups: Nancy Hutchinson, Roberta Connelly, Ruth Lively and May Whyte.

Bluebells: Rummy Bradley, Marilyn Chapman, Delina Jones, Barbara Ann Buckley.

Roses: Corinne Kellow, Mary Bird, Margaret Mawhinney, Myrna McMurray.

Violets: Marlene Allen, Diane Hills, Marian Sharp, Shirley Lever.

Cat-tails: Jerry Lever, Bruce McCaffrey, Fank Zardo, Bill Reid, Billy Pelkie, Jack Baxter, Glen Alan Weyer, Raymond Proctor, Dean Jones, Gerald Murray.

Chorus—Clara Hocking, Joan Hocking, Ken Mitchell, Norman Harper, June Allen, Lilybell Kellow, Myrtle McGinn, Esther Proulx, Peter Douglas, Frances Brooks, Mary Mitchell, Ronald Lively, John Scott, Joyce McGinn, Aline Bishop, Jacqueline Bishop, Violet Jones, Evelyn Robinson, Sylvia Williams, Harold Beard.

The scenery (back drop) of this little play should be specially mentioned. It was Fairyland flowers and grasses and water nicely drawn and painted by Lilybell Kellow, June Allen and Doris Kellow.

Musical Directress—Miss Winter. Costumes and Dances—Miss Smith, Miss McMunn, Miss Dean.

Dialogue and Stage Directress—Miss M. Lynch.

Annual Christmas Free Schumacher Fire Department

Other Items of Interest from Schumacher and District.

Schumacher, Dec. 22nd. Special to The Advance.

The annual Christmas tree of the Schumacher Fire Department was held Friday evening in the fire hall. The large Christmas tree erected in the centre of the hall was beautiful, with its red and green decorations and multi-coloured lights. There was a pleasing aspect it was to see the firemen, their wives and families, all gathered round the tree, sitting, singing the beautiful Christmas carols and many old familiar songs, with Mrs. Jack Marshall, accompanying at the piano. The highlight of the evening was when they were all sitting singing a lovely Christmas carol and there was a knock at the door. When Fire Chief Jucksch answered the door, who should it be but Santa Claus. Well, what excitement among the children, and as he presented each one of them with a gift he shook hands with them for he knew all their names. He also had gifts for the men and women and some special gifts were given. Mr. Herb Miller, Third Ave., played the role of Santa Claus exceedingly well. A programme was arranged for the young people, with little Eileen Lampkin as master of ceremonies. She also delighted the company with some very clever dance numbers.
